Winter Unleashes New Arctic Blast

By DEAN LORIKEN
Associated Press Writer

The winter of '77 hit the East, Midwest and parts of the South with a new arctic cold blast today as already critical natural gas shortages forced more closings of schools and factories.

The entire school system of Pennsylvania was shut down by Gov. Milton Shapp so that nattural gas could be shifted to industries. State officials said the state's 2.8 million public and parochial students may be out for longer than the three days already scheduled.

Pennsylvania and Ohio got a taste of the renewed cold front as the new arctic storm moved down from Canada Wednesday night and dropped temperatures by as much as 20 degrees in three hours.

Colder air swept through the Ohio valley, the Great Lakes and the Appalachians, accompanied by strong winds and snow. Snow and blowing snow reduced visibilities to near zero over several parts of northern Michigan. Gusts of over 60 miles per hour were recorded in eastern Ohio, and snow and blowing snow reached into New York and Pennsylvania.

Temperatures fell below zero from the eastern Dakotas to Michigan, and were just above zero across the southern Great Lakes region and the northern part of the Ohio valley. Combined with the strong winds, those temperatures seemed like 30 to 40 below, and were headed for the northern and middle Atlantic states.

Still another very cold air mass over central Canada was headed for the northern plains and was expected to reinforce the frigid temperatures in the Midwest by Friday.

Temperatures plunged elsewhere in the Midwest and East Coast freeze belt as winds gusting up to 60 miles per hour pushed the frigid air mass into the nation.

And the National Weather Service reported Wednesday that there appears to be no long-term warming trend in sight. The service forecast lower than normal temperatures over much of the East for at least the next two weeks.

Earlier Wednesday, President Carter asked Congress for emergency authority to transfer natural gas to areas with the worst shortages. His proposal also would allow interstate pipelines to make emergency gas sales to interstate pipelines at unregulated prices until July 31.

Carter told a news conference that natural gas shortages due to the cold have closed some 4,000 plants and forced layoffs of an estimated 400,000 people and are now threatening those who use natural gas to heat their homes. House leaders said they would speed hearings and predicted legislation could be on the House floor by Tuesday.

The move could raise the monthly gas bills of natural gas consumers, but administration officials said the increases probably would be small.

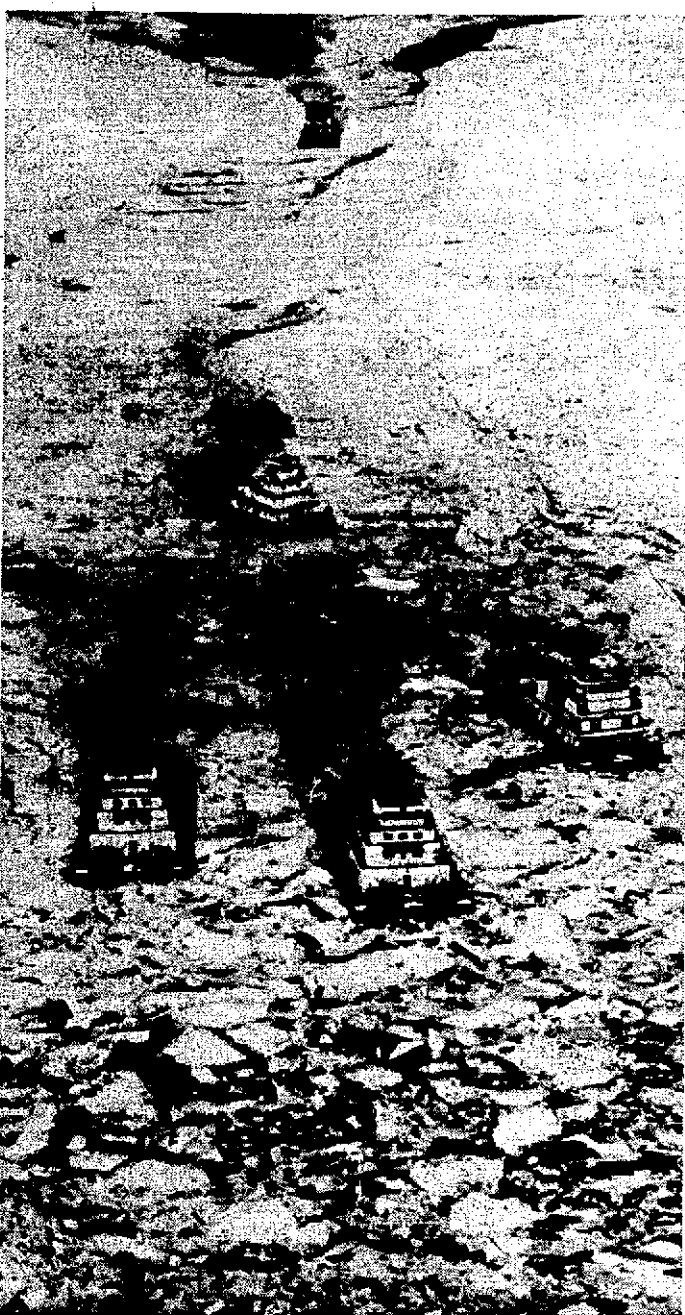

Carter also renewed his appeal for Americans to lower their thermostats to 65 degrees by day and lower at night, although an aide said later that the President did not want people to break any local or state laws that mandate higher temperatures.

And, there were indications last week's freeze in Florida was forcing up prices of groceries in many areas of the nation.

An Associated Press spot check showed prices zooming for tomatoes, onions, lettuce, oranges and corn. A package of

'Anniversary' Snowstorm Has Area Reeling Again

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm & Features Editor

On the anniversary of the Great Snowstorm of 1967, the winter of 1977 put on an anniversary performance that left southwestern Michigan seriously crippled this morning.

The snowfall was not nearly so great as a decade ago, but 25 to 40 mile an hour winds churned some 2 to 4 inches of snow into blinding curtains across roads during the rush hour traffic periods late Wednesday. And by this morning, numerous roads were plugged by tight drifts during the night.

From the high 30s Wednesday morning, the mercury broke sharply colder in the afternoon and continued to skid to around the zero mark early this morning.

Police agencies of the area, through local radio stations, urged drivers to stay home last night and again this morning.

As far as could be determined, all schools in Berrien, Van Buren, Cass and Allegan counties were closed today by the weather.

A truck driver was killed, when he his vehicle went off of I-94 near Watervliet about 4 a.m. today.

Berrien county sheriff's department and the Michigan State Police reported a continuing rash of accidents as workers headed homeward in the late afternoon. Snow blowing across roadways frequently trimmed visibility to almost zero. Many of the accidents resulted from drivers losing their bearings in the blowing snow and either running into drifts that were beginning to edge out into the roadways or into existing snowbanks.

State police of the Benton Harbor post blocked off US-31-33 from Scottsdale to Berrien Springs about 4 p.m. as a rash of accidents developed in "whiteout" conditions. One of the accidents involved a chain reaction pile-up of six vehicles.

The US-31-33 trunkline was not reopened to traffic until around 6:30 this morning.

Zero visibility on Three Oaks road near Three Oaks led to another chain-reaction episode that left 21 autos damaged. An ambulance that was called skidded into a ditch close to the scene, according to a report received by the Berrien County Road commission.

Frank Rupe, chief engineer for the Berrien road commission, said the county snowplows were all pulled into their garages about 4 p.m. because they were fighting a losing battle against the blowing snow. Accident dumps and stalled autos also were seriously hampering the snowfighters. The road crewmen were sent home, Rupe said, and reported back for a drift-busting job at 4 a.m. today.

Most main roads were passable early this morning but a great many secondary roads were plugged. Rupe noted that snow fences put up to divert drifts from roadways now are almost useless because many of them were already completely covered over with snow. In fact, Rupe said, the snowbanks built up behind the fences are pushing drift traps out onto the roadways.

Paul Kaiser, manager of the Van Buren Road commission, reported about 50 per cent of the secondary roads in his county blocked by drifts this morning.

The Cass county sheriff's department estimated as many as 80 per cent of the secondary roads of that county blocked or reduced to one-lane of travel.

In Allegan county, the sheriff's department said most secondary roads were closed by drifts this morning.

In all counties, north-south roads were the hardest hit.

The wind, which hit velocities up to 40 and 45 miles an hour in the late afternoon and early evening, was from the west and slightly northwest as a new cold air mass shoved into the area.

Herbert Teichman, Eau Claire area fruit grower-weather observer, reported two inches of snow fell, and the

Blasts Rip Tanker; 15-20 Men Missing

BAYTOWN, Tex. (AP) — Three explosions rumbled through an 800-foot tanker early today as it took on a load of gasoline, heating oil and other fuels. Officials reported several persons were missing and several others were injured.

A witness estimated that 20 men were thrown or jumped into the Houston Shipping Channel as the explosions went off aboard the tanker Exxon San Francisco as it was being loaded at the giant Exxon refinery.

An Exxon spokesman said nine persons were injured. He said four of them were hospitalized and the others received first aid.

However, Civil Defense spokesman Glenn Walker said at least 17 persons were injured and 15 to 20 were unaccounted for. The company said an undetermined number of the normal crew of 30 to 40 men aboard the tanker was missing. The Coast Guard also said several persons were missing.

A Coast Guard spokesman said it appeared that a loading arm broke and spilled the fuel through the docks.

At that time, the commercial tugboat Nathan B started its engine, next to the tanker, and apparently a spark from the engine ignited the fuel vapors, the Coast Guard spokesman said.

"There were three men aboard the tug and apparently no one saw them jump before it sank," he said.

Flames quickly spread to the dock and then reached two nearby gasoline barges. Exxon personnel said the fire was nearly under control by daybreak.

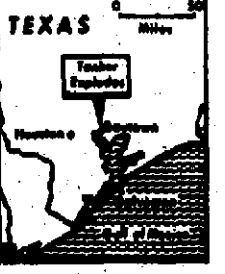

Several small craft joined two fireboats in searching the channel for the missing men.

"It was a rumbling type explosion and the tanker did not simply blow up," said one man who was in the area. The tanker has a capacity of about 21 million gallons, but it was not immediately known how much gasoline had been loaded.

Civil Defense personnel reported that 45 persons were evacuated from the area. Windows of several small homes were shattered.

The Exxon refinery in Baytown, 25 miles southeast of Houston, can process 400,000 barrels of crude oil a day and is being enlarged to handle 600,000.

The shipping channel connects Houston to the Gulf of Mexico.

Iowa Truck Driver Dies After Smashup On I-94

An Iowa truck driver was pronounced dead on arrival at Watervliet Community hospital early today after the semi-truck he was driving went off slippery I-94 and over an embankment at the Watervliet interchange, state police of the Benton Harbor post reported.

Troopers said the driver was pinned in the cab nearly an hour before he was freed by Watervliet firemen and ambulance attendants. Rich Quinn, chief of the Watervliet ambulance crew, said the driver was conscious when pulled from the wreckage.

Troopers identified the driver as Richard L. Johnson, 33, of Council Bluffs, Iowa. They said Johnson was driving a cab pulling two trailers loaded with beef bound for Detroit.

A passenger in the cab, Jack Lovestead, 26, of Omaha, Neb., escaped with cuts and bruises, troopers said, and was taken to Watervliet Community hospital. Troopers said it appeared the truck was traveling too fast for conditions. The accident was reported at 4 a.m.

The truck is registered to All-American trucking firm of Souix Falls, S.D., troopers said. Johnson is the third person to die this year as result of a highway traffic accident in Berrien county.

Pussy Willows Bloom, Bears Sweat In Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Pussy willows are blooming, natural gas companies are hurting and bears refuse to hibernate as unseasonably warm temperatures continue throughout south-central Alaska. "The bears are usually well into hibernation by now," said Jim Lund, a for spokesman the Alaska Children's Zoo, "but they haven't shown any signs of wanting to hibernate. The bears are definitely confused." Lund also said many of the animals have grown their winter coats and are uncomfortable in the unseasonably warm weather. Temperatures in recent days have neared 50 degrees.

Pussy willows are blooming near Cook Inlet, and residents of the state's most populous region are turning down their thermostats. Anchorage Natural Gas reports fuel consumption dipped 26 per cent in January. That's good for the consumer, but a bit rough for the gas companies. "It takes out all the profits and then some," said Merle Loop of Denali Fuel. "We'll be lucky to break even this year."

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

His Bedside Manner Came From The Heart

Dr. Clayton S. Emery of St. Joseph was a quiet man whose unfailing modesty tended to obscure the considerable scope of his contributions to the health care of the local community.

A general practitioner and obstetrician, Dr. Emery had practiced in St. Joseph 37 years when he retired in 1967. Including 10 years of earlier practice in Ohio, he had delivered more than 5,000 babies. He treated many, many times more patients than that while conducting a family practice that covered 24 hours a day from one end of the year to the other.

Dr. Emery was the son of a doctor, and one of his three sons is a doctor. While he brought all the skill of this great medical tradition to his patients, it was another quality that set him apart. He cured about people.

He was never too busy to take time to answer a myriad of questions: questions from frightened young women about to become mothers for the first time, from their worried husbands, from distraught parents, from depressed oldsters;

His reassuring presence may have been as good a tonic as any medicine he ever prescribed.

Dr. Emery died this week at the age of 82. Thousands of former patients in the Twin Cities area will long remember him as their healer and friend.

Increased Paychecks Can Be A Delusion

An American family whose income has increased over the last several years by cost-of-living adjustments designed to offset inflation might feel it is keeping abreast of rising costs. But for many, that feeling is an illusion. The reason is the progressive income tax and the higher tax brackets that family now faces.

The Advisory Commission of Intergovernmental Relations has taken a look at the situation and describes by example how it works. A family of four with a 1975 income of $10,000 could receive raises amounting to 22.5 per cent over a three-year period — enough to keep abreast of inflation — but it will be socked with a 58.7 per cent tax increase.

That same family over six years might be fortunate to increase its income by 40.3 per cent — again just enough to keep even with inflation. But its tax bill will go up 102 per cent.

What to do about this obvious inequity? Congress has been made aware of this situation numerous times in recent years, but so far has been reluctant to act. A number of other nations have taken the effect of inflation on tax rates into account, including Canada, France and the Netherlands.

The commission would like to see some of the deductible items such as personal exemptions, the standard deduction and tax credits, rise in step with the Consumer Price Index. That would help reduce the illusion that more but less valuable dollars is the way to circumvent inflation. Reducing inflation's erosion at the outset is a better way.

Holland Legislator Fights Own Pay Hike

State Rep. Edgar Fredricks, R-Holland, has gone the limit with his protest against the pay raise Michigan legislators voted for themselves late last year.

Absent from the House last Dec. 17 when the House passed the appropriations bill containing the raise, Fredricks, a sharp critic of excess government spending, has now sponsored a resolution that would still wipe out the hike for the legislators.

The legislators voted themselves the raise recommended by the State Officers Compensation commission: a jump from $19,000 to $22,500 beginning this past Jan. 1, and going up again in 1978 to $24,000.

Fredricks recognized that his resolution to throw the raise back might not be overwhelmed with support from other legislators. But he said an editorial in the Herald-Palladium "reinforced his position."

A Herald-Palladium editorial Dec. 23 had suggested that since Fredricks wasn't on the public record for or against the raise when the appropriation bill was passed, he still had an opportunity to take a stand on the raise by way of a resolution of rejection.

Fredricks said he was preparing to do that even before the editorial was brought to his attention.

In fact, Fredricks used the resolution tactic in 1975, in a fruitless attempt to turn back a raise for the legislators that year.

His resolution to reject the pay raise, which went into effect on Jan. 1, is in the House Policy committee, the same place it died two years ago.

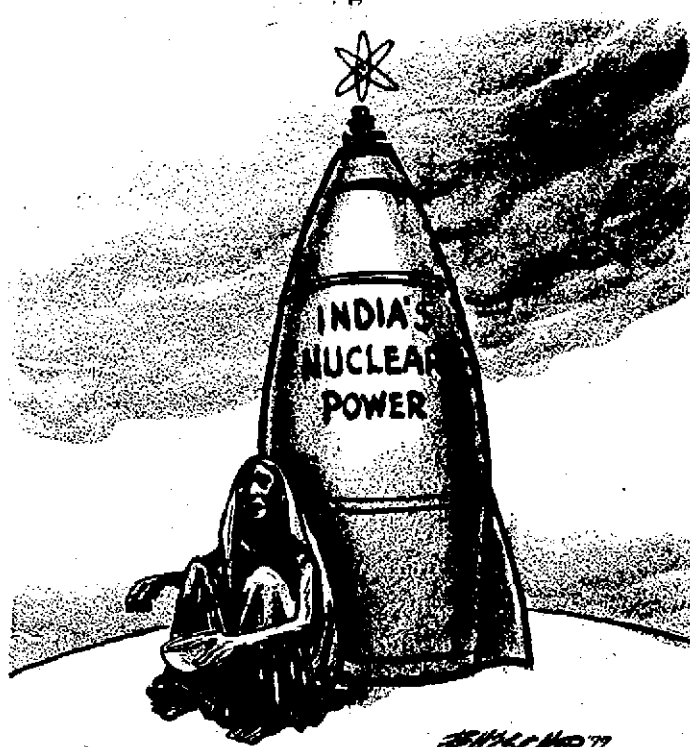

He said he will move yet this week to have the resolution discharged from committee and sent to the House floor for a vote. It would take a two-thirds vote to pass the resolution in the House, and Fredricks has been begging fellow legislators for enough support just for a roll call vote, which requires only one-fifth of the members present.

Fredricks' 54th district covers South Haven city, much of Allegan county and a thin slice of southern Ottawa county. His constituents couldn't ask for better representation than he's giving them on the pay issue.

I&M Manager Explains Winter Plant Shutdowns

Editor, When Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. shut down its Donald C. Cook nuclear plant for refueling at the end of December, a number of letters were received from disturbed customers stating the shutdown was ridiculous at a time when customers' power requirements were greatest. Some newspaper editorials were also critical of the refueling schedule.

We realize that the timing of the refueling operation which takes the plant out of service nearly two months may seem ill advised, but the shutdown was unavoidable. It simply comes down to the fact that when you run out of fuel, you can't operate a plant.

What happens is that the fuel assemblies in the center of the reactor core are consumed much faster than the others and therefore must be replaced every 12 to 13 months of operation at full load. Under normal operations, the plant would have come down in September for reload. During refueling the assemblies in the center are removed and placed in a holding tank. The others are moved to the center and the new fuel is placed around the perimeter.

Cook Unit 1 went into commercial service in August 1975.

The result, of course, was that I&M had to purchase more power from outside sources. Fortunately, this power was available but at a price considerably more than our own generation. In the future this power may not be available at any price.

In late January the first of four generating units at I&M's Tanners Creek Plant on the Ohio River at Lawrenceburg was removed from service so the giant electrostatic precipitator could be attached to the system. Once again, the timing of this operation, which takes from four to eight weeks for each unit, might also appear less than well thought out.

The question might be asked at this point, why install these facilities at this time, or at all for that matter?

Electrostatic precipitators, which remove 90.7 percent of the dust particles from the combustion gases, are being built to meet Indiana Air Pollution Control Board standards. The first unit is being shut down now so that it can be in operation by the end of March, the agreed upon deadline. The other three units have deadlines of May, July and December.

As the units go out of service throughout the year for the precipitator installations, power will have to be purchased from outside sources to make up the difference.

Rates will no doubt have to be adjusted when the installation is completed to reflect the tremendous investment required to meet the air quality standards, and later by the addition of new generating facilities to offset the amount of electricity necessary to operate the precipitators. About 50,000 kilowatts of electricity will be required to operate and maintain them, and this is electricity that will not be available for use by customers.

after several months of test operation at less than capacity and then was not authorized by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to increase output to 100 percent or full power until June 1976. Because of the delay in getting the plant to full production, the original refueling schedule was pushed ahead and unfortunately fell during the winter's coldest period.

Decatur — The First Presbyterian church will be host to the Western Michigan Presbytery, Monday evening, Jan. 28, and all day Tuesday, Jan. 29, in honor of the centennial of the local church, which was organized on Feb. 1, 1852. A feature of the evening will be the presentation of a gavel to the incoming moderator, a layman from Sturgis, Leland C. Brubaker. This gavel, a commemorative token of the 100th anniversary of the Decatur church, has been made by Elder Charles Bisel of the Decatur church, from wood which had been used in the local church building which burned in 1917.

Carter Vagueness Worries Business

WASHINGTON — President Jimmy Carter and his opponents agree that regardless of the size or shape of government job programs, unemployment can be reduced significantly only if business booms.

Business expansion, in turn, depends on confidence and a degree of certainty. Few businessmen invest their money or try new ideas, unless they have some reasonable picture of what lies just ahead.

During the presidential campaign, the Carter vagueness was taken as strategy devised to alienate no one. But the vagueness on critical details continues — on programs he has announced with some latitude.

Mr. Carter's vagueness makes one wonder if he will be able to gain control over the vast federal bureaucracy which has over the years acquired so much power over business and industry, and which has such power to affect the economy.

The problem is the laws written by Congress are so contradictory and so loose in language that most decisions on what the laws shall mean in practice are increasingly made by bureaucrats not accountable to the public. Many of these men and women are buried so deep in their bureaus and so insulated by regulations, they are in practice responsible to no one for their mistakes, however disastrous.

The growing power of men and women who cannot be held responsible is making it more and more difficult to predict what the government will do next. The resulting uncertainty makes private decision-makers exceedingly cautious about taking chances in building the new factories, buying the new equipment and expanding old ventures on the scale needed to increase jobs sufficiently to bring unemployment down to reasonable levels in the near future.

To quote a recent newsletter of the First National Bank of Chicago: "Increasing government involvement in business decisions, combined with frequent change of government officials, means that it has become quite difficult for businessmen to make investment plans that stretch beyond the next election. An action that is perfectly legal and apparently profitable at the time it is implemented — solely because of an administrative ruling that changes the basic rules of the game."

It is, of course, this dampening effect the federal bureaucracy has on economic recovery which makes Mr. Carter's promise of reorganization so appealing.

More than the tax dollars saved it would, if successful, do more than anything this reporter has seen yet to restore the confidence required for businesses, large and small, to plan imaginatively for the future.

But one gets no confidence these days from Mr. Carter's apparent ignorance of facts concerning the government he plans to reform.

Equally discouraging is the cold reception Mr. Carter has received in his informal requests to Congress for reorganization powers.

As of now it appears that uncertainty will continue — and that businessmen will go slow and unemployment decline at an exceedingly slow pace.

Was Hauptmann Really Guilty?

On the capital punishment issue, this column has been casting a reluctant vote in the affirmative, on the grounds that some crimes are so heinous they deserve the death penalty.

By an odd coincidence, even as the four bullets were hitting Gary Gilmore, I was in the process of reading a shocking new book that has forced me to re-examine that affirmative vote.

No one doubts that Gilmore committed those murders, for one of which he was executed. The trouble is, however, that no one — certainly not I — has doubted that Bruno Richard Hauptmann was guilty in the kidnap death of the Lindbergh baby.

From the discovery of the ransom money through the analysis of the wood in the kidnap ladder to the positive identification by several witnesses, the case against Hauptmann seemed perfect. He died in the electric chair on April 3, 1936.

Now comes Anthony Scaduto with his book "Scapegoat." Scaduto, a former crime reporter, presents convincing and shocking evidence that all of the key elements in the case against Hauptmann were either mistakes or else fabrications on the part of the authorities. A few salient points:

1. On the day of the kidnapping, March 1, 1932, Hauptmann, a carpenter, claimed to have been working on a construction job. Police and prosecutors possessed employment records proving Hauptmann's claims, which Scaduto discovered in old police files. These were suppressed. Other records were tampered with to show that Hauptmann had not worked on the job until March 21.

2. One always wondered about that kidnap ladder. Why would a master carpenter produce such an amateurish piece of work? Nevertheless, a so-called wood expert testified that some of the wood in the ladder had come from the floor of Hauptmann's attic. Scaduto shows that the supposedly matching grain does not match.

3. An incriminating phone number was discovered written on a board in Hauptmann's home. It turns out to have been written there after Haupt-mann's arrest by a newspaper reporter anxious to headline a new "clue."

4. An FBI agent perjured himself and the FBI suppressed documentary evidence tending to support crucial features of Hauptmann's story, particularly his claim that the ransom money found in his garage had been given to him for safe-keeping by a friend named Isador Fisch, who was supposed to have stolen money from Hauptmann.

5. So-called handwriting experts helped convict Hauptmann by comparing the ransom notes with writing samples. The New Jersey police apparently gave Hauptmann "models" to copy, misspellings and all, to provide "evidence" against him at the trial.

6. Police laboratories contained a lot of evidence favorable to Hauptmann. The portion of the ransom money found in his garage, for example, was shown by tests to have existed in a different environment from that of other ransom money being passed. All this laboratory evidence was suppressed.

7. Dr. John Condon, whose positive identification of Hauptmann as "John," to whom he had passed the ransom money in a cemetery, at first had been unable to pick Hauptmann out of a police lineup.

What Scaduto's book means to me is that the burden now falls upon the advocates of capital punishment to show that now, 44 years later, we have the procedural safeguards necessary to prevent any possible scandalous miscarriage of justice.

In view of the difficulty experienced in executing even the obviously guilty Gilmore, perhaps we have then — but I am not altogether convinced of that.

His Bedside Manner Came From The Heart

Dr. Clayton S. Emery of St. Joseph was a quiet man whose unflinching modesty tended to obscure the considerable scope of his contributions to the health care of the local community.

A general practitioner and obstetrician, Dr. Emery had practiced in St. Joseph 37 years when he retired in 1967. Including 10 years of earlier practice in Ohio, he had delivered more than 5,000 babies. He treated many, many times more patients than that while conducting a family practice that covered 24 hours a day from one end of the year to the other.

Dr. Emery was the son of a doctor, and one of his three sons is a doctor. While he brought all the skill of this great medical tradition to his patients, it was another quality that set him apart. He cared about people.

He was never too busy to take time to answer a myriad of questions: questions from frightened young women about to become mothers for the first time, from their worried husbands, from distraught parents, from depressed oldsters.

His reassuring presence may have been as good a tonic as any medicine he ever prescribed.

Dr. Emery died this week at the age of 82. Thousands of former patients in the Twin Cities area will long remember him as their healer and friend.

Increased Paychecks Can Be A Delusion

An American family whose income has increased over the last several years by cost-of-living adjustments designed to offset inflation might feel it is keeping abreast of rising costs. But for many, that feeling is an illusion. The reason is the progressive income tax and the higher tax brackets that family now faces.

The Advisory Commission of Intergovernmental Relations has taken a look at the situation and describes by example how it works. A family of four with a 1975 income of $10,000 could receive raises amounting to 22.5 per cent over a three-year period — enough to keep abreast of inflation — but it will be socked with a 58.7 per cent tax increase.

That same family over six years might be fortunate to increase its income by 40.3 per cent — again just enough to keep even with inflation. But its tax bill will go up 102 per cent.

What to do about this obvious inequity? Congress has been made aware of this situation numerous times in recent years, but so far has been reluctant to act. A number of other nations have taken the effect of inflation on tax rates into account, including Canada, France and the Netherlands.

The commission would like to see some of the deductible items such as personal exemptions, the standard deduction and tax credits, rise in step with the Consumer Price Index. That would help reduce the illusion that more but less valuable dollars is the way to circumvent inflation. Reducing inflation's erosion at the outset is a better way.

I&M Manager Explains Winter Plant Shutdowns

Editor,

When Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. shut down its Donald C. Cook nuclear plant for refueling at the end of December, a number of letters were received from disturbed customers stating the shutdown was ridiculous at a time when customers' power requirements were greatest. Some newspaper editorials were also critical of the refueling schedule.

We realize that the timing of the refueling operation which takes the plant out of service nearly two months may seem ill advised, but the shutdown was unavoidable. It simply comes down to the fact that when you run out of fuel, you can't operate a plant.

What happens is that the fuel assemblies in the center of the reactor core are consumed much faster than the others and therefore must be replaced every 12 to 13 months of operation at full load. Under normal operations, the plant would have come down in September for reload. During refueling the assemblies in the center are removed and placed in a holding tank. The others are moved to the center and the new fuel is placed around the perimeter.

Cook Unit 1 went into commercial service in August 1975

The result, of course, was that I&M had to purchase more power from outside sources. Fortunately, this power was available but at a price considerably more than our own generation. In the future this power may not be available at any price.

In late January the first of four generating units at I&M's Tanners Creek Plant on the Ohio River at Lawrenceburg was removed from service so the giant electrostatic precipitator could be attached to the system. Once again, the timing of this operation, which takes from four to eight weeks for each unit, might also appear less than well thought out.

The question might be asked at this point, why install these facilities at this time, or at all for that matter?

Electrostatic precipitators, which remove 99.7 percent of the dust particles from the combustion gases, are being built to meet Indiana Air Pollution Control Board standards. The first unit is being shut down now so that it can be in operation by the end of March, the agreed upon deadline. The other three units have deadlines of May, July and December.

As the units go out of service throughout the year for the precipitator installations, power will have to be purchased from outside sources to make up the difference.

Rates will no doubt have to be adjusted when the installation is completed to reflect the tremendous investment required to meet the air quality standards, and later by the addition of new generating facilities to offset the amount of electricity necessary to operate the precipitators. About 50,000 kilowatts of electricity will be required to operate and maintain them, and this is electricity that will not be available for use by customers.

Last November I&M announced it was filing a series of applications for permits and other approvals required for after several months of test operation at less than capacity and then was not authorized by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to increase output to 100 percent or full power until June 1976. Because of the delay in getting the plant to full production, the original refueling schedule was pushed ahead and unfortunately fell during the winter's coldest period.

Non-Paying ADC Dad Hit By Crackdown

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Berrien Circuit court judges and the friend of the court's office are engaged in a crackdown on fathers who fail to make a single child support payment, although the arrearage may be small. A Benton Harbor man learned about the crackdown the hard way this week when he was sentenced to 10 days in jail for each of the nine months in which he has failed to make a support payment.

David L. Smith, of 511 Heck court, Benton Harbor, got 90 days in jail from Judge William S. White for $208 arrearage for one child on ADC, according to Edward Pastrick, special investigator for the friend of the court's office. Smith was also held in contempt of court and placed on two years probation. Pastrick said Smith has not made a support payment since the payment order started.

Pastrick said the crackdown is part of an overall program under Friend of the Court George Westfield to get fathers who haven't made payments into court before the arrearages get too big.

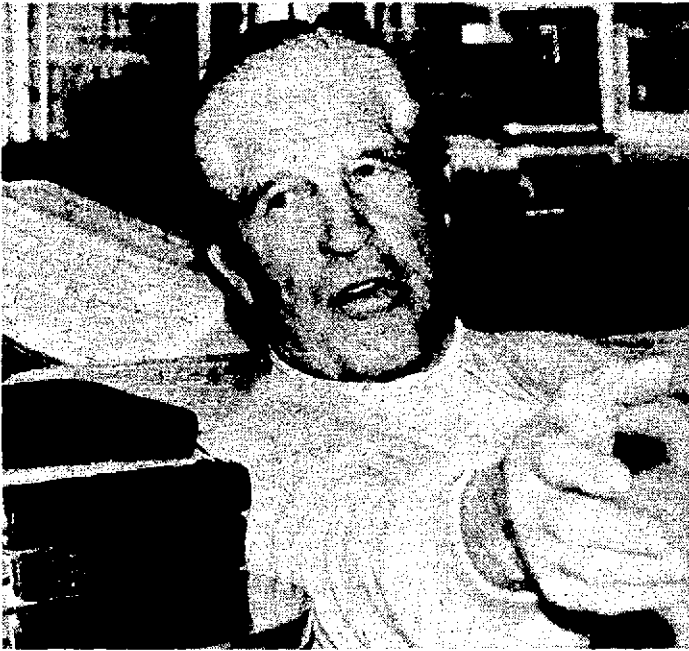

In other cases before White, Pastrick reported: Carl Martin, of Niles, got two years probation and two weekends in jail for $2,140 arrearage for two ADC children, and was ordered to sign a wage assignment of $22 weekly support and $10 weekly on the arrearage. Charles Williams, of 1070 LaVette street, Benton Harbor, was placed on two years probation for $2,013 arrearage for one child not on ADC and told to sign a wage assignment of $20 weekly support and $7.50 each week on the arrearage. Williams was also warned that if two payments are missed he'll spend 90 days in jail.

Sammy Blanks, of 1320 Red Arrow highway, Benton township, got two years probation for $635 arrearage for one child not on ADC, and was told to pay $5 support each week until he gets a job. Blanks was also threatened with a 90-day jail term if two payments are missed. Blanks received the same sentence for two other cases involving $1,588 arrearage for one ADC child and $1,544 arrearage for another child not on ADC. Pastrick said support payments on the last case are $2.50 per week.

In cases before Judge Chester J. Byrns: Ellsworth Wilson, Jr., of 2351 East Britain avenue, Benton township, got two years probation for $4,956 arrearage for three children not on ADC. He was also told to find work by March 7 and sign a wage assignment based on his earnings plus $5 on the arrearage or spend 90 days in jail. Byrns also ordered Wilson to pay $30 per week in support, while unemployed. Timothy Mervine, of 771 Peterson, Niles, was sentenced to two years probation for $775 arrearage for one child on ADC, and told to find employment by Feb. 28 or spend 90 days in jail.

ROMNEY REFLECTS: Former Michigan governor and former director of Housing and Urban Development George Romney reflects on the similarities between himself and President Carter, even though the two represent different political parties. U.S. Rule By Lobbies Depressing To Romney

By DONALD WOUTAT
Associated Press Writer
BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — "Very idealistic," said George Romney, clicking off the television set that had just brought Jimmy Carter's inaugural address into his suburban Detroit home.

But Romney, 69, whose hair nearly matches the blanket of snow on the rolling golf course nearby, suggests that it might not make much difference these days who's president or how good his ideals.

Special interest groups — labor, industry, teachers and the like — virtually run the country for their own selfish purposes and nobody's speaking on behalf of the nation, he said in an interview.

"That's the dominant force in Washington today, not the political parties," he said. "And it's that alliance that thwarts presidents in doing things."

Through the 1950's, Romney, an outspokenly religious Mormon, preached the need for spiritual principles. He streamlined Michigan government as governor, made racial breakthroughs in housing as secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and called for grass-roots involvement of citizens in government. He also tried to become president.

Last week, he watched as Carter — whom he called "an enigma" — reached the presidency from a pulpit similar to Romney's. The parallels between the two men extend to suspected surpluses of self-confidence — and even to campaign gaffes.

When Carter made his ill-advised "ethnic purity" remark last fall, a short news dispatch had Romney voicing sympathy for the Democratic candidate.

Jimmy Carter, however, never admitted to being brainwashed.

Romney remains proud of the choice of words in 1967 that is widely credited with sinking his once-buoyant presidential candidacy. He said he'd been "brainwashed" by the U.S. military into supporting the Vietnam war. Five months later he withdrew from the race, leaving the stage to Richard Nixon.

Today he feels vindicated by subsequent events, and he jokes about it.

"Having taken a position that was right, and at a time when it could only be damaging from a political standpoint, I'm glad I took it," he said.

"And I'm glad I took it in a way sufficiently dramatic so that people haven't forgotten it," he said, laughing at the understatement.

Today, the telegenic multimillionaire who launched his public career in 1962 from the chairmanship of American Motors is on the fringe of the action — by choice.

Michigan Republicans still plead with him to run for office, as Utah Republicans did unsuccessfully in 1974.

Romney turned up with his customary vigor on the campaign trail last fall. He questioned the morality of the successful Michigan Democratic senatorial candidate, Donald Riegle, and blasted him as "unstable."

But Romney subordinates his political role these days, convinced that both political parties have been usurped by special interest groups. The Republican party is in only slightly worse shape than the Democratic party, he says.

The future, he believes, is in non-profit, non-governmental "volunteerism" and in the citizens uprising he would like to

Work Begins On 2 Berrien Projects

The Berrien county board of public works (BPW) Wednesday learned construction has started on two long-awaited projects in the south part of the county.

BPW Director Robert Barnes reported the construction firm for both projects has begun laying of pipe for the Lake township water distribution system and the Chikaming township sewage collection system.

He said Woodruff and Sons Construction Co. of Michigan City began construction in Chikaming township on Jan. 19

and on Monday in Lake township.

The $5 million Lake township project is to expand the township's water system to enable 90 per cent of the township to receive potable water and fire protection, Barnes noted. He said the construction involves laying about 45 miles of pipe and completion is expected in the fall.

He also told board members Woodruff has started breaking ground and laying pipe for the $6 million Chikaming collection system, which he estimated would be completed in January, 1978.

The Chikaming project is the last of the $20 million Gallien River Sanitary district to get underway because of hassles with the bidding process. The entire system will serve Chikaming and New Buffalo townships and the City of New Buffalo with collection systems, an interceptor, and treatment plant.

Barnes said there is currently no construction going on for the New Buffalo city and township phases because of the weather, but that "progress has been good but slow." He added most of the work in the city has been completed, although some work is still needed on the interceptor, and the New Buffalo township collection system "is well approaching completion."

He estimated portions of the entire system will be finished by this time next year.

Mine Workers Recalled

WHITE PINE, Mich. (AP) — Some 100 laid-off workers were recalled Wednesday to their jobs at the White Pine Copper Co., the Western Upper Peninsula's largest employer. Company officials said the recall of employees laid off since November or December would permit the mine to raise its daily production from 6,000 tons to 9,000 tons. The recall brought the workforce to 1,430. Some 1,000 workers remain on indefinite layoffs.

Berrien's Jobless Picture Brightens

BY RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

Although Berrien county's unemployment rate stood at 10.2 per cent last December, the number of people holding jobs increased by 2,400 and the number of unemployed decreased by 3,400 from December, 1975.

The statistics were compiled by the Michigan Employment Securities commission.

The commission report says Berrien's 10.2 per cent unemployment rate for December is 1 per cent higher than November's 10.1 per cent unemployment rate.

Berrien's unemployment rate for December was below the 14.7 per cent rate reported for December, 1975. The commission also reported Berrien county's civilian labor force last month was 1,000 smaller than in December, 1975. Berrien county's civilian labor force in December was listed at 72,400 compared to 73,400 in December, 1975.

Siljander Named On 5 Committees

LANSING — State Rep. Mark Siljander of the 42nd district has been named to five house committees. The committees are state affairs, social services, labor, consumers and roads and bridges. Siljander, a Republican from Three Rivers, is serving his first term in the state legislature.

Berrien county's 10.2 per cent unemployment rate compares to a national average unemployment rate of 7.9 per cent for December.

The report shows 65,000 people employed in Berrien last month, compared to 62,600 in December, 1975. The number of unemployed was 7,400 last December and 10,800 in December, 1975.

In a job breakdown, the report lists 24,300 people employed in manufacturing industries in December, compared to 23,100 in December, 1975. Non-manufacturing industries employed 27,100 in December, compared to 25,900 December, 1975. Government (federal, state and local) employed 9,000 in December, compared to 8,900 in December, 1975.

Are Unemployed Seeking Jobs?

BY NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

There is "no way" for the Michigan Employment Security Commission to know if the 300,000 people drawing unemployment benefits this week are actually seeking work, failing to determine that people drawing unemployment compensation are actually seeking work.

Roundtable members, many of them personnel directors of Berrien companies, complained that unemployment benefits are the state is $89. The highest possible benefits are $136. Taylor said that isn't too high. People can draw unemployment for 65 weeks, he said.

"There are people who abuse every system, but the vast majority of the people don't."

20 other states face the same situation of an indebted trust fund, and the employers will have to pay higher state and federal unemployment taxes to get the fund back into the black, Taylor told the audience.

Efforts are being made to pass legislation to have the debts "forgiven" and the funds reimbursed by the federal government, so "the financial burden of the recession will be born by the federal government," he said.

Surveying the economic outlook for this year, Taylor said he looks for a "slightly better year." Last year's average state unemployment rate of 10.1 per cent should drop to 8.7 or 8.8 per cent, he said.

Taylor urged personnel managers to stop complaining about MESC and instead become more familiar with MESC rules and the act itself. "This year we'll collect $750,000,000 from you, so know that law," he said.

Taylor, an attorney, has been director of the MESC since 1971. The commission's governing body is composed of four people who appoint the director.

the MESC director said last night.

S. Martin Taylor, director, said MESC would have to triple its number of employees to check the honesty of recipients, who will get about $25 million this week. The third largest department in Michigan, MESC distributes tax money collected from businesses to the unemployed.

Taylor spoke last night before some 40 members of the Southwestern Michigan Personnel Roundtable at St. Joseph Holiday Inn. Some of the members criticized MESC for too high and can be collected for too long a time.

Some of the personnel directors charged the system encourages people to stay unemployed, and one member of the audience called the department the Michigan "Unemployment" Security Commission.

Taylor pointed out that the law creating MESC, the recession and U.S. Congressional action that extended benefit periods are responsible for most of the faults.

During his speech, Taylor documented the draining of the state unemployment compensation's trust fund, which held $580 million at the end of 1973 and is now $571 million in debt.

The fund was emptied during the recession, he said. At the end of 1973, about 65,000 Michigan people were drawing unemployment compensation, according to Taylor. By mid-1975, 572,000 people were drawing benefits; 300,000 people are recipients today.

Non-Paying ADC Dad Hit By Crackdown

Berrien Circuit court judges and the friend of the court's office are engaged in a crackdown on fathers who fail to make a single child support payment, although the arrearage may be small. A Benton Harbor man learned about the crackdown the hard way this week when he was sentenced to 10 days in jail for each of the nine months in which he has failed to make a support payment.

David L. Smith, of 511 Heck court, Benton Harbor, got 90 days in jail from Judge William S. White for $266 arrears for one child on ADC, according to Edward Pastrick, special investigator for the friend of the court's office. Smith was also held in contempt of court and placed on two years probation. Pastrick said Smith has not made a support payment since the payment order started.

Pastrick said the crackdown is part of an overall program under Friend of the Court George Westfield to get fathers who haven't made payments into court before the arrearages get too big.

In other cases before White, Pastrick reported: Carl Martin, of Niles, got two years probation and two weekends in jail for $2,140 arrears for two ADC children, and was ordered to sign a wage assignment of $22 weekly support and $10 weekly on the arrearage. Charles Williams, of 1070 LaVette street, Benton Harbor, was placed on two years probation for $2,013 arrears for one child not on ADC and told to sign a wage assignment of $20 weekly support and $7.50 each week on the arrearage. Williams was also warned that if two payments are missed he'll spend 90 days in jail.

Sammy Blanks, of 1520 Red Arrow highway, Benton township, got two years probation for $935 arrears for one child not on ADC, and was told to pay $5 support each week until he gets a job. Blanks was also threatened with a 90-day jail term if two payments are missed. Blanks received the same sentence for two other cases involving $1,568 arrears for one ADC child and $1,344 arrears for another child not on ADC. Pastrick said support payments on the last case are $2.50 per week.

In cases before Judge Chester J. Byrns: Ellsworth Wilson, Jr., of 2351 East Britain avenue, Benton township, got two years probation for $4,956 arrears for three children not on ADC. He was also told to find work by March 7 and sign a wage assignment based on his earnings plus $5 on the arrears or spend 30 days in jail. Byrns also ordered Wilson to pay $30 per week in support while unemployed. Timothy Mervine, of 771 Peterson, Niles, was sentenced to two years probation for $775 arrears for one child on ADC, and told to find employment by Feb. 28 or spend 30 days in jail.

U.S. Rule By Lobbies Depressing To Romney

By DONALD WOUTAT
Associated Press Writer

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — "Very idealistic," said George Romney, clicking off the television set that had just brought Jimmy Carter's inaugural address into his suburban Detroit home.

But Romney, 69, whose hair nearly matches the blanket of snow on the rolling golf course nearby, suggests that it might not make much difference these days who's president or how good his ideals.

Special interest groups — labor, industry, teachers and the like — virtually run the country for their own selfish purposes and nobody's speaking on behalf of the nation, he said in an interview.

"That's the dominant force in Washington today, not the political parties," he said. "And it's that alliance that thwarts presidents in doing things."

Through the 1960's, Romney, an outspokenly-religious Mormon, preached the need for spiritual principles. He streamlined Michigan government as governor, made racial breakthroughs in housing as secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and called for grass-roots involvement of citizens in government. He also tried to become president.

Last week, he watched as Carter — whom he called "an enigma" — reached the presidency from a pulpit similar to Romney's. The parallels between the two men extend to suspected surpluses of self-confidence — and even to campaign gaffes.

When Carter made his ill-advised "ethnic purity" remark last fall, a short news dispatch had Romney voicing sympathy for the Democratic candidate.

Jimmy Carter, however, never admitted to being brainwashed.

Romney remains proud of the choice of words in 1967 that is widely credited with sinking his once-buoyant presidential candidacy. He said he'd been "brainwashed" by the U.S. military into supporting the Vietnam war. Five months later he withdrew from the race, leaving the stage to Richard Nixon.

Today he feels vindicated by subsequent events, and he jokes about it.

"Having taken a position that was right, and at a time when it could only be damaging from a political standpoint, I'm glad I took it," he said.

"And I'm glad I took it in a way sufficiently dramatic so that people haven't forgotten it," he said, laughing at the understatement.

Today, the telegenic multimillionaire who launched his public career in 1962 from the chairmanship of American Motors is on the fringe of the action — by choice.

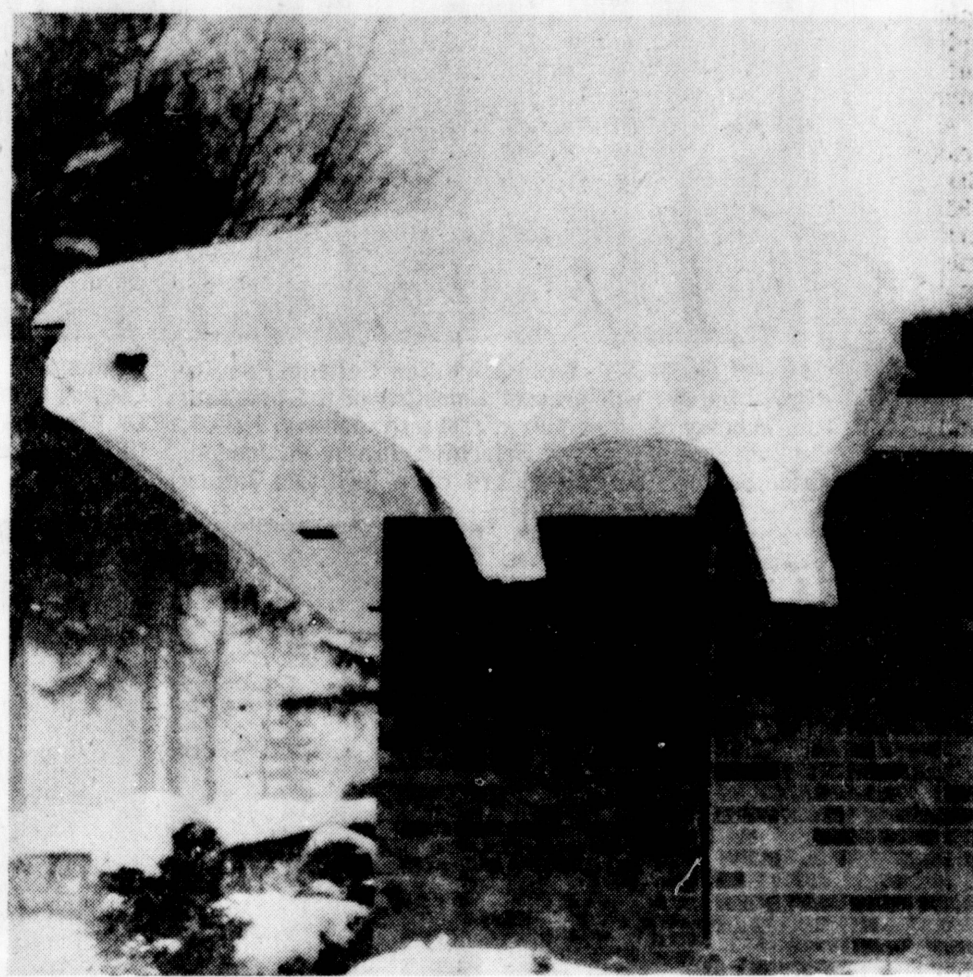

Michigan Republicans still plead with him to run for office, as Utah Republicans did unsuccessfully in 1974.

Romney turned up with his customary vigor on the campaign trail last fall. He questioned the morality of the successful Michigan Democratic senatorial candidate, Donald Riegle, and blasted him as "unstable."

But Romney subordinates his political role these days, convinced that both political parties have been usurped by special interest groups. The Republican party is in only slightly worse shape than the Democratic party, he says.

The future, he believes, is in non-profit, non-governmental "volunteerism" and in the citizens uprising he would like to

Work Begins On 2 Berrien Projects

The Berrien county board of public works (BPW) Wednesday learned construction has started on two long-awaited projects in the south part of the county.

BPW Director Robert Barnes reported the construction firm for both projects has begun laying of pipe for the Lake township water distribution system and the Chikaming township sewage collection system.

He said Woodruff and Sons Construction Co. of Michigan City began construction in Chikaming township on Jan. 19

and on Monday in Lake township.

The $5 million Lake township project is to expand the township's water system to enable 90 per cent of the township to receive potable water and fire protection, Barnes noted. He said the construction involves laying about 45 miles of pipe and completion is expected in the fall.

He also told board members Woodruff has started breaking ground and laying pipe for the $8 million Chikaming collection system, which he estimated would be completed in January, 1978.

The Chikaming project is the last of the $20 million Galien River Sanitary district to get underway because of hassles with the bidding process. The entire system will serve Chikaming and New Buffalo townships and the City of New Buffalo with collection systems, an interceptor, and treatment plant.

Barnes said there is currently no construction going on for the New Buffalo city and township phases because of the weather, but that "progress has been good but slow." He added most of the work in the city has been completed, although some work is still needed on the interceptor, and the New Buffalo township collection system "is well approaching completion."

He estimated portions of the entire system will be finished by this time next year.

Mine Workers Recalled

WHITE PINE, Mich. (AP) — Some 180 laid-off workers were recalled Wednesday to their jobs at the White Pine Copper Co., the Western Upper Peninsula's largest employer. Company officials said the recall of employees laid off since November or December would permit the mine to raise its daily production from 6,800 tons to 9,600 tons. The recall brought the workforce to 1,430. Some 1,000 workers remain on indefinite layoffs.

Although Berrien county's unemployment rate stood at 10.2 per cent last December, the number of people holding jobs increased by 2,400 and the number of unemployed decreased by 3,400 from December, 1975.

The statistics were compiled by the Michigan Employment Securities commission.

The commission report says Berrien's 10.2 per cent unemployment rate for December is .1 per cent higher than November's 10.1 per cent unemployment rate.

Berrien's unemployment rate for December was below the 14.7 per cent rate reported for December, 1975. The commission also reported Berrien county's civilian labor force last month was 1,000 smaller than in December, 1975. Berrien county's civilian labor force in December was listed at 72,400 compared to 73,400 in December, 1975.

Siljander Named On 5 Committees

LANSING — State Rep. Mark Siljander of the 42nd district has been named to five house committees. The committees are state affairs, social services, labor, consumers and roads and bridges. Siljander, a Republican from Three Rivers, is serving his first term in the state legislature.

Berrien county's 10.2 per cent unemployment rate compares to a national average unemployment rate of 7.9 per cent for December.

The report shows 65,000 people employed in Berrien last month, compared to 62,600 in December, 1975. The number of unemployed was 7,400 last December and 10,800 in December, 1975.

Fathers Enjoy 'Mothering' Children

NEW YORK (AP) — For nearly two years, James E. Levine crisscrossed the country talking to fathers who have willingly stepped into the shoes of mothers.

The results of those conversations is his recently published book on men and child care, "Who Will Raise the Children? New Options for Fathers (and Mothers)." In it, Levine examines what he terms a new phenomenon in the United States — the growing number of men who have a taste for full-time fatherhood.

These men, says Levine, include househusbands, single men who have decided to adopt, men who have sought and won child custody and men who arrange to work part-time so they will have more time with their young children.

In his travels for the book, Levine spoke with more than 120 men who have taken a different view of family living.

The 30-year-old Levine, who is married and the father of two, is a consultant on day care and child care in Wellesley, Mass.

Given the newness of the idea of men as full-time givers of child care, the author said in an interview here that few statistics are available on how many men have taken to what he calls "parenting."

Numbers are important, he asserts, "but we can't hang this on numbers alone, it's much more of a conceptual phenomenon. We've always thought of women in child-rearing roles and the fact that men are doing this is something new in itself."

Available figures show that 13 per cent of families in the United States are headed by single parents and eight per cent are headed by men, Levine says.

The study he conducted with the aid of a Ford Foundation grant yielded this finding: A man's role reversal from family provider to child rearer needn't portend disaster — but can be a viable, effective choice that offers a fresh approach to family living.

Eliciting a profile of the man who typifies this new breed of father, Levine says he has found him to be:

"Very independent minded, with a lot of ego strength and self-assuredness; open-minded and flexible; supportive of the women's movement, and usually somewhere between his late 20s and early 40s."

Levine then lists the benefits he feels focused fatherhood offers to the family unit.

The bonus for parents, he says, is a "wider range of choices which lets them arrive at lifestyles that work for both the mother and father. If parents have more choices about what they want to do, the quality of child care improves."

A major plus for the father, Levine continues, "is deriving an understanding of what women's lives are like, especially in terms of taking care of another person. A man also can develop an emotional closeness with his children, which many men can't express now."

Mothers benefit because more choices open up for them in terms of new jobs and educational opportunities and other ways of fulfilling themselves as individuals, says Levine.

"Women who feel that child-rearing is their responsibility and that they must succeed as mothers will be relieved of some of their guilt," he maintains.

The child gains "by experiencing a breakdown of many barriers." The author adds:

"It's important for kids to see more men in nurturing roles — for them to see that it's okay to be caring and to be a male. This can have a big effect on kids' lives. When they see their parents share feelings as well as tasks, children can only become more flexible."

Sewing Hints

By DOROTHY KING

Use a magnetic or screw-on seam guide with the pressure foot on your sewing machine to obtain a straight seamline and a uniform seam allowance.

Use the guidelines on the machine throat plate to position the seam guide. If there are no guidelines on the plate, some sewers find by placing tape on the machine throat plate and marking the usual measurements works just as well.

These marks enable you to stitch 1/8-inch, 1/4-inch, 3/8-inch and 1/2-inch from the fabric's edge.

Beginners usually use the seam guide, but when many curves are to be stitched, even the more experienced seamstresses find it quite helpful.

Stitching curves can best be done by first hand basting all curved seams. Use a shorter machine stitch than the one used for straight seams. For both outside and inside curves, the seam guide is set at an angle so one corner of the end is in line with the needle. Use a light touch while guiding the fabric edges against the seam guide when stitching.

A Look At Spring

PARIS (AP) — The leg is in from all angles at Pierre Cardin, who impressed the press and his clients today with a big, versatile and beautiful collection of spring and summer fashions.

The most winning mini-tunics and uneven handkerchief dresses were shown strictly as beachwear, however.

With ruffled cap sleeves, off-one-shoulder draping or big blowy tops tied at the waist, the effect was young and girlish. Capes, cap sleeves and big blouses were used all through the well cut collection.

Most daytime looks kept the upper leg hidden, with a few slits for walking in the straighter skirts and lots of pleated skirts, which were often topped with easy belted tunics, sometimes over full-sleeved blouses.

This is Cardin's idea of a suit look. He also likes slim skirts with easy knee-length duster coats.

Cardin is a master of color and print, and pastels predominated, with little and big flowers, cloud prints, art deco, and soft stripe combinations. For afternoon and evening, as usual Cardin showed off, using many themes. There were beautifully cut dresses with kimono sleeves, soft chiffons hanging from a straight satin ribbon with a big corsage flower at the bust, acres of pleats and ruffles, even one "Infanta" number with billowing taffeta collets.

The cape and capelet were used throughout the collection, in every possible way, as deep sleeves, as a stole around evening dresses, and sometimes brought into a deep drape down the back.

Cardin loves skin and showed some billowy chiffon numbers that hid nothing of the nude models underneath.

While some Cardin gowns were in shocking or Schiaparelli pink, the Schiaparelli show designed by Serge Lepage omitted the color from a small collection of evening clothes that was young as springtime, frankly modeled on Botticelli's Three Graces and Venus, complete with shiny vine-leaf wreaths and belts.

The climax was a diamond-studded white billowing silk, looking surprisingly light for nearly $2 million worth of carats, surrounded by armed security guards to keep the diamonds safe until they could be returned to Antwerp.

For afternoon and evening, as usual Cardin showed off, using many themes. There were beautifully cut dresses with kimono sleeves, soft chiffons hanging from a straight satin ribbon with a big corsage flower at the bust, acres of pleats and ruffles, even one "Infanta" number with billowing taffeta culottes.

The cape and capelet were used throughout the collection, in every possible way, as deep sleeves, as a stole around evening dresses, and sometimes brought into a deep drape down the back.

Cardin loves skin and showed some billowy chiffon numbers that hid nothing of the nude models underneath.

While some Cardin gowns were in shocking or Shaparelli pink, the Schiaparelli show designed by Serge Lepage omitted the color from a small collection of evening clothes that was young as springtime, frankly modeled on Botticelli's Three Graces and Venus, complete with shiny vine-leaf wreaths and belts.

The climax was a diamond-studded white billowing silk, looking surprisingly light for nearly $2 million worth of carats, surrounded by armed security guards to keep the diamonds safe until they could be returned to Antwerp.

Jean-Louis Scherrer, who designs for President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing's wife, kept as usual to a classic look, with

LEPAGE: Model wears one of the more expensive of the world's frocks during showing of the spring summer collection of Paris couturier Serge Lepage this week. Priced at only $1.5 million, the gown contains clusters totalling 512 diamonds. (AP Wirephoto) some gaiety in shorts for beach, bright colors and easy pleated dresses for day wear and the softest feminine embroidered or gilt-sprinkled dresses for evening.

Fathers Enjoy 'Mothering' Children

NEW YORK (AP) — For nearly two years, James E. Levine crisscrossed the country talking to fathers who have willingly stepped into the shoes of mothers.

The results of those conversations is his recently published book on men and child care, "Who Will Raise the Children? New Options for Fathers (and Mothers)." In it, Levine examines what he terms a new phenomenon in the United States — the growing number of men who have a taste for full-time fatherhood.

These men, says Levine, include househusbands, single men who have decided to adopt, men who have sought and won child custody and men who arrange to work part-time so they will have more time with their young children.

In his travels for the book, Levine spoke with more than 120 men who have taken a different view of family living.

The 30-year-old Levine, who is married and the father of two, is a consultant on day care and child care in Wellesley, Mass.

Given the newness of the idea of men as full-time givers of child care, the author said in an interview here that few statistics are available on how many men have taken to what he calls "parenting."

Numbers are important, he asserts, "but we can't hang this on numbers alone, it's much more of a conceptual phenomenon. We've always thought of women in child-rearing roles and the fact that men are doing this is something new in itself."

Available figures show that 13 per cent of families in the United States are headed by single parents and eight per cent are headed by men, Levine says.

The study he conducted with the aid of a Ford Foundation grant yielded this finding: A man's role reversal from family provider to child rearer needn't portend disaster — but can be a viable, effective choice that offers a fresh approach to family living.

Etching a profile of the man who typifies this new breed of father, Levine says he has found him to be:

"Very independent minded, with a lot of ego strength and self-assuredness; open-minded and flexible; supportive of the women's movement, and usually somewhere between his late 20s and early 40s."

Levine then lists the benefits he feels focused fatherhood offers to the family unit.

The bonus for parents, he says, is a "wider range of choices which lets them arrive at lifestyles that work for both the mother and father. If parents have more choices about what they want to do, the quality of child care improves."

A major plus for the father, Levine continues, "is deriving an understanding of what women's lives are like, especially in terms of taking care of another person. A man also can develop an emotional closeness with his children, which many men can't express now."

Sewing Hints

By DOROTHY KING

Use a magnetic or screw-on seam guide with the pressure foot on your sewing machine to obtain a straight seamline and a uniform seam allowance.

Use the guidelines on the machine throat plate to position the seam guide. If there are no guidelines on the plate, some sewers find by placing tape on the machine throat plate and marking the usual measurements works just as well.

These marks enable you to stitch $\frac{3}{8}$ -inch, $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch, $\frac{5}{8}$ -inch and $\frac{3}{4}$ -inch from the fabric's edge.

Beginners usually use the seam guide, but when many curves are to be stitched, even the more experienced steamstresses find it quite helpful.

Stitching curves can best be done by first hand basting all curved seams. Use a shorter machine stitch than the one used for straight seams. For both outside and inside curves, the seam guide is set at an angle so one corner of the end is in line with the needle. Use a light touch while guiding the fabric edges against the seam guide when stitching.

St. Joseph Woman Learns French First Hand

Traveled Europe Alone For Year

By MARYANNE BUTT
Staff Writer

Alone, jobless and knowing no one, a young St. Joseph woman left New York on the Queen Elizabeth II for France in September of 1975.

With only the clothes on her back and a few changes and camping equipment in a backpack, she planned to reside in France for an indefinite period.

Was she apprehensive? "I was petrified," says Leah Mulbar, 23, "but I knew if I didn't go then I might never get the chance again."

Miss Mulbar, at the time a French major at Michigan State University, had originally planned to go with a girl friend, but those plans fell through.

Home now, she says, she's glad she went alone, even though she was a little frightened. "I had to speak French to people to get along, even though I was afraid at first. I think I got more out of the trip by being alone. I didn't have anyone to depend on but myself."

She planned the trip because she was ready for a break from school and felt she would probably learn French better first hand — a feeling which turned out to be more realistic than she had imagined.

Miss Mulbar's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Mulbar, 2626 Willa drive, St. Joseph, were enthusiastic about the trip, but had some reservations when they learned she would be going alone, she said.

The fact that she knew no one in France proved to be a small hurdle for Miss Mulbar. After arriving at Cherbourg on the west coast of France, she headed for the Loire Valley and camped in campgrounds there, using a nylon pup tent she had made at home. It wasn't long before she had met several people her own age, from countries including Germany, France, Spain and Belgium.

During her entire stay in Europe — a little over one year — Miss Mulbar met and became friends with many people of all ages. She says there is definitely a cultural difference between her European friends and herself. The differences, though many, are small and do not block the way for enduring friendships, she says.

Living a leisurely life, Miss Mulbar traveled about Paris, hitchhiking mostly and camping at night. She says hitchhiking never presented any serious problems, other than convincing her parents she was safe.

In December, 1975, she found "au pair" work in Paris — she took care of a little boy for two or three hours every day and in exchange received her own room, some meals, and the equivalent of about $25 a month. She said many of the more well-to-do families in Paris hire young foreign girls to help out as she did. She also did light housekeeping for another woman.

She did "au pair" work for about six months and during two months of that time attended a school called the French Alliance, a learning institute that teaches French to foreigners. The school was a tremendous help in her use of the language, she says.

Miss Mulbar left her job in May and was met by Karen Mensinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ovie Mensinger, St. Joseph, and the two traveled through Europe until August when Miss Mensinger, a Western Michigan University student, returned home.

They were in Italy on July 4, when America celebrated its Bicentennial. Miss Mulbar says she recalls sitting with friends at an outdoor cafe and hearing a group of young American tourists singing songs in celebration. She said she felt homesick and missed celebrating the Bicentennial in America, although she had been told by other Americans she met throughout her European stay that they had been "red, white and blue to death."

While touring in France, the girls visited Francois Belboch and his family in Vannes and Mrs. Marinette Geffard, Francois' aunt, in Nantes. Miss Mulbar had met Francois and Mrs. Geffard when they visited the Stanley W. (Stub) Miller family of Fairplain in the summer of 1975. Mrs. Geffard's family, during World War II, had sheltered Miller and five other United States Air Force men in their barn after the men's bomber had been shot down over Nazi occupied France. Mr. and Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Geffard have corresponded since that time.

Miss Mulbar and Miss Mensinger visited Francois' English class at his school. The students were approximately the same age as high school seniors in this country, Miss Mulbar says. She and Miss Mensinger were asked many questions, in English, by the students. Miss Mulbar says she was amazed at their fluency in English and their knowledge of American history. She says they inquired mostly about slavery and the Civil War.

After Miss Mensinger left in August, Miss Mulbar went to Austria where she stayed with a Bolivian girl she had met in France.

Mr. and Mrs. Mulbar came to Paris to visit their daughter in September, 1976, and the three toured Europe.

When her parents left Oct. 6, Miss Mulbar says, "Saying good-bye to them really hit me" and that's about when she decided to come home soon. She promised her parents she would be home for Thanksgiving and, keeping her word, called her parents from Ross field in Benton Harbor Nov. 20, 1976.

Miss Mulbar, a 1971 graduate of St. Joseph high school, is presently working as a nurse's aide at Memorial hospital in St. Joseph and part time for the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, St. Joseph, where her father is advertising manager.

She is saving money to go back to school and get her degree, although it may not be at MSU.

As an encore to her European adventure, Miss Mulbar is considering finishing school at a university in Colombia or Bolivia, South America, where she has friends she met in Europe.

At least on such a trip, she says, she would have someone waiting for her when she arrived!

Montessori Open House

The Twin Cities Montessori House of Children is inviting the public to an open house Monday, Jan. 31, at 7:30 p.m. at the Upton junior high school auditorium, St. Joseph.

The open house was originally scheduled for Jan. 17 but was postponed due to inclement weather.

A slide show and demonstration of the Montessori materials will be presented. How tots from ages two and one-half to six years can study and master processes and concepts as varying as dish-washing and geography will be explored by Joan Erlong, director of the school, as she explains the basic principles of Montessori education.

Parents of students presently enrolled will be on hand to discuss the school's efforts toward their children's development and will answer questions from the audience.

The Twin Cities Montessori House of Children, though located in the Lake Michigan Catholic school, Benton Harbor, is an independent, non-profit organization governed by a board of directors elected from among the parents of children attending.

Presently there are two classes of about 25 students each. The morning session meets from 8 to 11 a.m. and the afternoon session from 11:45 a.m. until 2:15 p.m. There are three adults teaching each of the sessions.

With students coming from as far as Buchanan, Union Pier, Berrien Springs, Bridgman and Sawyer, the school offers Berrien county residents a unique opportunity for the education of the very young, according to Mrs. Erlong.

"Graduates" of Montessori schools throughout the country have been tested and proven superior in achievement in later school experiences, she says.

The Montessori philosophy emphasizes the child's independence and need to learn and do for himself.

Council Seeks Artists

Michigan Council for the Arts is seeking visual artists and craftsmen to work in its Artists-in-Schools program during the school year beginning next fall.

Artists interested in being considered for the program may contact the MCA Office of Development Services, 1200 Sixth Avenue, Detroit, Mich., 48226. Closing date for receipt of applications is March 31.

The Artists-in-Schools program operates in a number of selected school sites, public and non-public, grades K through 12, in several artistic disciplines. In the area of visual arts and crafts, it is anticipated there will be six school districts involved during the 1977-78 school year.

According to MCA Arts-in-Education coordinator Donald Green, "The program also provides 'working' artists and craftsmen an opportunity to function in schools and communities in a manner and under working conditions that are conducive to their own artistic development."

Potential residents are selected by a panel composed of Michigan Council for the Arts advisors and final decisions are made by the participating schools.

Green said even those artists that have applied for this program previously, must reapply for the coming year.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Cupid's Sting Turns 'Em On

Dear Ann: Thanks for running the latter about the couple who enjoyed beating each other as a prelude to sex. Please add two more to the list. My wife and I have been whipping each other for several years and it is a highly emotional experience.

Your Delaware reader noted that the centers of pain and pleasure are not far apart. Surely you know that pain and sex are often inseparable. We tried straight sex at the beginning, and it left us exhausted, frustrated and unfulfilled.

Now we have great fun expressing our primitive feelings. We look forward to these lively encounters. Even though we end up with scratches, teeth marks and purple bruises, life is much more exciting.

I'm sure you don't approve but I hope you'll print my letter to the couple in Delaware who know there are others. — We

Love Cupid's Sting

Dear Sting: There are MANY others and I've heard from dozens. As for "approval," what I think is not important. I only give advice when asked. I'm not a judge or jury. If people enjoy scratching, biting and bruising one another (and call it love, yet), that's their business. But I'll tell you what I told the other couple. How nice that you two found each other. You belong together.

She's No Mary

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 45-year-old widow who needs to know if it is true that Saint Mary, the mother of Jesus Christ, was not married when she became pregnant with Our Savior.

My 23-year-old daughter is single and living with a 26-year-old fellow as though they were man and wife. This has been going on for two years. My daughter claims she is pregnant from her bed partner and when she gives birth to the child, she will become a Saint, like Mary. She is a very religious girl and convinced this is true.

I am not so sure. In fact, I think maybe her bed partner talked her into the whole thing. Please answer in the paper because I can't risk getting any letters from Ann Landers at home. Thank you. — Troubled Widow

Dear T.W.: I checked with a professor at one of the leading Catholic universities in the U.S., and this is what he said:

"Because they had no Ann Landers in those days, people in the Gospels occasionally had to rely on angels for the resolution of family problems.

"Mary became pregnant when she was engaged. An angel advised her to marry Joseph, her fiancé, bear the child, and be good to both.

"Joseph was disturbed when Mary told him she was pregnant. But an angel advised him

Name MSU Chairman

EAST LANSING — Dr. Barbara S. Stowe of Auburn university has been named professor and chairman of Michigan State university's department of human environment and design.

Her appointment, effective March 16, was approved by the MSU board of trustees at a meeting Jan. 21.

Dr. Stowe, who was a visiting associate professor of textiles at it during the 1973 winter term, has been head of the department of consumer affairs at Auburn since 1973. She also has been an instructor in textiles and clothing at MSU from 1967-68, and at the University of Kentucky from 1964-65.

She received a bachelor of science degree from the University of Nebraska in 1964, a master of arts degree from MSU in 1967, and a doctor of philosophy in textiles from North Carolina State university in 1973. Dr. Stowe was an Ellen H. Richards Fellow in 1968-70, awarded by the American Home Economics Association.

A member of the national executive board of the Association of College Professors of Textiles and Clothing (ACPTC), she also serves on the national education committee of the Society of Consumer Affairs Professionals in Business.

In addition, Dr. Stowe was chairman of the textiles and clothing section of the Alabama Home Economics Association in 1976 and chairman of the regional (eastern) council of ACPTC from 1973-76.

She is a member of the American Home Economics Association, American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists and the American Chemical Society.

Ferris Glee Club Tour

Three Berrien county students are members of Ferris State college's Men's Glee club which hold its annual winter tour Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 9 and 10.

Local students participating include Tom Weybright and Mike Miller of Coloma and Dean Hess of Niles.

Concerts will be presented in six northern Michigan cities, Cheboygan, Pellston, St. Ignace, Sault Ste. Marie, Rudyard and Gaylord.

The 40-member Glee club will perform two combined concerts while on tour, one with the Sault Ste. Marie high school choir and the other with the Gaylord choir.

The three Berrien county students are also members of the Ferris Wheels, a select group of men from the Glee club that will also perform on the concert tour.

AU Concert Saturday

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Andrews university orchestra will present its winter quarter concert Saturday, Jan. 29, at 8 p.m. in Johnson auditorium.

The concert is free to the public.

The 80-member orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Charles Davis, assistant professor of music, is composed of Andrews students and faculty and community residents.

Selections to be performed include von Weber's "Overture to Oberon," "Symphonie No. 101" by Haydn; "Polovetsian Dances" from "Prince Igor" by Borodin, and Francis Poulenc's "Concerto in D Minor for Two Pianos," with Elaine and Morris Taylor as soloists.

Service League To Meet

NEW BUFFALO — New Buffalo Service League will meet Wednesday, Feb. 9, at 7:30 p.m. at the Golden Door restaurant.

A "blind auction" will be held. Proceeds will benefit the nursing scholarship fund of the Berrien County Federation of Women's club.

Co-chairmen of refreshments will be Mrs. Oliver Dohner and Mrs. Vail Krenstke.

Woodwind Quartet Sunday

HOLLAND — The Groningen Woodwind Quintet from the Netherlands will present a concert Sunday, Jan. 30, at 3 p.m. in Wickers auditorium of the Nykerk Hall of Music on the campus of Hope college.

The quintet is presently on a tour of the United States. Members of the quintet teach in a conservatory in the Netherlands.

Members of the quintet are flutist Rinze van der Baan, clarinetist Jan Misdorn, hornist Rutger Mensenkamp, bassoonist Fred Gaasterland and oboist Frank Mulder.

The program will consist of quintets by Anton Reicha, Jan van Vlijmen, Jurriaan Andriessen and variations on "In Holland Staat Een Huls" by Hugo de Groot.

There will be an informal reception immediately following the concert.

This year's Vanderbilt and Springfield were both won by a team captained by Dr. George Rosenkranz of Mexico City that included Dr. Richard Katz, Larry Cohen, Roger Bates and John Mohan. The team averaged just over 40 years in age. Dr. Rosenkranz, 60 years brought the average up.

In this hand from the finals, five diamonds is a very shaky contract. It makes due to the favorable lie of the cards. That is, it makes if it is bid.

Dr. Rosenkranz stopped at four quite properly. The defense started with two rounds of hearts and shifted to a club. George won in his hand and since he was in four, laid down the ace of diamonds as a safety play. He continued with the queen after the jack dropped and wrapped up his contract.

South became declarer at three notrump at the other table, but wound up one down after John Mohan opened the king of hearts and continued the suit with Roger Bates carefully playing the jack and then the 10 so as to unblock for John's fifth heart.

A Nebraska reader wants to know your rebid with:

after you open one club and partner raises you to two clubs.

The correct rebid is a pass. You have a minimum opening and undoubtedly two clubs is the best place to play the hand. Your partner should have at least four clubs for his raise.

Schedule Ganges Meetings

GANGES — New Day Senior Citizens club will meet for a Valentine party Tuesday, Feb. 1.

The 1:30 p.m. meeting will be held at St. Peter's hall in Duquas.

GANGES — Ganges Baptist Women will meet Wednesday, Feb. 2.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Donald Nye.

GANGES — Ganges Jill club will meet Tuesday, Feb. 8, for a "night-out" with their husbands at the Lions Den, South Haven, at 8:30 p.m.

Mrs. Orville Compton will be hostess.

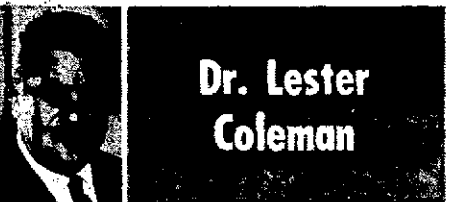

Buchanan Firemen Auxiliary Planned

BUCHANAN — Plans are being made to form a women's auxiliary by wives of Buchanan firemen.

Interested wives may contact the committee co-chairmen, Mrs. James Flenar, wife of the fire chief, or Mrs. Fred Canfield, wife of the assistant fire chief, for additional information.

According to Mrs. Flenar and

Mrs. Canfield, the auxiliary would help firemen purchase small needed items and furnish the meeting room. The group will also provide coffee and moral support for firemen in the event of severe fires, they added.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Even after a good night's sleep I awake each morning with a tremendous feeling of fatigue. Sometimes I'm barely able to get through my daily obligations at home and with the children. My husband has given me the idea that this is all psychological, because otherwise I'm in good health. — Mrs. L.H. Maine

Dear Mrs. H.:

In-laws and husbands are rarely around during the day to witness the exhausting activity of running a home. If they were, they would be less likely to consider your fatigue as being "psychological."

I've always felt it would be a revelation to husbands if they were to follow the course of their wives' daily activity in the home.

A friend of mine admitted that once he settles himself down to read his paper as he commutes to his office he blocks out the chaotic scene that he leaves behind. He says that he allocates in his wife the job of caring for the children, taking them to school, feeding them, dressing the little ones, shopping for food, cleaning the house, doing the laundry, taking the children to the doctor, to the orthodontist, to music lessons, to parties, and then preparing the dinner.

While all of this is going on he says facetiously that he takes care of the major problems: nuclear energy, ecology, peace in the Middle East, and establishing borders between India and Pakistan.

Now have a right to your fatigue, Mrs. H., by virtue of all the energy you expend in your daily routine. Nevertheless, I do believe that it's important for everyone who suffers from excessive fatigue to rule out some medical conditions that may be responsible.

Low blood pressure, low blood sugar, anemia, hormone deficiency, menstrual disorders, thyroid disturbances, and low-grade chronic infections should be ruled out.

As you so well know, psychological stress and emotional upheavals can be as exhausting as any physical overactivity. The failure of your family to appreciate the multiplicity of your chores undoubtedly adds to the burden of psychological stress.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Cupid's Sting Turns 'Em On

Dear Ann: Thanks for running the latter about the couple who enjoyed beating each other as a prelude to sex. Please add two more to the list. My wife and I have been whipping each other for several years and it is a highly emotional experience.

Your Delaware reader noted that the centers of pain and pleasure are not far apart. Surely you know that pain and sex are often inseparable. We tried straight sex at the beginning, and it left us exhausted, frustrated and unfulfilled.

Now we have great fun expressing our primitive feelings. We look forward to these lively encounters. Even though we end up with scratches, teeth marks and purple bruises, life is much more exciting.

I'm sure you don't approve but I hope you'll print my letter so the couple in Delaware will know there are others. — We

Love Cupid's Sting

Dear Sting: There are MANY others and I've heard from dozens. As for "approval," what I think is not important. I only give advice when asked. I'm not a judge or jury. If people enjoy scratching, biting and bruising one another (and call it love, yet), that's their business. But I'll tell you what I told the other couple. How nice that you two found each other. You belong together.

She's No Mary

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 45-year-old widow who needs to know if it is true that Saint Mary, the mother of Jesus Christ, was not married when she became pregnant with Our Savior.

My 23-year-old daughter is single and living with a 26-year-old fellow as though they were man and wife. This has been going on for two years. My daughter claims she is pregnant from her bed partner and when she gives birth to the child, she will become a Saint, like Mary. She is a very religious girl and convinced this is true.

I am not so sure. In fact, I think maybe her bed partner talked her into the whole thing. Please answer in the paper because I can't risk getting any letters from Ann Landers at home. Thank you. — Troubled Widow

Dear T.W.: I checked with a professor at one of the leading Catholic universities in the U.S., and this is what he said:

"Because they had no Ann Landers in those days, people in the Gospels occasionally had to rely on angels for the resolution of family problems.

"Mary became pregnant when she was engaged. An angel advised her to marry Joseph, her fiancé, bear the child, and be good to both.

"Joseph was disturbed when Mary told him she was pregnant. But an angel advised him to marry her anyway, to cherish mother and child, and to be more patient about trying to figure out what God had in mind.

Writer Is Dead; Show Goes On

NEW YORK (AP) — The characters in "The Edge of Night" soap opera were having another in an endless string of bad days.

While they suffered in a Manhattan studio, the body of Grace Garment, who used to script those bad days, was being claimed in Boston, where she had committed suicide more than a month ago.

The 49-year-old wife of former White House aide Leonard Garment disappeared on Dec. 3, as she was en route to receive treatment for depression. She left behind a partly written script for the show.

Four days later, her nude body was found in the bathtub of a room in an aging Boston hotel. She carried no apparent identification and the body had lain unclaimed in the morgue since then.

As her husband flew to Boston to make the identification Wednesday, the pages of script number 5424 came to life here. Corruption, extortion and marital upheaval were played out before the cameras in an episode to be broadcast Feb. 3 on ABC.

Nancy Kerr submitted to the extortionist's demands, then put up with Mike's threat to end their marriage. Meantime, young Steve Guthrie unwittingly became a bad cop.

A half-dozen monitors multiplied their images in a darkened control room, where a digital clock marked the passing of time in fractional seconds.

Director John Sedwick spoke almost confidentially into his headset microphone, ordering camera shots and sound effects. A drum roll of punched buttons and a continuous rasp of the script's leaves contributed to an air of urgency.

Only associate producer Bud Gowan knew about Mrs. Garment, for he had decided to keep the news to himself minutes before the afternoon taping began. "We were ready to do the show," he explained later, "and it could have shaken up a lot of people."

Freeway Plan Scrapped

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — In what could be a turning point for Michigan's transportation future, a proposed 23-mile freeway through Oakland County has been scrapped after a decade on the drawing boards.

The state Highway Commission voted 3-1 on Wednesday to cancel the Michigan-275 project.

It was the first time in Michigan history a major freeway project has been flatly rejected after being so long a part of state highway master plans.

The decision surprised environmentalists and Oakland County residents who had been waging a grassroots protest against the $69.5 million project for more than a year.

Commission Chairman Peter B. Fletcher called the vote a "distinct turning point" in a 20-year freeway-building trend in Michigan.

"We cannot afford financially, ecologically or socially to construct every mile of freeway we once dreamed of," said Fletcher, who voted with the majority. "The bottom line in this for me is that I am not in favor of shoving yet another highway project down so many reluctant throats. If the people do not want it, I am not going to sit here as some transportation deity saying they must have it."

First suggested in 1953 and engineered in 1966, M-275 would have linked Interstate 96 at Novi to Interstate 75 just east of Holly. It was to be the last leg in a freeway from Toledo to Flint, bypassing Detroit.

But residents of wealthy Oakland County northwest of Detroit last June began to battle the southern 14-mile section of the project. The road would have run through their backyards, business districts and a 200-acre wetlands that includes North America's southernmost stand of black spruce.

"It's good to see, for a change, that the will of the people is fulfilled," Stephen Rosman said Wednesday after the vote. Rosman, 27, is a Commerce Township insurance agent who led the citizen protest. Opponents said the highway would speed urbanization.

PAW PAW — A Bangor woman has been sentenced in Van Buren circuit court to serve from 30 months to five years in prison on a charge of attempting to utter and publish a forged check.

Judge Moyer Warshawsky imposed the sentence Tuesday on Gail Dollar, 21, 301 Walnut street, who had pleaded guilty earlier. The charge stems from a check for $50 which had been issued in South Haven on Oct. 23.

In other cases, Tommy Simpson, 17, route 1, 34th avenue, Bangor, pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted armed robbery growing out of the theft of $413 from a Bangor gas station last August.

Two other men, Roosevelt Sutton, 23, Hartford, and John Williams Jr., 28, Bangor, are facing trial on armed robbery charges in connection with the holdup.

Betty Sue Matrau, 23, Hartford, pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to break and enter the Royal motel, Hartford, last June 9.

Dunnie Franks, 23, formerly of Coloma, pleaded guilty to a charge of absconding on a personal recognizance bond. The bond had been furnished while Franks was awaiting trial on a charge of breaking and entering a Keeler township grocery store in May, 1975.

Thomas Brown, 55, Kansas City, Mo., pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, a knife, in Bloomington last May 11.

Writer Is Dead; Show Goes On

NEW YORK (AP) — The characters in "The Edge of Night" soap opera were having another in an endless string of bad days.

While they suffered in a Manhattan studio, the body of Grace Garmont, who used to script those bad days, was being claimed in Boston, where she had committed suicide more than a month ago.

The 49-year-old wife of former White House aide Leonard Garmont disappeared on Dec. 3, as she was en route to receive treatment for depression. She left behind a partly written script for the show.

Four days later, her nude body was found in the bathtub of a room in an aging Boston hotel. She carried no apparent identification and the body had lain unclaimed in the morgue since then.

As her husband flew to Boston to make the identification Wednesday, the pages of script number 3424 came to life here. Corruption, extortion and marital upheaval were played out before the cameras in an episode to be broadcast Feb. 3 on ABC.

Nancy Karr submitted to the extortionist's demands, then put up with Mike's threat to end their marriage. Meantime, young Steve Guthrie unwittingly became a bad cop.

A half-dozen monitors multiplied their images in a darkened control room, where a digital clock marked the passing of time in fractional seconds.

Director John Sedwick spoke almost confidentially into his headset microphone, ordering camera shots and sound effects. A drum roll of punched buttons and a continuous rasp of the script's leaves contributed to an air of urgency.

Only associate producer Bud Gowan knew about Mrs. Garmont, for he had decided to keep the news to himself minutes before the afternoon taping began. "We were ready to do the show," he explained later, "and it could have shaken up a lot of people."

In Boston, medical examiner George W. Curtis said it was his idea early this week of looking under the label on the victim's fur coat that led to the identification. Under the Bonwit Teller label was the name Grace

The method of suicide was not revealed but the nude body reportedly had numerous cuts on the left arm between the elbow and wrist. She was found in a bathtub filled with water.

Garmont, now a U.S. representative to the United Nations' Human Rights Commission, succeeded John W. Dean as chief counsel to President Richard M. Nixon in the midst of the Watergate crisis. He had previously been a partner in Nixon's former Manhattan law firm.

Key State Senator Quitting To Be Lobbyist

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Sen. John Bowman, chairman of the powerful Senate Taxation Committee, says "financial security" is his main motivation for leaving the legislature to become a lobbyist.

The 22-year legislative veteran said Wednesday he would quit the Senate Feb. 1. He said he would reveal Monday who his new clients as a lobbyist will be.

Bowman, 55, said he is quitting to earn more money and because "it isn't much fun anymore." He was first elected to the House in 1954, served four terms and went to the Senate in 1962.

Gov. William Milliken will call a special election to fill remaining two years in the four-year term. The vacancy is the third in the Senate, giving Democrats a 22-13 edge until the three elections are held.

Bowman's resignation had been anticipated following his primary election defeat in a run for Congress last August. He admitted one of the reasons he delayed his resignation was to obtain higher retirement benefits under a legislative pay raise which took effect this month.

Bowman will qualify for the maximum legislative pension of $13,500 a year under his new salary of $22,500. Had he retired last year at the old pay level of $19,000, his pension would have been $11,400 a year.

"I have my family to think about," Bowman said. "I'm 55, and you haven't got that many more years left to earn money. I'm in my 23rd year here, and I think that's quite enough."

Bowman said he would work alone, but will rent office space from James Karoub, another former lawmaker who is one of the most powerful lobbyists in Lansing.

He declined to estimate how much he would make as a lobbyist, but commented, "I'm sure it's going to be more than I'm making now."
"I think I can be successful as a lobbyist," he said. "I've made my share of enemies, but I hope I've made some friends, too."

Bowman gained the nickname "the fox" in his years in the legislature, because of the canny way he operated behind-the-scenes in the Senate.

Bowman vocally defended his suburban Detroit constituents against higher taxes and increased spending. But as chairman of the Taxation Committee for two years, he gained little property tax relief and did not block an income tax hike.

"I don't know if I've really done much in 22 years," he reflected. "You sort of plod along."
Bowman choked up briefly as he praised his colleagues and said they were underpaid and often unfairly criticized. And he mourned the changed relations between reporters and the Senate.

"There used to be a lot more friendship up here than there is now," he said. "The fellowship isn't what it was. Things are different and it isn't much fun anymore."

"I'm going to miss you guys," he said, and then paused. "No, I'm not."

Chrysler, GM Facing Deadlines

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. and General Motors each faced strike deadlines at Michigan plants today unless new local contract agreements could be reached.

Some 1,300 salaried employees at Chrysler headquarters here were set to walk out at 10 a.m. EST if they do not have a new local contract.

In addition, 7,700 hourly members of UAW Local 688 were to strike the Chevrolet metal casting complex in Saginaw, Mich., at 11 a.m. A GM spokesman said talks on a new local pact were continuing Wednesday.

Meanwhile, formal bargaining resumed Wednesday after a week-long break in negotiations in a 10-day-old strike at Chrysler's Indianapolis Electric plant, a company spokesman said.

Negotiations on a new three-year local contract were the first since Jan. 18, when talks broke off a day after 3,100 hourly workers, members of United Auto Workers Local 1226, struck the plant.

Chrysler, GM Facing Deadlines

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. and General Motors each faced strike deadlines at Michigan plants today unless new local contract agreements could be reached.

Some 1,300 salaried employees at Chrysler headquarters here were set to walk out at 10 a.m. EST if they do not have a new local contract.

In addition, 7,700 hourly members of UAW Local 668 were to strike the Chevrolet metal casting complex in Saginaw, Mich., at 11 a.m. A GM spokesman said talks on a new local pact were continuing Wednesday.

Meanwhile, formal bargaining resumed Wednesday after a week-long break in negotiations in a 10-day-old strike at Chrysler's Indianapolis Electric plant, a company spokesman said.

Negotiations on a new three-year local contract were the first since Jan. 18, when talks broke off a day after 3,100 hourly workers, members of United Auto Workers Local 1226, struck the plant.

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Sen. John Bowman, chairman of the powerful Senate Taxation Committee, says "financial security" is his main motivation for leaving the legislature to become a lobbyist.

The 22-year legislative veteran said Wednesday he would quit the Senate Feb. 1. He said he would reveal Monday who his new clients as a lobbyist will be.

Bowman, 55, said he is quitting to earn more money and because "it isn't much fun anymore." He was first elected to the House in 1954, served four terms and went to the Senate in 1962.

Gov. William Milliken will call a special election to fill remaining two years in the four-year term. The vacancy is the third in the Senate, giving Democrats a 22-13 edge until the three elections are held.

Bowman's resignation had been anticipated following his primary election defeat in a run for Congress last August. He admitted one of the reasons he delayed his resignation was to obtain higher retirement benefits under a legislative pay raise which took effect this month.

Bowman will qualify for the maximum legislative pension of $13,500 a year under his new salary of $22,500. Had he retired last year at the old pay level of $19,000, his pension would have been $11,400 a year.

"I have my family to think about," Bowman said. "I'm 55, and you haven't got that many more years left to earn money. I'm in my 23rd year here, and I think that's quite enough."

Bowman said he would work alone, but will rent office space from James Karoub, another former lawmaker who is one of the most powerful lobbyists in Lansing.

'TOUCHES PUBLIC PULSE'
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Alex Haley, the author of "Roots," says his book "touched a public pulse" by showing Americans that they all are immigrants.

He declined to estimate how much he would make as a lobbyist, but commented, "I'm sure it's going to be more than I'm making now."

"I think I can be successful as a lobbyist," he said. "I've made my share of enemies, but I hope I've made some friends, too." Bowman gained the nickname "the fox" in his years in the legislature, because of the canny way he operated behind-the-scenes in the Senate.

Bowman vocally defended his suburban Detroit constituents against higher taxes and increased spending. But as chairman of the Taxation Committee for two years, he gained little property tax relief and did not block an income tax hike. "I don't know if I've really done much in 22 years," he reflected. "You sort of plod along."

Bowman choked up briefly as he praised his colleagues and said they were underpaid and often unfairly criticized. And he mourned the changed relations between reporters and the Senate.

"There used to be a lot more friendship up here than there is now," he said. "The fellowship isn't what it was. Things are different and it isn't much fun anymore."

"I'm going to miss you guys," he said, and then paused. "No, I'm not."

Fiscal Agency Director Under Fire For Report

By DONALD WOUTAT
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The head of the House Fiscal Agency appeared out of a job Wednesday, 24 weeks after issuing a report that bit the hand the agency serves.

A panel headed by state Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee, voted 2-1 to ask for the immediate resignation of agency director John W. Beadling.

Beadling, who has headed the agency since 1969, said he is bewildered by the developments and will refuse to resign. He said Jacobetti told him in early December the agency was doing a good job.

Jacobetti promised to reconvene the panel Thursday and urge that it fire the director.

Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, was miffed by a fiscal agency report which, he said, caught him by surprise and which called for a budget reform act. The act would, among other things, parcel out some budget-making powers to committees other than appropriations.

Jacobetti claims it would make a "super agency" out of the House Fiscal Agency, which was created to help the Appropriations Committee with complex fiscal legislation.

But another panel member called the report "the straw that broke the camel's back."

Beadling acknowledged months of rumors that Jacobetti was unhappy with him or the agency.

The flap erupted Friday when Jacobetti demanded that Beadling fire four staff analysts. Beadling angrily refused in a long letter to Jacobetti on Monday. On Wednesday, the appropriations chairman convened the three-man legislative board that oversees the fiscal agency.

The board is made up of Jacobetti and two other appropriations members. Rep. Raymond Kehres, D-Monroe, agreed with Jacobetti to ask for the resignation and Rep. Melvin DeStigter, R-Allendale, opposed the action.

"I just don't think (Beadling) has had his day in court," DeStigter said. He said he will oppose firing Beadling. Kehres could not be reached for comment.

Caught in the middle of the episode is House Speaker Bobby D. Crim, D-Davison, who called for the fiscal agency report in the first place and originally endorsed its general recommendations.

Wednesday, Crim said the report had "editorial" comments. Asked whether he supports the request for Beadling's resignation, Crim said he does because "it's their (the board's) judgement."

Beadling said his disfavor with Jacobetti "goes way beyond the report," but would not elaborate.

He also said he has repeatedly urged that the overseeing board meet with him to discuss any problems but that Jacobetti has not responded. He said there has not been a meeting in two years.

"I hadn't received any indication that there's dissatisfaction with my performance or with the House Fiscal Agency," Beadling said.

DeStigter said if there have been any meetings of the board since Jacobetti took it over two years ago, he does not know about it.

Republicans Fail To Kill Pay Hike

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Two Republican lawmakers made a high-minded — if futile — effort Wednesday to kill the pay raise legislators were awarded last year. When their proposal was shouted down on the House floor, the pair announced they would refuse to contribute $100 to the Michigan Republican Legislative Dinner Fund this year.

The abortive effort was made by Reps. Edgar J. Fredricks of Holland and Kirby Holmes of Ulica. Both earlier had vowed not to accept the pay hike. They tried a little-used parliamentary maneuver to yank an anti-pay-hike resolution out of committee, where it is sure to die, and bring it to the House floor for a vote before the deadline for reversal expires.

They got little help from Assistant Speaker Pro Tem Gary Owen, who cut their talks short and did little to quiet the din of other House members. Only three lawmakers supported a requested roll call vote, and Owens, D-Ypsilanti, conducted a quick voice vote dominated by a thunderous "no."

Afterward, Fredricks and Holmes said if their fellow Republicans will not support the party's "principles of limited government, why waste $100 electing candidates to merely echo the Democratic party?" Thus lawmakers seem assured of keeping their pay hike from $18,000 to $22,500 — and to $24,000 next year — unless their colleagues have a dramatic change of heart. The raise was granted by the state Officers Compensation Commission. It will take effect unless two-thirds of both houses of the legislature reject it.

Mack Gives Up Appropriations Committee Seat

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Sen. Joseph Mack traded in his seat on the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee Wednesday for two other key committee appointments.

More important, the controversial Ironwood Democrat hung on to his chairmanship of the Conservation Committee.

Mack's new assignments were due for full Senate approval today following Wednesday's approval by the special "committee on committees."

The committee also named Sen. Patrick McCollough, D-Deerborn, chairman of the influential Tassation Committee, renamed the Senate "Finance Committee."

McCullough succeeds Sen. John Bowman of Roseville, who on Wednesday announced his resignation from the Senate to become a lobbyist.

Former Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, stripped earlier this month of his leadership posts, was given the chairmanship of the Highways and Transportation Committee and a post on the Labor Committee. He also serves on the Commerce Committee, but will lose his office to the new leader, William Faust of Westland.

Democrats hold all committee chairmanships with their 22-13 edge in the Senate. There are three vacancies.

Mack was under pressure to give up either his appropriations slot or the chairmanship of Conservation.

His critics hoped he would abandon the conservation committee, where he angered environmentalists by blocking key legislation.

But with other Upper Peninsula members holding power on the House Appropriations Committee, Mack gave up that post instead.

He also was named to the Senate State Affairs Committee, which handles a variety of bills, including many controversial ones. And he was named to the obscure, but crucial Joint Administrative Rules Committee.

Missing Ferndale Boy Found Safe

FERNDALE, Mich. (AP) — Mark Wayne Geary was sure his 12-year-old son had become the latest victim in a series of unsolved slayings of Oakland County children.

But on Wednesday, the Ferndale boy was found safe, riding a borrowed bicycle in nearby Royal Oak. Police said the boy, missing since Monday night, had been afraid to go home because his report card grades were poor.

"I'm breathing again after two days," Mark's father, Robert Wayne said after being reunited with his son. "I'd given up hope of seeing him alive again."

In the 36 hours since Mark ran away, Ferndale police had been trying to allay fears of area residents that Mark might be yet another case in the string of disappearance-murders of youngsters in the suburban area north of Detroit.

Ferndale Police Chief Donald R. Geary had described the boy as a "habitual runaway." But, Geary had noted, the longer the child was missing, the stronger the chance he might encounter an "unfriendly stranger."

A motorist equipped with a citizens band radio spotted the Wayne boy Wednesday near Interstate 75. Police were alerted, and picked him up a short while later.

Geary said Mark was on his way to visit his grandmother in Royal Oak. He had spent the nights since his disappearance in a heated shopping mall.

The boy's disappearance sparked widespread public concern in Oakland County, where six children have vanished and later been discovered dead in the past year.

into effect. It has the potential power of blocking or changing the intent of laws by rejecting proposed rules.

In addition, the legislature wants to give it increased power by requiring the committee to formally approve rules. They now take effect automatically unless the committee rejects them. And Mack may seek to become chairman of the panel. The chairman is elected by the committee members.

Mack Gives Up Appropriations Committee Seat

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Sen. Joseph Mack traded in his seat on the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee Wednesday for two other key committee appointments.

More important, the controversial Ironwood Democrat hung on to his chairmanship of the Conservation Committee.

Mack's new assignments were due for full Senate approval today following Wednesday's approval by the special "committee on committees."

The committee also named Sen. Patrick McCollough, D-Deerborn, chairman of the influential Taxation Committee — renamed the Senate "Finance Committee."

McCollough succeeds Sen. John Bowman of Roseville, who on Wednesday announced his resignation from the Senate to become a lobbyist.

Former Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, stripped earlier this month of his leadership posts, was given the chairmanship of the Highways and Transportation Committee and a post on the Labor Committee. He also serves on the Commerce Committee, but will lose his office to the new leader, William Faust of Westland.

Democrats hold all committee chairmanships with their 22-13 edge in the Senate. There are three vacancies.

Mack was under pressure to give up either his appropriations slot or the chairmanship of Conservation.

His critics hoped he would abandon the conservation committee, where he angered environmentalists by blocking key legislation.

But with other Upper Peninsula members holding power on the House Appropriations Committee, Mack gave up that post instead.

He also was named to the Senate State Affairs Committee, which handles a variety of bills, including many controversial ones. And he was named to the obscure, but crucial Joint Administrative Rules Committee.

Longshoremen Under Probe

MIAMI (AP) — The FBI says it is subpoenaing hundreds of longshore union leaders and shipping officials at ports along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts in an investigation of alleged organized crime involvement in the union and payoffs by management. One of those subpoenaed will be called to testify in February before grand juries in Miami and New York City investigating the International Longshoremen's Association, an FBI spokesman said Wednesday. The grand juries are being empaneled to investigate "reported irregularities taking place in major ports in the U.S.," said FBI Director Clarence Kelley in a statement relayed by an FBI spokesman in Miami.

Spain Bans Demonstrations

MADRID, Spain (AP) — The Spanish government banned public demonstrations, suspended some civil rights and ordered police to round up foreign extremists in a crackdown on political violence that has claimed seven lives in Madrid this week. Trying to cope with Spain's worst crisis since dictator Francisco Franco died 14 months ago, Premier Adolfo Suarez's cabinet Wednesday enacted a Franco anti-terrorism law to allow police to hold suspects more than 72 hours without charges and give them the right to search without warrants. The declaration followed a day of strikes Wednesday by 1.5 million workers across the nation protesting anti-leftist attacks.

Vatican Won't Ordain Women

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church will not ordain women as priests no matter what other churches do, the Vatican said today, because Jesus Christ was a man and his representatives on earth must bear a "natural resemblance." A 6,000-word declaration issued by the Vatican's Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith on the orders of Pope Paul VI said the church based its decision on the attitude of Christ, who chose only males for his apostles, and that of the disciples, who chose only men as priests. Informal sources said earlier this week that the document could open the way for women to become deacons as they were in the early days of Christianity. But an official commentary released with the declaration said the Congregation had postponed a decision on women deacons.

Tanaka Trial Opens

TOKYO (AP) — Prosecutors opening the trial of former Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka said today that former U.S. President Richard M. Nixon had told Tanaka he would be "very happy" if Japanese firms bought Lockheed TriStar airliners. Weeping and wiping his eyes with a handkerchief, Tanaka declared his innocence of charges that he took $1.7 million in payoffs to push Lockheed sales. Tanaka is charged with bribery and violation of currency regulations. After the opening session, the trial of Tanaka and the four other defendants was recessed until Feb. 22. That of four other defendants will get underway next week.

Mondale Visits Vatican

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale met with Pope Paul VI today. It was the 78-year-old Roman Catholic pontiff's first meeting with a top-ranking U.S. official in more than 19 months. The pontiff received President Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger on June 3, 1975. Mondale — the son of a Methodist minister, son-in-law of a Presbyterian minister and himself a Presbyterian — said he planned to talk with the Pope about such issues as hunger and assistance to underdeveloped nations.

Sikes Blasts Critics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes says he is a victim of "anti-defense" liberals, but some of the congressmen who voted to strip him of his key subcommittee chairmanship say their victory indicates the House of Representatives will adopt a tough new reform program. Opponents of Sikes were ecstatic following Wednesday's Democratic caucus which, by a stunning margin of more than 2 to 1, removed the 70-year-old Floridian as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee's subcommittee on military construction.

PRIVATE EYES QUESTIONED That Phone Call May Be Trick

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the telephone rings and it's somebody wanting to know what kind of detergent you use, watch out: it might be a private detective snooping into your life.

At least that's what the Privacy Protection Study Commission learned Wednesday from an official of the nation's third largest investigating firm. John S. Ammarell, executive vice president of the Wackenhut Corp. of Coral Gables, Fla., gave the illustration when asked by Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., R-Calif., if the agency's investigators used pretexts to get information.

"You might for example call up and ask the lady of the house what type of detergent or soap she might use and she'd tell you and you would indicate to her you would like to come out on Monday, or whenever she does her washing, and take a picture of her," Ammarell said.

"Then you would get a picture of a person who was claiming she had a serious back injury and who was proceeding to wash and hang up a big batch of laundry."

The commission called Wackenhut and other agencies to testify about their investigative practices on insurance claims and job applications.

The commission is preparing to make recommendations on changes in federal privacy laws. Its report is due June 10.

Both Ammarell and Eugene Fey, executive vice president of Pinkerton's Inc. of New York, the nation's largest detective agency, contended that existing laws provide enough protection for the individual and that the Privacy Act of 1974 should not be extended to cover private firms.

John Duffy, president of Per Mar Security and Research Corp., Davenport, Iowa, said the individual's rights "must be maintained," but balanced against "the right of the employer and community to be protected from any possible illegal activity."

Ammarell was questioned extensively about Wackenhut's relationship with the Church League of America, a rightwing group based in Wheaton, Ill., that keeps tabs on left-wing political activists.

Ammarell said Wackenhut once kept files on hearings on the now-disbanded House Un-American Activities Committee's hearings, but had turned them over to the Church League.

Ammarell said the agency occasionally, although very infrequently, uses information provided by the Church League.

Under questioning by Rep. Edward I. Koch, D-N.Y., Ammarell denied that Wackenhut investigates people's political beliefs. He said that not all information gathered by the Church League was political, but he added that it was sometimes valuable to know whether someone under investigation was a Communist or belonged to a militant group.

Koch noted that the Privacy Act does not allow the federal government to question individuals on their use of First Amendment rights, and he asked why private firms should be allowed to do so.

Ammarell said he had not read the First Amendment recently, prompting the congressman to respond: "You should read it every week."

Fey said Pinkerton's does not accept information gathered by other investigators, including the Church League.

"I never heard of (the league) before this morning," he said. Fey said his firm employs about 500 investigators and normally destroys their reports as soon as the client pays the bill.

According to a 1971 Rand Corp. study for the Justice Department, Wackenhut once kept files on 2.5 million individuals at its Florida headquarters. Wackenhut has about 250 investigators.

Ammarell testified that until 1975 Wackenhut had "over a million index cards" in its central file on subjects, clients, agency personnel and investigations, but has cut the number to 302,000.

TEST CASE: Magazine publisher Larry Flynt, shown during break in his Cincinnati trial, says the case against him is a test of his First Amendment constitutional rights. The prosecutor says he is trying to stop the publication of Flynt's magazine Hustler, because it is obscene and a danger to the community. (AP Wirephoto) occasionally, although very infrequently, uses information provided by the Church League. Under questioning by Rep. Edward I. Koch, D-N.Y., Ammarell denied that Wackenhut investigates people's political beliefs. He said that not all information gathered by the Church League was political, but he added that it was sometimes valuable to know whether someone under investigation was a Communist or belonged to a militant group.

Koch noted that the Privacy Act does not allow the federal government to question individuals on their use of First Amendment rights, and he asked why private firms should be allowed to do so.

Ammarell said he had not read the First Amendment recently, prompting the congressman to respond: "You should read it

every week."

Fey said Pinkerton's does not accept information gathered by other investigators, including the Church League.

According to a 1971 Rand Corp. study for the Justice Department, Wackenhut once kept files on 2.5 million individuals at its Florida headquarters. Wackenhut has about 200 investigators.

Ammarell testified that until 1975 Wackenhut had "over a million index cards" in its central file on subjects, clients, agency personnel and investigations, but has cut the number to 302,000.

TEST CASE: Magazine publisher Larry Flynt, shown during break in his Cincinnati trial, says the case against him is a test of his First Amendment constitutional rights. The prosecutor says he is trying to stop the publication of Flynt's magazine Hustler, because it is obscene and a danger to the community. (AP Wirephoto)

PEASANT PROTEST: Peasants in northern Mexico march toward Culiacan recently during protest over the Mexican government's land reform program. Extensive land redistribution programs have been government policy since 1934. But farm units are often uneconomically small and peasants, thinking they are being tricked, still illegally occupy tracts owned by others. (AP Wirephoto)

Mexican Peasants' Dreams Unfulfilled

By CHARLES GREEN
Associated Press Writer
LOS MOCHIS, Mexico (AP) — A group of men huddled around a cooking fire on a roadside in northwestern Mexico trying to explain why they wanted to invade and take over another man's private property.

They were trying to put into words a frustration which has plagued Mexico's stoic "campesino" peasants for centuries. It is a frustration with no sure cure in sight.

"Land and Liberty" was the battle cry of Emiliano Zapata when he left the fields of Morelos to become one of the largest figures in the 1910 Mexican revolution. Peasants throughout Latin America have used that same cry to push right-wing governments toward land reform.

Peasants who invaded thousands of acres of private farm lands in northwestern Mexico last November had the same battle cry and voiced the same frustrations. But they were not protesting against a conservative government that supported rich land barons or absentee landlords. They were protesting in a country often used as a prime example of land reform, a country whose agrarian revolution preceded the Russian Revolution. Census figures show almost 40 per cent of Mexico's 80 million people still work the land. For some it is a daily battle just to feed their children. They can never dream of buying a car or saving money. They may never even own a burro.

Mexico has a territory one-fourth the size of the continental United States. Yet figures from the Agriculture Ministry show that the nation has under cultivation an area smaller than the State of Florida.

That means that less than half an acre of land per person is targeted for cultivation in the nation's 10 major crops.

What has happened to Mexican land reform? Did the 1910 revolution go astray? Can the country feed itself?

Everyone who studies land reform in Mexico agrees there is a serious problem. President Jose Lopez Portillo says it must be solved or the country could starve.

Zapata was killed by the army after falling for a trick. Millions of Mexican peasants think they are still being tricked.

Frank Brandenburg, whose book "The Making of Modern Mexico" is a textbook classic, says that not until Lazaro Cardenas became president in 1934 did Mexico really seriously begin land redistribution after the revolution ended in 1917. Cardenas broke up large baronial land holdings to be converted into communal farms, called "ejidos," and based on the farm concept of pre-Columbian Indian civilizations. But Brandenburg says Cardenas made a mistake.

"The economic sin of Cardenas was not taking lands away from unproductive land barons, but distributing lands into small unproductive parcels; not favoring 'ejidos' over private farms but making the communal units uneconomically small," Brandenburg wrote.

Carlos Lorel de Mola, a member of the party that has governed Mexico for half a century and former governor of Yucatan, made a similar criticism in a recent magazine article.

"There has not been a single communal farm society to be organized without demagogery or with a basis in economic reality," he said.

Rodolfo Stavenhagen, an investigator at the College of Mexico, is a recognized land reform expert.

"What has happened in Mexican land reform is that a new social class has been produced, a class holding very small plots of land within the private sector or in communal farms. In some cases production has been increased and the peasants have bettered their standard of living. But in the majority of cases this has not happened," Stavenhagen said.

From 1971 to 1975, according to figures from the private banking system of the Banco Nacional de Mexico, agriculture production increased only an average of 1.8 per cent a year. In order to keep pace with population growth, farm production should increase at least 4.3 per cent a year, the bank said, adding that land under cultivation must increase 2.5 per cent a year.

Law permits an individual to own only 247 acres of irrigated land. Larger plots may be owned in less productive areas. The average farm in the United States is 393 acres. Most communal farm plots in Mexico are 24.7 acres and many are in unproductive areas, deserts or on the sides of mountains.

There are fewer than 80 million acres of cultivable land in Mexico.

U.S. Expecting Mexican 'Flood'

By SAUL A. LEVI

Associated Press Writer

SAN YSIDRO, Calif. (AP) — With the holiday season over and economic troubles mounting in Mexico, immigration authorities expect a record flood of illegal aliens across the southern border of the United States this year.

"I don't think we will have to wait for spring this time," says Robert D. McCord, assistant chief of the Border Patrol for the San Ysidro area. "They're already starting to flood in. Last Sunday we caught 700 of them."

The number of illegal aliens crossing the border — virtually all of them Mexicans — generally drops around Christmas and New Year's. It picks up again in spring when sowing and harvesting start in farms north of the border.

Sharp drops in the value of the Mexican peso since September have made dollar wages doubly attractive to thousands of impoverished Mexicans.

McCord says a record 270,000 illegal aliens were caught by his men last year. A decade ago the annual average was 15,000 in the same area.

Roughly nine out of 10 of those caught last year were Mexicans. The rest came from Central and South America.

Some border officials blame the increase on the end 12 years' ago of the so-called "bracero" program which permitted a number of Mexicans to work on U.S. farms during harvest time. Others blame Mexico's economic problems, its population growth or all three factors.

Mexico's population is estimated at 60 million and is growing at the rate of 3.7 per cent a year, one of the world's highest rates. It could reach 120 million people by 1997 and 240 million by the year 2017. Unemployment is generally estimated at 30 to 50 per cent.

No one knows how many foreigners are living and working illegally in the United States. Rough estimates based on the number of those caught vary between 3 million and 8 million.

Some carry fraudulent personal documents. Others have no documents at all. The United States is one of the few countries in the world where it isn't against the law to hire an illegal immigrant. The few bills introduced in Congress to make it illegal have all been pigeon-holed.

Patrolling is difficult on the southern border, a 2,776-mile stretch of open frontier where family and economic ties link dozens of communities on both sides of the border.

William C. Craig, the deputy chief of the Immigration Service, estimates 38 million people a year pass legally through San Ysidro into the United States, making it the busiest land crossing of any U.S. border.

The San Ysidro crossing is staffed by 65 officers from the Immigration Service, 100 customs officers and 16 officers from the Department of Agriculture. But only half of its 23 vehicle inspection lanes are manned, and most of the immigration officers are rookies.

"We need double the officers we now have to do a completely efficient job," says Craig. "Intercepting illegal aliens requires an experienced officer. We can give them the training and experience here, but we need more people."

Craig's officers catch an average of 1,000 Mexicans a month trying to cross the border with fake papers. The Border Patrol's San Ysidro station has 200 men to cover three per cent of the border, but it's a stretch in which one-third of the illegal aliens caught are taken.

A decade ago "webbacks" used to cross secretly on their own or in small groups. Almost all of them went to work on farms near the border for much lower pay than Americans.

Now organized gangs of people-smugglers with a wide variety of contacts bring them over at $150 to $300 a head. The going rate for a Tijuana-to-Los Angeles crossing is $200 to $300, paid in advance in Tijuana, officials say.

"Roughly one-third of the illegals nowadays go in for farm labor," says McCord.

Beef Up Reserves To Cut Cost, Says Defense Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown is proposing that the Army eliminate two regular infantry brigades and prepare National Guard or reserve forces as replacements in a move that could cut about $87 million from next year's Pentagon budget.

The proposal is one of 33 ways that Brown has suggested to Army, Navy and Air Force officials that the Pentagon might save a total of about $2.8 billion in fiscal 1978.

The new defense secretary has asked the services for comment on the economy measures before he makes a final decision on them.

The two reserve or guard brigades that would be upgraded under his proposal would substitute for 10,000 regular Army soldiers.

The brigades would be raised to a state of high readiness and earmarked for early call-up in a crisis.

During the election campaign, President Carter said "the readiness of reserve forces is doubtful." Carter also said he was "quite concerned about the absence of a proper role for the reserve forces."

But since the election, his Pentagon transition team apparently found that the regular Army has achieved good results by affiliating reserve and guard brigades and battalions closely with regular Army divisions.

Brown has sent the Army a memorandum saying the affiliation concept is successful and its expansion appears feasible.

Under this concept, in effect for more than two years, selected high-priority brigades and battalions from the Army National Guard and Reserve were picked to round out four of the 16 Army divisions and bring them to full wartime strength in a mobilization.

During peacetime, the backup units maintain ties with their parent regular divisions, which help improve the readiness of the guard and reserve elements. From time to time, entire divisions — regulars and backup components — are sup-

Ferency Says State Budget Fund Is Unconstitutional

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Former Human Rights Party leader Zoltan Ferency has blasted a proposal to set up a state budget stabilization fund as unconstitutional and fiscally irresponsible.

Ferency, who has returned to the Democratic Party, said Wednesday the concept of putting aside funds for bad economic times violates the constitutional provisions spelling out the budgeting process.

And, he added, Michigan is not likely to need the money for social programs in the future more than it does now.

Budget Director Gerald Miller dismissed Ferency's claims, however. He said he has never heard any question of the constitutionality.

Miller said he would ask legal experts about the matter. But, he said, "there is no question we need a budget stabilization fund. We can resolve a legal way to do it."

Gov. William Milliken has proposed in his 1977-78 budget to put aside $128.8 million in such a fund. Most of that would be used to help the state start paying its bills on time, however.

Leading Democrats also have endorsed the concept, after several years of spending cutbacks to keep state books balanced.

But Ferency insisted the governor must spell out how state money is to be spent, and may not set aside money for unspecified future use.

"The state constitution clearly prohibits the imposition of taxes or the allocation of revenues for any purpose other than to meet specifically proposed expenditures," he said.

"It is clearly unconstitutional to raise taxes and appropriate funds for expenditures which are neither expenses of state government nor proposed expenditures for the next fiscal period."

Bus Plan Backed By Commission

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Highway Commission has endorsed a recommendation by the governor that all city buses bought in the next two years be accessible to the handicapped.

Opponents — the bus systems — pledged to take their fight to the legislature, which must enact standards into law before any policy can be implemented.

Under the resolution unanimously approved Wednesday by the commission, state grants to cities for bus-buying must include money to make the coaches accessible to wheelchairs.

That will cost the state up to $4.5 million, since 370 buses are to be bought in 1977 and 1978, officials said.

In his State of the State Message earlier this month, Gov. William Milliken urged that buses bought in the next two years be "designed to allow access by the mobility disadvantaged." He also urged that other public transportation systems, including rail service and intercity bus systems like Greyhound, be studied to see if they too need to be made accessible. The commission endorsed all of Milliken's requests.

Jim Dunn of the Michigan Public Transit Association called the two-year bus-buying policy "a foolish way to go."

For one thing, he said, it would make accessible only 370 of the 1,000 city buses in the state, and some cities would get only a handful of buses the handicapped could use.

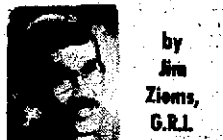

Instead, he said, one entire city bus system should be equipped with hydraulic lifts. The system should be studied to see if the buses are indeed used by the handicapped, and if that is the best way to transport the handicapped.

The cost of new buses is funded 90 per cent by the federal government and 20 per cent by the state. But Dunn said if the cost of a single bus increases by 10 per cent, the amount of money the state has to spend on new buses drops by that amount.

Dunn said his group, representing all city bus systems in Michigan, will try to persuade the legislature to test the system before mandating expensive equipment on all buses.

Last year, the legislature voted to ban any new bus purchases until it could write standards for making the coaches accessible. A bill requiring all city buses to be accessible died in the final hours of the session.

Let's Talk Real Estate

by Jim Ziems, G.R.I.

In real estate financing the borrower gives a note in which he or she unconditionally promises to pay a certain amount of money. This is the debt instrument that sets up the obligation of the debt. According to the experts: "The borrower also gives to the creditor a mortgage which pledges certain property as security for the loan. This is something called 'dead pledge' because as long as the debtor carries out his promises and obligations, the mortgage has no effect." It turns out that people often say they are "paying on a mortgage" but this is misleading because they are actually paying on the note.

Beef Up Reserves To Cut Cost, Says Defense Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown is proposing that the Army eliminate two regular infantry brigades and prepare National Guard or reserve forces as replacements in a move that could cut about $67 million from next year's Pentagon budget.

The proposal is one of 33 ways that Brown has suggested to Army, Navy and Air Force officials that the Pentagon might save a total of about $2.8 billion in fiscal 1978.

The new defense secretary has asked the services for comment on the economy measures before he makes a final decision on them.

The two reserve or guard brigades that would be upgraded under his proposal would substitute for 10,000 regular Army soldiers.

The brigades would be raised to a state of high readiness and earmarked for early call-up in a crisis.

During the election campaign, President Carter said "the readiness of reserve forces is

But since the election, his Pentagon transition team apparently found that the regular Army has achieved good results by affiliating reserve and guard brigades and battalions closely with regular Army divisions.

Brown has sent the Army a memorandum saying the affiliation concept is successful and its expansion appears feasible.

Under this concept, in effect for more than two years, selected high-priority brigades and battalions from the Army National Guard and Reserve were picked to round out four of the 16 Army divisions and bring them to full wartime strength in a mobilization.

During peacetime, the backup units maintain ties with their parent regular divisions, which help improve the readiness of the guard and reserve elements. From time to time, entire divisions — regulars and backup components — are supposed to train together.

A major attraction of the affiliation concept is that it enables the Army to maintain more regular divisions than it otherwise could within tight manpower limits.

Although the regular Army has cooperated in the affiliation of guard and reserve units with its divisions, Army generals oppose any further loss of regular manpower.

They are expected to argue strongly against any broadened affiliation program that would reduce regular Army strength below the currently projected 790,000 men and women.

Ferency Says State Budget Fund Is Unconstitutional

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Former Human Rights Party leader Zoltan Ferency has blasted a proposal to set up a state budget stabilization fund as unconstitutional and fiscally irresponsible.

Ferency, who has returned to the Democratic Party, said Wednesday the concept of putting aside funds for bad economic times violates the constitutional provisions spelling out the budgeting process.

And, he added, Michigan is not likely to need the money for social programs in the future more than it does now.

Budget Director Gerald

Miller dismissed Ferency's claims, however. He said he has never heard any question of the constitutionality.

Miller said he would ask legal experts about the matter. But, he said, "there is no question we need a budget stabilization fund. We can resolve a legal way to do it."

Gov. William Milliken has proposed in his 1977-78 budget to put aside $128.8 million in such a fund. Most of that would be used to help the state start paying its bills on time, however.

Leading Democrats also have endorsed the concept, after several years of spending cut-backed.

But Ferency insisted the governor must spell out how state money is to be spent, and may not set aside money for unspecified future use.

"The state constitution clearly prohibits the imposition of taxes or the allocation of revenues for any purpose other than to meet specifically proposed expenditures," he said.

"It is clearly unconstitutional to raise taxes and appropriate funds for expenditures which are neither expenses of state government nor proposed expenditures for the next fiscal period."

Trio Bound Over To Circuit Court

Three people were bound over to circuit court, one demanded examination and 12 were sentenced in Berrien Fifth District court Wednesday.

Joseph A. Singleton, Jr., 21, of 1153 Highland avenue, Benton township, demanded examination on a charge of arson Jan. 15 at the apartment of Gracie Hampton, 1700 Highland avenue. He was freed on a $2,500 personal recognizance bond.

Bound over were:

Eddie D. Suggs, 17, of 1438 Agard avenue, Benton Harbor, on a charge of unarmed robbery of Shelia Poe, an attendant at the Spur Service station, 845 East Napier avenue, Benton township, on Jan. 7. The robber allegedly got away with about $40 by pushing the attendant and reaching into the register. Suggs' bond was continued at $5,000.

Mitchell Floyd, 29, of Grand Rapids, on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over $100, a 1975 Lincoln auto, Jan. 17 in Benton township. Bond was continued at $25,000.

Frank Versaw Jr., 51, of Route 2, box 891, Hoder road, New Buffalo, on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants, third offense, Jan. 16 in New Buffalo township. He continued free on a $2,000 personal recognizance bond.

Sentenced were:

Will Brown, 52, of Michigan City, Ind., $75 or 30 days in jail and 90 days probation for cashing an insufficient fund check under $50 June 13 at Moglik's Party store in New Buffalo township.

Terry Lee Sheets, 24, of Galesburg, received concurrent sentences of 270 days in jail for probation violation and 90 days for assault and battery against Galesburg township police officer Dale Langstre Sept. 20, 1974, and also 90 days for failing to appear in court on the assault and battery charge in 1974.

Thomas C. White, 48, of Coloma, $84 or 20 days in jail for leaving the scene of a property damage accident Oct. 29 in Benton Harbor.

Sentenced for the following offenses were:

Impaired driving — Richard E. Young, 20, of 3303 Kim street, Benton Man Guilty On Drug Count

A Benton township man arrested on a narcotics charge 14 months ago pleaded guilty yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to a reduced charge.

Freddie Johnson, 25, whose last known address was 175 Charles street, pleaded guilty before Judge Julian E. Hughes to attempted possession of heroin Nov. 6, 1975, in Benton township. He was originally charged with delivery of heroin. Assistant Prosecutor Scott Beatty said the delay in resolving Johnson's case was because Johnson had to testify in another drug case before he could plead guilty to the lesser charge.

Illinois Men Bound Over

Two brothers accused of the Jan. 1 knife attack against John Searls, 61, well-known Benton Harbor street cleaner, were bound over to Berrien Circuit court Wednesday.

Bruce Alsop, 23, of Lockport, Ill., was bound over after a preliminary examination in which a Will county, Ill., police officer testified in District court that Bruce admitted being an accomplice in the attack.

The other Alsop brother, Steve, 19, of Joliet, Ill., waived preliminary examination and was also bound over. The brothers are formally charged with assault with intent to rob while armed in connection with the attack on Searls of 2125 Territorial road, Benton township, in which Searls was stabbed 42 times. The brothers were arrested in Joliet on Jan. 17 and transported to Berrien county to face the charges.

Will county Sheriff's Det. Sgt. John Waters testified during Bruce Alsop's preliminary examination that Bruce admitted to him during an interview that he and Steve planned to rob Searls, according to Judge Ronald J. Taylor who presided over the hearing.

Waters testified that Bruce told him that he dropped off Steve at Searls' house Jan. 1 and drove around for a while. When he came back he saw Steve stabbing Searls and said let's get out of here, according to Taylor. Both then left the house and drove off.

Searls, took the stand and testified that he was attacked, but he was unable to identify Bruce Alsop, Taylor said.

Searls was not robbed during the attack.

Taylor said he bound over

Bruce Alsop on the basis of testimony on the admission to being an accomplice. Both men remained in jail under bonds of $40,000 each.

Named To Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Chalmers Pell, D-R.I., are new members of the board of regents governing the Smithsonian Institution.

— NOTICE — PUBLIC SERVICE EMPLOYMENT PROJECTS

The Berrien County CETA Program is now accepting applications for short-term Special Public Service Employment Projects, pursuant to revisions of the Title VI Federal Regulations. Eligible applicants include units of general purpose local government and agencies thereof, combinations of associations of such governmental units whose primary purpose is to provide public services, special purpose political subdivisions having the power to tax and spend funds, local educational agencies, institutions of higher education, community development corporations, non-profit groups and organizations serving Indians and other non-profit private organizations or institutions engaged in public service.

Projects must run a minimum of four (4) months but not longer than twelve (12) months. All projects must begin before September 20, 1977 and be completed by March 31, 1978. Projects must be clearly defined specific tasks, must provide a new kind of activity that will cease with the completion of the end product and shall not expend existing public services. For example, project funds could not be used to increase refuse collection from once to twice a week, but could be used to undertake a special clean-up endeavor.

Public service activity includes, but is not limited to, the following: beautification, conservation, crime prevention and control, education, child care, environmental quality, fire protection, health care, housing and neighborhood improvements, manpower service, parks, streets and other public safety, recreation, rural development, solid waste removal, transportation, veterans outreach, community surveys or canvassing, etc. It excludes building and highway construction work (except that which the applicant is authorized to do and would normally perform itself rather than contract out). The CETA Act forbids participants to be employed in the construction, operation or maintenance of such part of any facility as is used or will be used for sectarian instruction or as a place of religious worship.

Special Projects applications are currently available at the CETA Office, 145 West Main Street, Benton Harbor, Michigan 49022. The allocation of special project funds will be by project approval. The deadline for all project applications is 5:00 p.m. on Tuesday, February 15, 1977.

Bruce Alsop, 23, of Lockport, Ill., was bound over after a preliminary examination in which a Will county, Ill., police officer testified in District court that Bruce admitted being an accomplice in the attack.

The other Alsop brother, Steve, 19, of Joliet, Ill., waived preliminary examination and was also bound over. The brothers are formally charged with assault with intent to rob while armed in connection with the attack on Searls of 2125 Territorial road, Benton township, in which Searls was stabbed 42 times. The brothers were arrested in Joliet on Jan. 17 and transported to Berrien county to face the charges.

Will county Sheriff's Det. Sgt. John Waters testified during Bruce Alsop's preliminary examination that Bruce admitted to him during an interview that he and Steve planned to rob Searls, according to Judge Ronald J. Taylor who presided over the hearing.

Waters testified that Bruce

told him that he dropped off Steve at Searls' house Jan. 1 and drove around for a while. When he came back he saw Steve stabbing Searls and said let's get out of here, according to Taylor. Both then left the house and drove off.

Searls, took the stand and testified that he was attacked, but he was unable to identify Bruce Alsop, Taylor said.

Searls was not robbed during the attack. Taylor said he bound over

Bruce Alsop on the basis of testimony on the admission to being an accomplice. Both men remained in jail under bonds of $40,000 each.

Named To Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., are new members of the board of regents governing the Smithsonian Institution.

— NOTICE — PUBLIC SERVICE EMPLOYMENT PROJECTS

The Berrien County CETA Program is now accepting applications for short-term Special Public Service Employment Projects, pursuant to revisions of the Title VI Federal Regulations. Eligible applicants include units of general purpose local government and agencies thereof, combinations of associations of such governmental units whose primary purpose is to provide public services, special purpose political subdivisions having the power to tax and spend funds, local educational agencies, institutions of higher education, community development corporations, non-profit groups and organizations serving Indians and other non-profit private organizations or institutions engaged in public service.

Projects must run a minimum of four (4) months but not longer than twelve (12) months. All projects must begin before September 20, 1977 and be completed by March 31, 1978. Projects must be clearly defined specific tasks, must provide a new kind of activity that will cease with the completion of the end product and shall not expand existing public services. For example, project funds could not be used to increase refuse collection from once to twice a week, but could be used to undertake a special clean-up endeavor.

Public service activity includes, but is not limited to, the following: beautification, conservation, crime prevention and control, education, child care, environmental quality, fire protection, health care, housing and neighborhood improvements, manpower service, parks, streets and other public safety, recreation, rural development, solid waste removal, transportation, veterans outreach, community surveys or canvassing, etc. It excludes building and highway construction work (except that which the applicant is authorized to do and would normally perform itself rather than contract out). The CETA Act forbids participants to be employed in the construction, operation or maintenance of such part of any facility as is used or will be used for sectarian instruction or as a place of religious worship.

Special Projects applications are currently available at the CETA Office, 145 West Main Street, Benton Harbor, Michigan 49022. The allocation of special project funds will be by project approval. The deadline for all project applications is 5:00 p.m. on Tuesday, February 15, 1977.

U-M Offers Extension Course In Real Estate

ANN ARBOR — An introductory course in real estate business will be offered in the Twin Cities this winter by the statewide real estate program of the University of Michigan. Real Estate Business I begins Feb. 9 and will run each Wednesday for 11 weeks from 6:30-10 p.m. in room C-222 at Lake Michigan college, Napier avenue, Benton township.

It's a sales course, with emphasis on legal aspects of real estate, and is designed as a practical introduction to problems arising in day-to-day real estate transactions. A series of guest lectures will help provide the instruction. Although advance registration for the course is advised, students may also register at the class directly before the opening session.

The U-M real estate program, now in its 30th year, offers courses for the benefit of both experienced people and those new to or interested in real estate. The U-M extension service, the graduate school of business administration and the Michigan Association of Realtors cooperate in offering the state-certified courses, which have been approved for continuing education unit credit and can lead to the respected U-M certificate in real estate.

Nixon's No Hit On Golf Course

— O.C., Spokane, Wash.

A: After his serious bout with pleuritis, Nixon could only manage three or four holes and than satisfied by a new book in the works now. The author is Craig Tennis, who was once the talent coordinator for "The Tonight Show" and insiders say the book will be far from idyllic.

Q: What's Bart Lancaster's private life like? This long-time fan never sees anything personal about Bart in print.

— D.M., Boston

A: Bart's legendary hatred of personal publicity has gotten even worse since 1971, when he and his wife divorced after 30 years of marriage and five children. Currently, he shares a then just occasionally. But now he's back to a full 18 hole game three times a week. The ex-president plays free as a non-paying guest of the Shorecliffs Country club. This doesn't delight some of the club members but not for political reasons. Each hole is cleared of golfers by the Secret Service when Nixon is ready to play. And worse, it takes him forever to take a shot.

Q: Why is it that you never read interviews with "Tonight" show host Johnny Carson? Doesn't he realize that the public is interested in reading about him? — W.P., Erie, Pa.

A: Carson realizes but doesn't care. He hates interviews and refuses to give them. However, your curiosity may be more

EILEEN ZIMBALIST JR.

Los Angeles apartment with Jackie Bone, a 47-year-old hairdresser and spends as much time as possible with his children.

WITH THE TIDE: Henry Kissinger drank not champagne, like everyone else, but Pepsi Cola when reporters gave him an informal farewell party recently. The reporters jestingly accused him of doing this because his friend, Don Kendall, head of Pepsi Cola, is a big Republican financial backer. "Until Jan. 20 I drink Pepsi," replied Henry. "After that I go with the tide." Meaning, of course, the Coca Cola tide. Paul Austin, the president of Coca Cola, is a leading Democratic fund-raiser.

Q: Is it true that Dean Martin has dated skater Dorothy Hamill? — R.G., Erie, Mont.

A: It's not Dean but his 25-year-old son Dino, now separated from his British actress-wife Olivia Hussey, who is quite taken with the petite skating star. They were introduced last year by Dino's best friend Desi Arnaz Jr.

Q: I never see my old favorite Eileen Zimbalist Jr. in movies or TV anymore. What's the story there? — V.E. Alexandria, Va.

A: Zimbalist has dropped out of acting and is devoting most of his time to politics. He was a Republican delegate from California at the convention in Kansas City and now is being pressed to run against Governor Jerry Brown in the next California gubernatorial race.

Justice's Doors Are Open Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has found a symbol for the changes it intends to make in the Department of Justice. The symbol is the opening of the massive steel front doors of the department's headquarters on Pennsylvania Avenue. In 1970, ex-Atty. Gen. John Mitchell ordered those doors closed and locked as a security measure against demonstrators and terrorists. They were thrown open again Wednesday by Griffin B. Bell minutes after he was sworn in by Chief Justice Warren Burger.

Bell's boss, President Carter, looked on in approval. Carter said the locked doors were "symbolic of a separation of the disaffected and disadvantaged from the core of justice. These doors will be kept open from now on." Meanwhile, the Washington Post reported that a black attorney for the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, Drew Days, was Bell's first choice to be assistant attorney general in charge of the civil rights division. Bell has already said he would like to name a black appellate judge, Wade McCree Jr., to be the department's solicitor general.

High Winds Drop Curtain On Area

temperature dipped to zero. He said the winter's accumulation of snow now stands at 92½ inches, with 18 inches on the ground.

At the Buchanan sewage disposal plant, the snowfall was figured at 3½ inches, and at Paw Paw it was given at 4 to 4½ inches.

All weather observation station operators indicated it was difficult to achieve an accurate measure, since much of the snow that flew in the air was old snow stirred up by the high winds.

Several industrial plants and businesses closed their operations this morning after the police agencies had asked people to stay off of the roads if possible.

Law officers were kept so busy answering accident calls during the late afternoon and early evening that they postponed preparing their written reports.

Berrien Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell said three of his patrol cars were involved in accidents themselves by 4 p.m. The department asked persons involved in noninjury accidents to obtain names and to report the accident details later.

The Dowagiac post office said there will be no mail deliveries there today because the mail truck from Kalamazoo to Dowagiac did not get through. Southwestern and western Michigan took the blunt of the storm.

Effects of the storm in other parts of Michigan were reported by the Associated Press as follows:

Wednesday's storm came 10 years to the day after one of the worst blizzards of the century. It hit the state in 1967, claiming 23 lives in the state.

One multi-vehicle pileup near Grand Rapids Wednesday sent 11 people to the hospital. State Police described driving conditions throughout most of Lower Michigan as treacherous, and travelers' advisories were out across the state today.

The Ottawa County Sheriff's department declared a snow emergency, closing all roads in the county as winds gusted up to 40 miles an hour, piling deep drifts on highways. A pile-up on Interstate 196 in that county caused at least one death.

Police also reported a 20-vehicle accident on U.S. 131 in Wyoming, a 35-vehicle mess on Michigan 37 near Caledonia and a multiple collision on U.S. 27 in Clinton County.

State Police at Rockford urged motorists to stay off highways in Kent, Allegan and Ottawa counties.

NEW SON — Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kelly, Perkins boulevard, Grand Beach, are the parents of a boy born Jan. 19 at St. Anthony hospital, Michigan City, Ind.

Mrs. Fellner

Mrs. Gertrude Fellner, 68, of 711 South Park road, Benton Harbor, died at her home Wednesday afternoon, after suffering an apparent heart attack.

She was born Nov. 20, 1907, in Hagar township and before her retirement in 1974, was employed in the cafeteria of Whirlpool Corporation.

Surviving are a son, James D. Hartford; two brothers, Edward and Walter Wagner, both of St. Joseph. Her husband, William, preceded her in death on April 27, 1966; a son, William A. Fellner, preceded her in death on June 8, 1974.

Mrs. Fellner was a member of Berrien County Farm Bureau and Salem Lutheran church, Coloma.

Funeral services were incomplete this forenoon at the Fairplain Chapel, Florin funeral home, where friends may call after 7 this evening.

Musser Rites Set

Funeral services for Gerald L. "Jerry" Musser, 73, of 136 Lorimar, Benton Harbor, who died Wednesday, will be held at 2 p.m. Friday in the Fairplain Chapel, Florin funeral home, where friends may call. Burial will be in Riverview cemetery, St. Joseph. Lakeshore Masonic Lodge, No. 298, will conduct rites at the service.

Memorials may be made to Michigan Heart Association.

Mrs. Irma Smith

WATERVLIET — Mrs. Irma Smith, 85, of Route 1, Watervliet, died Wednesday afternoon in Watervliet Community hospital. She was born Sept. 18, 1890.

Surviving are a son, Richard Smith, Watervliet; a brother, Smith Richards, Alamo, Mich.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Hutchins funeral home, Watervliet, where friends may call after 7 this evening. Burial will be in Watervliet cemetery.

Memorials may be made to Watervliet Fire department or to Watervliet Community hospital.

Mrs. O. Spaulding

HARTFORD — Mrs. Ora Spaulding, 83, Myrtle Creek, Ore., formerly of Hartford, died Monday in Rose Haven Rest Home, Roseburg, Ore.

Surviving is a son, Gerald Spaulding, Watervliet. Her husband, Arlyn, a son and a daughter preceded her in death. Cremation has been held.

Eugene Lidke

NEW BUFFALO — Eugene A. Lidke, 45, of 13159 Lubke road, New Buffalo, died at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday of an apparent heart attack while working at the Bethlehem Steel Company, Burns Harbor, Ind.

He was born April 29, 1931, in Pinhook, LaPorte county, Ind., and had resided in the New Buffalo area 21 years. He was a carpenter at Bethlehem Steel. Mr. Lidke was also fire chief of New Buffalo township station No. 2. He was a veteran of the Korean War.

Surviving are his widow, the former Lillian Gutschaw; a daughter, Mrs. Allan (Cynthia) Schroder and a son Eugene, both of New Buffalo; his mother, Mrs. Ramona Lidke and a sister, Mrs. Jerry (Susan) Hartford, both of New Port Richey, Fla., and a brother, Richard Lidke, of Michigan City, Ind.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday in the Smith funeral home, New Buffalo. Burial will be in Pine Grove cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 until 9 this evening; 2 until 9 p.m. Friday and until the hour of service on Saturday.

Foster Rites Set

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Funeral services for William "Bill" E. Foster, 76, Box 366, Daniel Boone Trail, Berrien Springs, who died Tuesday, will be held at 11 a.m. Friday in the United Methodist church, Berrien Springs. Burial will be in Rose Hill cemetery, Berrien Springs.

Friends may call at McLaughlin funeral home, Berrien Springs.

Memorials may be made to the church.

Township Approves Pay Hikes

BERRIEN CENTER — The Berrien township board last night approved township board salaries for 1977-78.

The salaries, and a proposal for an addition to the township hall, will be part of the yet uncompleted budget to be presented at the township's annual meeting in April.

According to Township Clerk Ester Sommers, the salary of Township Supervisor Lowell Bruce was boosted from $6,000 to $7,500; that of the clerk and treasurer from $3,000 each to $4,500 each; and for the two trustees, from a flat $25 per meeting to $60 yearly plus $25 per meeting.

Mrs. Sommers said the budget has not been completed yet. The township's 1976-77 budget approved last April called for expenditures of $153,400.

Township Hall Hit By Fire

WATERVLIET — Fire yesterday caused an estimated $800 in damage to the Watervliet township hall during an attempt to thaw out frozen water pipes, according to township officials.

Supervisor William Gaines said the fire broke out in the hall's attic. An electrical short circuit set a fire that damaged insulation and rafters.

The Jack Closson Welding company of Benton Harbor had been hired to thaw out the pipes, Gaines said.

The Watervliet fire department doused the blaze.

MAY BE PAROLED: Watergate conspirator, E. Howard Hunt, will be released from prison on Feb. 25 if he pays his fine of $10,000 still pending against him, according to an announcement by the U.S. Parole Commission in Washington Wednesday. (AP Wirephoto)

Gasoline Price Edges Up

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The average cost of regular and unleaded gasoline jumped 1 cent per gallon in the past week, according to the weekly Automobile Club of Michigan "fuel gauge" survey. Stations along Michigan's tourist routes averaged 62.6 cents per gallon for regular fuel, with a range of $3.9 to 68.9 cents. Unleaded auto fuel averaged 64.5 cents per gallon, costing as much as 70.9 cents. All stations surveyed were open during daylight hours Monday through Saturday, with 81 per cent pumping gas on Sunday.

Student Tax Credit Sought

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state lawmaker has introduced a bill to allow state income tax credits for educational expenses to students or their parents. The bill, sponsored by Rep. Jackie Vaughn, D-Detroit, would authorize a credit for tuition, fees, books and school supplies needed for college undergraduate studies or vocational schools. A tax credit of $100 would be granted for the 1978 tax year, and increased to $150 for 1979, to $200 for 1980 and to $250 for 1981 and thereafter.

I-75 Centers 'Good Buddies'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's travel information centers are about to become "good buddies" to motorists on Interstate 75. The State Highway Commission on Wednesday ordered citizens band radio equipment installed at information centers on I-75 at Clare and Sault Ste. Marie. The centers will broadcast traffic and weather reports in a pilot program that could spread to the other seven state-run centers if it is successful, a commission spokesman said. The spokesman, Tom Shawver, said the broadcasts over Channel 21 apparently will be the nation's first using state highway workers.

Gun Violation Charged

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — Steven Holcomb Jr., who last September traded a worthless German bill to a Traverse City bank for $39,700 cash, is being held on a federal firearms charge. Federal Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents said they arrested Holcomb, 31, at his Traverse City home Tuesday night. He was arraigned Wednesday on two counts of violating the 1968 Gun Control Act by purchasing a pistol and rifle illegally. Holcomb was jailed under $10,000 bond pending a Feb. 4 hearing in U.S. District Court at Grand Rapids. No criminal charges were filed in the banknote case although National Bank & Trust Co. of Traverse City is suing Holcomb to recover $18,177 because of the transaction. In a mixup, a teller gave Holcomb $39,700 for a 1973 German 100,000-mark note. But the note, printed during a period of raging inflation, no longer is valid and was worth only about one cent when issued.

OSHA Act 'Backfires'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A zealous Michigan labor department official has accused his own agency of violating the Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Act. And his boss is appealing. The citation, charging failure to quickly report the death of an employee last year, was disclosed Wednesday by Labor Director Keith Molin. Molin has often complained that the OSHA law does not have enough teeth. But in this case, Molin said he said he will appeal. Molin identified the official who issued the citation — which carries a $100 fine — as Herbert Austin, an assistant chief of the department's general industry division. Molin said Austin acted properly.

School Debts Leveling Off

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — After sharply increasing for more than 25 years, the bonded indebtedness of Michigan school districts seems to have leveled off, according to the state Board of Education. The board said that Michigan school districts owe just over $2.4 billion for school bonds they issued to finance construction of new schools and modernizations of old ones. That represents an increase of $42 million during the last year following a slight decline during the previous year. State Superintendent of Public Instruction John Porier said it is doubtful that bonded indebtedness will increase much in the years ahead because of declining enrollment. More schools will be closed than new ones built, he said.

Emergency Oil Arriving

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Emergency supplies of heating oil have begun moving into Minnesota, North Dakota, Wisconsin and Michigan from refineries in Ohio and Illinois, the Federal Energy Agency said Wednesday. On Monday the FEA ordered several refineries to increase their output of home heating oil to supply critically short areas in the upper Midwest. The order totals 10,000 barrels per day. An FEA spokesman said three per cent of the allocation to each state would be set aside for emergencies. The rest of the oil would go to normal oil suppliers. The oil was moving by pipeline, train and truck. The FEA also named five more refineries involved in the order: Amoco refineries at Wood River, Ill. and Whiting, Ind.; Union Oil at Lemont, Ill.; and Texaco's Lockport, Ill. and Lawrenceville, Ill. refineries.

Tax Extension Bill Signed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has signed into law a two-year extension for all persons eligible to claim property tax credits. Such claims must be filed within two years after the end of the taxable year for which the credit is claimed.

Thus an extension is being granted to April 15, 1977, to all persons who did not file or have been denied property tax credits for 1974 because of late filing. Property tax credits claims for 1975 will be honored until Dec. 31, 1977.

tomatoes in one Philadelphia store went up from 79 cents to 88 cents in one week, and a Chicago store was charging 98 cents for three pounds of onions that sold for 79 cents two weeks ago.

Parts of Maryland and Virginia around the Chesapeake Bay were declared federal disaster areas because the frozen bay has put many boatmen and fishermen out of work. The ice has blocked shipments of fuel oil and grain.

Outside Pennsylvania, school closures were scattered.

Six small districts in five Ohio counties were closed for a lack of natural gas. State Supt. Martin W. Essex said the worst was yet to come. A spokesman for his office said at least 80 districts have given notice of definite closing dates, with a few saying they hope to reopen toward the end of next month.

Equitable Gas Co., a Pittsburgh-based company, asked schools in eight West Virginia counties to close until further notice. It extended that request to taverns, nightclubs and theaters.

In Georgia, most schools were open but with orders to keep thermostats at 65 degrees. Temperatures there had moderated somewhat by mid-week but were predicted to plunge back into the teens by this weekend.

While businessmen waited to see what the government would do to ease gas shortages, President Carter's energy adviser James R. Schlesinger said at least two interstate pipelines — Southern Natural Gas and Trans-Alaska — already were cutting off gas supplies to some top priority consumers. He said Carter's proposals were aimed at avoiding those cutoffs, which affect some residences, public services and factories in danger of severe damage without gas.

Schlesinger said he did not have a precise breakdown on unemployment caused by gas shortages but he said the number of unemployed was reported highest in New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes tried to give his state some relief by removing environmental restrictions on high sulfur coal, but some questioned whether that would have any impact.

There was mixed reaction from Western states — which have been enjoying a relatively mild winter — to the possibility that they may be called on by Congress to share more of their natural gas with the Midwest and East.

The Pacific Gas & Electric Co. offered to share its supplies. Under an arrangement approved by the California Public Utilities Commission, PG&E will loan gas to Southern Natural Gas Co. of Birmingham, Ala., for residential and other high priority customers in six states: Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and Florida.

But, in Denver, Colorado Interstate Gas Co.'s president, Peter King, said his company — although the largest supplier in Colorado — didn't have enough gas to share.

"If we start gambling and ship gas away, we would have to take it from our interruptible customers who would have to use alternate fuels at higher prices," he said.

Romney Says Time Has Vindicated Him see some day.

"I'm still interested in politics," he says. "But I'd certainly give primary allegiance to a bona fide citizens effort if one developed, and I think we need one."

Romney said Common Cause, the public interest lobby, had the right idea but floundered because its organizer, John Gardner, has concentrated on narrow issues.

"He took advantage of the desire of many citizens to assert their citizenship above partisanship, then rushed off in directions he was concerned about," Romney said. "Some of those reforms are desirable but they're not the fundamental reform we need ... I was disappointed."

Since leaving the Nixon cabinet in 1972, Romney has spent most of his time in his role as chairman of the National Center for Voluntary Action, a private group he helped found in 1970 to foster and organize the use of volunteers.

It is intended to bring private citizens into nursing homes, hospitals, mental health programs, schools and other institutions. Romney calls it the best approach to solving "really the toughest problems — the human and social ones."

Political regrets or not, as Romney watched the telecast of last week's inaugural he fondly recalled riding down Pennsylvania Avenue as governor of Michigan in the 1964 inaugural parade for Lyndon Johnson.

He had worked unsuccessfully the previous summer to get a civil rights plank in the Republican platform, but was defeated by the forces of Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP nominee.

"There were black kids along the parade route that day and they were yelling, 'Hey George, have you straightened out Barry yet?'" Romney reminisced.

And he recalls the consequences of his withdrawal from the presidential race in 1968 — the election of Richard Nixon.

"After I withdrew, he came here for a visit," he said, gesturing toward another room of the house.

"We talked for five or six hours ... he was a split personality, I think. He was an able man, a brilliant man. He could be very idealistic. On the other hand, he had this other side ... he let us all down. I think it was reprehensible what he did."

Chikaming Zoning Has One Protest

SAWYER — Only one objection was lodged against a revised Chikaming township zoning ordinance slated for a special Feb. 5 referendum during a public hearing here last night.

The objection centered around powers of the zoning appeals board under the measure adopted by the township board in June.

Arnold Holtgren, Sawyer, objected to the board's power to act on certain requests without first holding a public hearing. He said hearings should be required.

Holtgren was among the 35 people who were present at the township board reviewed the revised ordinance and a second issue slated for the special election.

The second issue is a request for a one-mill property tax levy for financing fire equipment purchases for the township's fire department. Similar issues were rejected by voters twice last year.

On the zoning, Ronald Magnuson, chairman of the township planning commission, said most opposition to the revised code was not to specific changes but to a new zoning map which was included.

The biggest change in the map was in the rezoning of an area in and near Sawyer from a mix of residential and commercial to all commercial.

The area is near the intersections of Sawyer road and 1-94; Sawyer and Three Oaks road; and Sawyer and Red Arrow highway.

Magnuson said changes were made to comply with state regulations and in response to public comment.

Township Supervisor Donald Peterson said the revised ordinance was not scheduled for referendum in the November election because the ballot contained too many issues and candidates.

Reading from a statement from the board, Peterson said "... it would be far better to schedule a special election that would deal strictly with local issues."

Peterson's comments and written material distributed during the session were aimed at answering questions raised in the past several months as to why the township board adopted the revised measure in June but did not schedule it for a public township-wide vote until December.

Peterson said there were four state proposals and 111 candidates for 30 various offices on the November ballot and the board had not acted then because it felt the local issue "would get lost in the shuffle."

Arthur Hauch, a township resident who filed a lawsuit after the delay to force the referendum, raised no objections to the revised ordinance during the public session. He said afterward, however, that he had some reservations about it, but did not elaborate.

He also contended that his suit had spurred the board to set the election date at a special meeting Dec. 6, but said the board's statements did not acknowledge it.

In the election, Peterson said people voting "yes" will be voting to keep the revised ordinance in effect. People voting "no" will be voting to keep the previous ordinance, adopted in 1964 in a slim public vote, in force.

As to the millage issue for fire equipment, Peterson said the levy, if approved, would run for three years and would be used solely to pay for equipment for the fire department.

The tax is expected to raise $35,000 a year, or an estimated $105,000 in its three-year life.

The money is needed to replace fire equipment for the township fire department's stations in Sawyer, Lakeside and Riverside.

One truck has already been purchased at a cost of $41,226, and two or three more trucks will be needed in the near future, Peterson said.

In addition to the trucks, the funds will also be used to buy other equipment including hoses, ladders, portable generators, foam equipment for fighting gasoline fires and oxygen tanks and masks.

Justice's Doors Are Open Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has found a symbol for the changes it intends to make in the Department of Justice. The symbol is the opening of the massive steel front doors of the department's headquarters on Pennsylvania Avenue. In 1970, ex-Atty. Gen. John Mitchell ordered those doors closed and locked as a security measure against demonstrators and terrorists. They were thrown open again Wednesday by Griffin B. Bell minutes after he was sworn in by Chief Justice Warren Burger.

Bell's boss, President Carter, looked on in approval. Carter said the locked doors were "symbolic of a separation of the disaffected and disadvantaged from the core of justice. These doors will be kept open from now on." Meanwhile, the Washington Post reported that a black attorney for the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, Drew Days, was Bell's first choice to be assistant attorney general in charge of the civil rights division. Bell has already said he would like to name a black appellate judge, Wade McCree Jr., to be the department's solicitor general.

temperature dipped to zero. He said the winter's accumulation of snow now stands at 92½ inches, with 18 inches on the ground.

At the Buchanan sewage disposal plant, the snowfall was figured at 3½ inches, and at Paw Paw it was given at 4 to 4½ inches.

All weather observation station operators indicated it was difficult to achieve an accurate measure, since much of the snow that flew in the air was old snow stirred up by the high winds.

Several industrial plants and businesses closed their operations this morning after the police agencies had asked people to stay off of the roads if possible.

Law officers were kept so busy answering accident calls during the late afternoon and early evening that they postponed preparing their written reports.

Berrien Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell said three of his patrol cars were involved in accidents themselves by 4 p.m. The department asked persons involved in noninjury accidents to obtain names and to report the accident details later.

The Dowagiac post office said there will be no mail deliveries there today because the mail truck from Kalamazoo to Dowagiac did not get through. Southwestern and western Michigan took the blunt of the storm. Effects of the storm in other parts of Michigan were reported by the Associated Press as follows:

Wednesday's storm came 10 years to the day after one of the worst blizzards of the century hit the state in 1967, claiming 23 lives in the state.

One multi-vehicle pileup near Grand Rapids Wednesday sent 11 people to the hospital. State Police described driving conditions throughout most of Lower Michigan as treacherous, and travelers' advisories were out across the state today.

The Ottawa County Sheriff's department declared a snow emergency, closing all roads in the county as winds gusted up to 40 miles an hour, piling deep drifts on highways. A pile-up on Interstate 196 in that county caused at least one death.

Police also reported a 20-vehicle accident on U.S. 131 in Wyoming, a 35-vehicle mess on Michigan 37 near Caledonia and a multiple collision on U.S. 27 in Clinton County.

State Police at Rockford urged motorists to stay off highways in Kent, Allegan and Ottawa counties.

Six small districts in five Ohio counties were closed for a lack of natural gas. State Supt. Martin W. Essex said the worst was yet to come. A spokesman for his office said at least 80 districts have given notice of definite closing dates, with a few saying they hope to reopen toward the end of next month.

Equitable Gas Co., a Pittsburgh-based company, asked schools in eight West Virginia counties to close until further notice. It extended that request to taverns, nightclubs and theaters.

In Georgia, most schools were open but with orders to keep thermostats at 65 degrees. Temperatures there had moderated somewhat by mid-week but were predicted to plunge back into the teens by this weekend.

While businessmen waited to see what the government would do to ease gas shortages, President Carter's energy adviser James R. Schlesinger said at least two interstate pipelines — Southern Natural Gas and Trunkline — already were cutting off gas supplies to some top priority consumers. He said Carter's proposals were aimed at avoiding those cutoffs, which affect some residences, public services and factories in danger of severe damage without gas.

Schlesinger said he did not have a precise breakdown on unemployment caused by gas shortages but he said the number of unemployed was reported highest in New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes tried to give his state some relief by removing environmental restrictions on high sulfur coal, but some questioned whether that would have any impact.

There was mixed reaction from Western states — which have been enjoying a relatively mild winter — to the possibility that they may be called on by Congress to share more of their natural gas with the Midwest and East.

The Pacific Gas & Electric Co. offered to share its supplies. Under an arrangement approved by the California Public Utilities Commission, PG&E will loan gas to Southern Natural Gas Co. of Birmingham, Ala., for residential and other high priority customers in six states: Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and Florida.

But, in Denver, Colorado Interstate Gas Co.'s president, Peter King, said his company — although the largest supplier in Colorado — didn't have enough gas to share.

"If we start gambling and ship gas away, we would have to take it from our interruptible customers who would have to use alternate fuels at higher prices," he said.

see some day. "I'm still interested in politics," he says. "But I'd certainly give primary allegiance to a bona fide citizens effort if one developed, and I think we need one."

Romney said Common Cause, the public interest lobby, had the right idea but floundered because its organizer, John Gardner, has concentrated on narrow issues.

"He took advantage of the desire of many citizens to assert their citizenship above partisanship, then rushed off in directions he was concerned about," Romney said. "Some of those reforms are desirable but they're not the fundamental reform we need ... I was disappointed."

Since leaving the Nixon cabinet in 1972, Romney has spent most of his time in his role as chairman of the National Center for Voluntary Action, a private group he helped found in 1970 to foster and organize the use of volunteers.

It is intended to bring private citizens into nursing homes, hospitals, mental health programs, schools and other institutions. Romney calls it the best approach to solving "really the toughest problems — the human and social ones."

Political regrets or not, as Romney watched the telecast of last week's inaugural he fondly recalled riding down Pennsylvania Avenue as governor of Michigan in the 1964 inaugural parade by Lyndon Johnson.

He had worked unsuccessfully the previous summer to get a civil rights plank in the Republican platform, but was defeated by the forces of Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP nominee.

"There were black kids along the parade route that day and they were yelling, 'Hey George, have you straightened out Barry yet?'" Romney reminisced.

And he recalls the consequences of his withdrawal from the presidential race in 1968 — the election of Richard Nixon.

"After I withdrew, he came here for a visit," he said, gesturing toward another room of the house.

"We talked for five or six hours ... he was a split personality, I think. He was an able man, a brilliant man. He could be very idealistic. On the other hand, he had this other side ... he let us all down. I think it was reprehensible what he did."

Chikaming Zoning Has One Protest

SAWYER — Only one objection was lodged against a revised Chikaming township zoning ordinance slated for a special Feb. 5 referendum during a public hearing here last night.

The objection centered around powers of the zoning appeals board under the measure adopted by the township board in June.

Arnold Holtgren, Sawyer, objected to the board's power to act on certain requests without first holding a public hearing. He said hearings should be required.

Holtgren was among the 35 people who were present as the township board reviewed the revised ordinance and a second issue slated for the special election.

The second issue is a request for a one-half property tax levy for financing fire equipment purchases for the township's fire department. Similar issues were rejected by voters twice last year.

On the zoning, Ronald Magnuson, chairman of the township planning commission, said most opposition to the revised code was not to specific changes but to a new zoning map which was included.

The biggest change in the map was in the rezoning of an area in and near Sawyer from a mix of residential and commercial to all commercial.

The area is near the intersections of Sawyer road and I-94; Sawyer and Three Oaks road; and Sawyer and Red Arrow highway.

Magnuson said changes were made to comply with state regulations and in response to public comment.

Township Supervisor Donald Peterson said the revised ordinance was not scheduled for referendum in the November election because the ballot contained too many issues and candidates.

Reading from a statement from the board, Peterson said "...it would be far better to schedule a special election that would deal strictly with local issues."

Peterson's comments and written material distributed during the session were aimed at answering questions raised in the past several months as to why the township board adopted the revised measure in June but did not schedule it for a public township-wide vote until December.

Peterson said there were four state proposals and 111 candidates for 39 various offices on the November ballot and the board had not acted then because it felt the local issue "would get lost in the shuffle."

Arthur Hauch, a township resident who filed a lawsuit after the delay to force the referendum, raised no objections to the revised ordinance during the public session. He said afterward, however, that he had some reservations about it, but did not elaborate.

He also contended that his suit had spurred the board to set the election date at a special meeting Dec. 6, but said the board's statements did not acknowledge it.

In the election, Peterson said people voting "yes" will be voting to keep the revised ordinance in effect. People voting "no" will be voting to keep the previous ordinance, adopted in 1964 in a slim public vote, in force.

As to the millage issue for fire equipment, Peterson said the levy, if approved, would run for three years and would be used solely to pay for equipment for

$164 Million Boost Sought By Consumers

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Consumers Power Co. is asking for an electricity rate increase of an additional $164 million a year, despite indications the company is doing better than it has in a decade.

In Consumers' southwestern region, electrical power is provided to 192,000 customers in a 3,632-square-mile service area including Calhoun, Jackson, Branch, St. Joseph, Kalamazoo, Cass, Van Buren, Allegan, Barry, Kent and Ionia counties.

Board chairman A. J. Aymond said Wednesday the Jackson-based utility will file a formal rate hike request with the state Public Service Commission Monday.

It will ask that $43.7 million of the increase be ordered as soon as possible to help it meet increased expenses since its last rate hike in April, 1976.

Under that $33.9 million rate increase, customers' bills went up about 4.9 per cent.

If the new rate request is approved in full by the PSC — as is highly unlikely — the average electric customer's bill would jump about 20 per cent. Average customers now pay about $22 a month, according to the PSC.

Consumers serves 1.2 million electric customers in outstate Michigan.

In an apparent attempt to quell anticipated criticism of the rate request, Aymond met with dozens of legislators Wednesday to review the company's reasons for seeking it.

"We realize that there are those in the state who will be only too willing to tell the public why, in their opinion, we do not need another increase in our rates," he told the lawmakers at a Lansing conference center. "So we feel that we owe it both to the public and to ourselves, whose business is serving the public, to fully explain why we must seek an increase in our electric rates."

Aymond said preliminary reviews show that in 1976, "we were probably as close to earning our authorized rate of return as we have been since 1967."

But, said Aymond, "earnings must continue to improve to permit the company to attract at a reasonable cost the capital necessary to carry on a construction program of $540 million in 1977."

That program includes work on a Midland nuclear plant, an oil-fired unit near Bay City, and a coal-fired unit near Grand Haven.

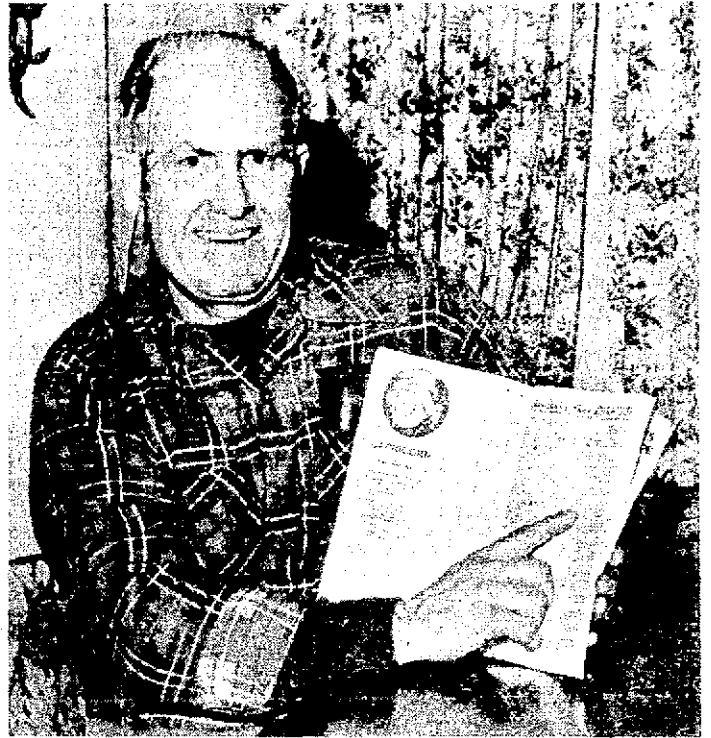

Though it is seeking a new rate hike, Consumers has yet to give up a fight over its last increase of $33.9 million, which was far below the $106 million it sought. It is still in Ingham County Circuit Court asking for another $11.6 million a year.

Aymond blamed nearly three-quarters of customers' rate increases since 1970 on soaring fuel costs. But in 1975, he said, Consumers' electric customers are paying a smaller percentage of their "effective buying income" for power than they were in 1961.

Here are Consumers' reasons for the $164 million rate request: —$43.7 million to meet higher costs since the April, 1976 rate hike.

—$79.4 million because of proposed accounting changes that would, among other things, charge customers for taxes on new power plants even before they are completed.

—$40.9 million in higher profits. Now, the company is authorized to earn 12.75 per cent on common equity. It is asking that that be increased.

HOROSCOPE CREDITED: Vincent Bethel, 55, of Bangor, credits his horoscope for his recent luck in state lottery. Bethel who will compete with six others tonight for a chance to win $100,000 in weekly state lottery drawing said he purchased his winning ticket on Dec. 22, because his horoscope for that date told him in part to "have a ticket for (or on) something, go out and buy one," so he did. Bethel a janitor for Du-Wel plant in Bangor, said he purchased six tickets at Waite's food market, Bangor, and winner was one of them. Bethel resides with his wife, June, and does not buy lottery tickets regularly. He is assured of at least $10,000. (Tom Renner photo)

Cass County Purchases Land For New Library

CASSOPOLIS — The Cass county board of commissioners last night voted to purchase 22 acres in the northwest corner of the city here as the site for construction of a new county library.

The board voted to purchase the land for $30,000 from Donald McKenzie, a Marcellus farmer.

The new library will be built with funds from an $872,000 federal public employment act grant, but purchase of the land will have to come from county coffers.

The land is south of M-62, and about a block west of North Broadway street. The commissioners also voted to take an option to purchase an additional 130 acres to the north of M-62. That land is also owned by McKenzie.

The McKenzie land is the former Lowitz estate, land that the county board in 1974 was studying then as a possible site for construction of a new courthouse or other county buildings.

In moves related to the library construction, the board gave Kalamazoo architect

Robert Cain approval to go ahead with construction plans and named Commissioner Raymond Tutwiler of Dowagiac as the board's liaison between the board, an eventual contractor and the federal agency from which the grant is coming.

In other areas, the board approved a committee reorganization proposed by Board Chairman Herman Saltz.

Under the changes, membership on the three board committees has been cut and the committees will meet on Monday evenings in public work sessions to cover necessary groundwork prior to full board meetings.

In another change, citizens wanting to address the full board will have to fill out cards prior to the meetings, giving their names and the subject they want to present to the board.

Used Car Bill Introduced

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A used car buyers' "bill of rights" calling for a warranty system for all used cars sold in Michigan was introduced in the legislature Wednesday by Sen. David A. Plawewski, D-Deerborn Heights. The bill would require all used cars to have certificates guaranteeing they meet safety standards before being sold. Without the certificates, no title or license could be issued. The measure would also set up a five-category warranty system to provide buyers with more information about a vehicle's condition.

Gayle Borst Voted Berrien 4-H Chief

Mrs. Gayle Borst of Niles was elected president of the Berrien county 4-H Foundation, Inc., Wednesday at the foundation's eighth annual meeting.

Mrs. Borst is the first woman to hold that position. She replaces outgoing president Donald W. Gast.

Also elected at the meeting held at Schuler's Restaurant near Stevensville were Robert Reinking, president of the First National Bank of Watervliet, vice president; James Behlin, Berrien county 4-H program through earnings from investments.

Directors were told that the foundation had an operating investment fund of more than $91,000 at the end of 1976. The foundation received $9,621.45 in donations during the year and vice president of the Inter City Bank, treasurer; Robert Paxson, president of Paxson Advertising, Inc., secretary; and Laurence Cushman, 4-H agent, recording secretary.

The 4-H Foundation has an investment trust fund and its sole purpose is to provide sustained financial support of the generated over $5,178 from the 4-H Bicentennial Auction.

Elected to the board of directors of the foundation for three year terms were: Mrs. Raymond Marske, St. Joseph; Mrs. Richard Martin, Three Oaks; Larry Krieger, Bridgman; Mrs. Gayle Borst, Niles; and John Steinke, St. Joseph.

The speaker at the meeting was Karen Davis, a member of the 4-H Helpers 4-H Club of Benton Harbor, who presented slides on the National 4-H Foundation Citizenship Short Course she was chosen for last summer.

Number Of Crimes Up 26%, Paw Paw Chief Reports

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — The number of crimes reported to Paw Paw police during 1976 were up about 26 per cent over the previous year, according to an annual report by Police Chief George Fadel. Fadel said 1,066 crimes were reported and investigated during the year, compared to 801 in 1975. Arrests also increased from 247 in 1975 to 337 last year.

Among the crimes, assaults climbed from 35 to 51 in 1976, breaking and enterings from 50 to 58, larcenies from 178 to 183, and bad check complaints from 49 to 82. Fadel said that among those arrested he has noticed a trend toward growing lack of respect for the police and the rights of others. Other possible reasons for the increase in crime include unemployment frustration and a change in the life styles of many persons, he said.

The department also logged 2,346 property inspections and handled 1,679 miscellaneous incidents during the year, according to the report.

'Straighter' Golf Ball Could End Woes Of Duffers

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Every golfer who ever threw his soul into a round-house swing and watched the ball soar toward some God-forsaken jungle should have a vested interest in a meeting of the game's rulesmakers in Atlanta this weekend.

It concerns the legality of science's latest antidote to stomach ulcers and frayed tempers — a golf ball that straightens out its trajectory in flight.

It is a sort of non-hook, non-slice ball, but that, according to its inventors, is overstating the case.

The ball is the creation of two Pacific Coast scientists — Dr. Fred Holmstrom, professor of physics at San Jose State, Calif., and Daniel Nepela, an advisory chemist with IBM — who have been working on the project for 10 years.

By applying the theory of aerodynamics to the traditional dimples on the surface of the ball, they have come up with a pellet that meets all specifications of the U.S. Golf Association in weight (1.62 ounces), size (minimum of 1.68 inches in diameter) and initial velocity.

The only difference lies in its dimple structure — some of the dimples are deeper than others — "to minimize the deviation of the ball from the intended path caused by hooking or slicing."

In effect, it corrects its flight in mid-air. It does so legally — no mirrors, no hidden radar, no gimmickry.

Their big problem has been to have the project taken seriously. Pundits are inclined to call it the "happy non-hooker."

That is what seems to worry the USGA brass which has come up with an addition to Rule 2.3 specifying that the ball must be "spherical in shape ... have equal aerodynamic properties and equal moments of inertia about any axis through its center."

The California inventors, who already have patented the new ball, tested it and started manufacturing it under the name of Polara Enterprises, regard this as a move to outlaw their brain-child.

They are flying to Atlanta with their lawyers to fight the "Battle of the Duffers" before the Executive Committee of the U.S. Golf Association, holding its annual convention there.

The argument of attorney William Coblentz, representing the inventors, is that all balls presently approved have varying dimples and as a result differences in aerodynamic properties.

The suggested rule change would "raise questions ... as to its basic unfairness for new and innovative changes," he insists.

Frank Thomas, technical director of the USGA, argues that the new concept "might reduce the skill required to play and therefore be detrimental to the game."

The inventors deny this.

"Our purpose is to keep the game moving and make it more enjoyable for everybody by reducing the time in the rough," Dr. Holmstrom says. He added that the ball had been tested by well-known professionals who acclaimed it as being "straighter and truer."

Nepela insists that "although our ball may stay in bounds more often than other balls, golfing skill is still needed to play the game."

Bears, Tigers Face Powers

Play Ranked Hoosier Clubs

St. Joseph and Benton Harbor will have their work cut out for them this weekend against a pair of powerful Hoosier teams.

The Bears (5-8 overall) travel to South Bend LaSalle Friday night. LaSalle boasts a 12-2 record and No. 7 ranking in the Indiana high school prep poll.

The Tigers (6-6) will entertain South Bend Washington on Saturday night after trekking to Grand Haven for a Lake Michigan Athletic Conference clash Friday night. Washington, which beat LaSalle 81-58 last week Saturday night, is 13-1 overall and No. 5 in the Indiana poll.

In other top-flight matchups Friday night, South Haven battles Wolverine leader Plainville at South Haven and Brandywine travels to River Valley in a clash of Blossomland second-place teams. On Saturday night Michigan Lutheran will try to snap Bridgman's unbeaten string in the Titan gym.

"They have some big people up front," says Bear Coach George Gaundier of LaSalle. "They go 6-8, 6-7, 6-6. They like to get the ball inside to the big people. They sound like a Detroit Catholic Central type of team."

"They can be very deliberate on offense. And the big people can hit from the outside too. They're obviously a very tough ball team."

LaSalle starters up front consist of David Magley (6-8), David Smith (6-6) and Willie Dixon (6-2) with Chad Miller (6-7) coming off the bench. Magley is averaging 16 points and 12 rebounds a game.

St. Joseph, which takes a rest from Big Seven action this weekend, still only has one player in double figures. Dale Wright is averaging 21.5 points, third tops in the area.

Washington will bring a quick, high-scoring unit to the Colfax Gym Saturday night. Eric Williams, a 6-1 sophomore who plays both guard and forward, is averaging 20 points and 5-10 guard David Reedding and 6-3 postman Andre Laurence both about 15 points. Rounding out the starting five are 6-1 forward Ron Fellows and 5-9 guard Bernie White. Laurence tops the team in rebounding, averaging 12 caroms a game.

Washington, which plays Elkhart Memorial Friday night, beat the Tigers 97-92 in a wild triple overtime game last season. Washington is in first place in the Northern Indiana Conference.

But Benton Harbor Coach Earl McKee is currently worried about Grand Haven, 1-4 in the league to Harbor's 3-2.

"Grand Haven always gets highly emotional in their own gym. It's tough to win up there. We can't afford another loss in the league now. We have to hustle and have the team concept of ball like we employed last week against Muskegon."

Markus Hoppers, a 6-5 forward who hit 20 points in the Buccaners' 78-60 loss to the Tigers in their first meeting, is healthy again after missing three games and losing 20 pounds with the flu. He's averaging 21.2 points for Grand Haven, which has dropped three straight.

Steve McNitt is hitting at an 18.2 clip for Benton Harbor while Keith Taylor is at 13.1 and Ronald Page 12.9. Tyrone Hampton, a freshman who earned 14 in his varsity debut last week, could win a starting spot this weekend.

A win by South Haven Friday would vault the Rams into a tie for the Wolverine lead. Plainville is 7-2 while South Haven is 6-3 along with Comstock. The Rams will be coached by Gary Smith, who is filling in for the injured M.H. White. White, who injured his knee last week Thursday, didn't have to undergo surgery but currently has his leg in traction. He is still in Borgess Hospital in Kalamazoo.

Smith is no stranger to South Haven basketball. He served as junior varsity coach for eight years, chalking up an impressive 118-22 record.

"The kids realize we have our backs against the wall and really have to win this game," comments Smith.

Plainville defeated the Rams 71-62 in their first contest with Brian Arehart sinking 31 points.

The dynamic duo of William Gamble and Mike Grimes have accounted for almost half the Ram scoring output this season. Gamble is averaging 16.8 and Grimes 16.4.

River Valley and Brandywine are tied for second in the Blossomland at 6-2 and trail leader Cassopolis by one game.

"This game is vital for both of us," tells Mustang Coach Jerry Schaffer.

Brandywine, which has lost two straight, will have to stop 6-7 pivotman Werner Maak, who poured through 39 points last week against Buchanan. Maak is averaging 16.3 points and Gary Schaffer 13.8 for the Mustangs, who have dropped four in a row to the Bobcats.

Michigan Lutheran Coach John Eggert is planning a little surprise for Bridgman, 12-0 and ranked third in the latest Class D poll.

"We're working on something special for them. I'm not going to say what it is but we're going to rely on our defense which is No. 1 in the area. We're going to use something they haven't seen yet defensively. We'll go at them and see what happens."

Lutheran, 7-4 overall, has been limiting foes to only 47.4 points a game but its offense is only averaging 51.0 points, worst in the area. The Bears are in the top four in both offense (78.7) and defense (54.3).

Robert Guse paces the Titans with his 14.3 average. Randy Wolf is at 8.2, John Brink 8.3, Bruce Morris 8.0 and Mark Briney 7.3.

The Bears, who host Lake Michigan Catholic Friday night, beat the Titans 73-62 in the season opener.

Pistons Rally To Beat Crippled Nets

Chewing-Out Does Bulls Good

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The restless Chicago fans came down hard on the hometown Bulls at halftime Wednesday night ... but not nearly as hard as the embarrassed Bulls came down on the Cleveland Cavaliers in the second half.

Down by 18 points in the second period and trailing by 16 at halftime, the Bulls came alive following a chewing-out by coach Ed Badger and rallied for a 106-90 triumph that dropped the Cavaliers from first place to third in the National Basketball Association's tightly packed Central Division.

The Washington Bullets ended a jinx at the hands of Golden State by downing the Warriors 106-95 and moved into first place by one-half game over both Cleveland and the idle Houston Rockets. However, the Cavaliers trail Houston by two percentage points.

"A halftime tongue-lashing against a team that just stood around in the first half proved very effective," Badger said. "When they heard the boos as they walked off the floor into the dressing room they decided that something was not right. I told them they were embarrassing me as well as themselves."

Properly chastised, the Bulls outscored Cleveland 29-6 during a 7½-minute, third-quarter spurt and put the Cavs away in the fourth quarter.

"The coaches had every right to chew us out," said Artis Gilmore, who scored 24 of his season-high 32 points in the second half, "but I'll say this — if we had not heard those boos I think we might have played the same kind of game in the second half."

Gilmore had help from Mickey Johnson, who scored 23 points, and Wilbur Holland, with 20. Campy Russell topped Cleveland with 21.

In other NBA action, Portland overcame Denver

107-102, Seattle trimmed Los Angeles 118-103, Indiana felled Boston 121-101, Buffalo turned back Milwaukee 114-109 under interim coach Bob MacKinnon, Kansas City held off New Orleans 101-95 and Detroit edged the New York Nets 103-101 in overtime.

Ralph Simpson and Marvin Barnes came off the bench to rally the Detroit Pistons from a 15-point deficit to an overtime victory over the crippled New York Nets.

The Pistons trailed by 15 points with just under five minutes to go in the third period. Barnes and Simpson started a 14-6 spree that cut the gap to 75-68 after three quarters.

In the fourth period, the Pistons quickly went ahead and after seven lead changes, Detroit grabbed a 95-90 edge with under two minutes to go.

The Nets spurted on two baskets and a free throw by Bubbles Hawkins and a layup by Kim Hughes to grab a 97-95 lead with 55 seconds to go. But Barnes countered by hitting on his own rebound to knot the score again and force the extra period.

After each team made a basket in overtime, Simpson hit a free throw and Barnes a basket to put the Pistons in front for keeps and M.L. Carr added a free throw in the closing seconds.

New York had two shots in the final 10 seconds, but tries by Al Skinner and Chuck Terry missed.

It was the fourth victory in the last five games for the Pistons, who were topped by Simpson with 23 points while Barnes had 21 and Bob Lanier 18.

Hawkins, a former Detroit high school star playing for the first time as a pro in his hometown, had 20 and Skinner 18 for the Nets, who suffered their 14th loss in the last 13 games. Because of injuries, New York was able to dress only nine players, three under the maximum for the game. The Nets had grabbed a 51-38 halftime lead by outscoring the Pistons 29-12 in the second period, led by Mel Davis' 11 points.

The streaking Bullets, who have won six in a row and 12 of their last 14 games, posted their first home victory over Golden State in six tries dating back to the 1973 NBA championship series which the Warriors won in four straight.

Phil Chenier paced a balanced attack with 22 points while Elvin Hayes had 18.

Portland battled back from a 19-point second-period deficit behind Maurice Lucas and climbed past Los Angeles into first place in the Pacific Division while snapping Denver's eight-game home winning streak. Lucas scored 22 points, grabbed 14 rebounds and triggered a late surge that wiped out a 97-92 Denver lead.

Tom Burleson survived a punch from Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and scored 17 of his game-high 26 points in the final period. Burleson, who was decked by Abdul-Jabbar with about seven minutes left in the game, connected on eight of his 10 shots from the field in the fourth period and his three straight baskets put Seattle ahead for good 88-83.

Adrian Dantley scored 29 points and Randy Smith 28 as the Braves ended a five-game losing streak in their first game under MacKinnon, who replaced Tales Locke Tuesday.

Ron Boone scored 25 points as Kansas City survived a fourth-quarter rally.

Pete Maravich played all 48 minutes for New Orleans and scored 35 points on 13-for-24 shooting.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — They did what they wanted to on the boards. Pittsburgh coach Tim Grunich moaned after his Panthers were given an 88-66 college basketball taming by Notre Dame Wednesday night.

"We did not rebound at all," he said. "Toby Knight had 14 rebounds in the first half, and if you give that many rebounds in one half to one guy, it really kills you."

Kill them it did, especially after a surprising start that had a tenacious Pitt holding a 17-10 lead after the first six minutes of action.

The Panthers pressed hard from the beginning, and Larry Harris — who finally fouled out with 18 points — began tossing in baskets to successfully rattle the Irish on their home court.

"We began the game with half-court intensity," Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps explained later, "but they started to score, and we had to go to the full-court press."

The move paid off. With Knight dominating the boards and Duck Williams leading an offensive surge in the next 10 minutes, the Irish converted the seven-point deficit to a 12-point advantage, at 40-28, with just under three minutes left in the half.

Williams scored 14 of his game-high 20 points during the stretch.

"We got the advantage by doing that (switching to the press), starting the momentum, and then continuing in the second half," said Phelps, who vowed that the 10-5 Irish would be following a "game-by-game, week-by-week" strategy "to the magic number of 20 wins."

After cruising to a 48-36 halftime advantage, the game was never in doubt as Notre Dame continued to dominate the boards, evidenced by a 26-11 margin in the second period.

The Irish got help from just about everybody, with Knight adding 13 points to his game and career-high 19 rebounds, and four other players scoring in double figures. That included 11 second-half points from freshman starter Rich Branning, as Notre Dame built a 22-point lead with just under four minutes remaining.

For Pittsburgh, now 3-13, Sonny Lewis contributed 17 points and seven assists.

'Straighter' Golf Ball Could End Woes Of Duffers

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Every golfer who ever threw his soul into a round-house swing and watched the ball soar toward some God-forsaken jungle should have a vested interest in a meeting of the game's rulesmakers in Atlanta this weekend.

It concerns the legality of science's latest antidote to stomach ulcers and frayed tempers — a golf ball that straightens out its trajectory in flight.

It is a sort of non-hook, non-slice ball, but that, according to its inventors, is overstating the case.

The ball is the creation of two Pacific Coast scientists — Dr. Fred Holmstrom, professor of physics at San Jose State, Calif., and Daniel Nepela, an advisory chemist with IBM — who have been working on the project for 10 years.

By applying the theory of aerodynamics to the traditional dimples on the surface of the ball, they have come up with a pellet that meets all specifications of the U.S. Golf Association in weight (1.62 ounces), size (minimum of 1.68 inches in diameter) and initial velocity.

The only difference lies in its dimple structure — some of the dimples are deeper than others — "to minimize the deviation of the ball from the intended path caused by hooking or slicing."

In effect, it corrects its flight in mid-air. It does so legally — no mirrors, no hidden radar, no gimmickry.

Their big problem has been to have the project taken seriously. Pundits are inclined to call it the "happy non-hooker."

That is what seems to worry the USGA brass which has come up with an addition to Rule 2-3 specifying that the ball must be "spherical in shape ... have equal aerodynamic properties and equal moments of inertia about any axis through its center."

The California inventors, who already have patented the new ball, tested it and started manufacturing it under the name of Polara Enterprises, regard this as a move to outlaw their brain-child.

They are flying to Atlanta with their lawyers to fight the "Battle of the Duffers" before the Executive Committee of the U.S. Golf Association, holding its annual convention there.

The argument of attorney William Coblenz, representing the inventors, is that all balls presently approved have varying dimples and as a result differences in aerodynamic properties.

The suggested rule change would "raise questions ... as to its basic unfairness for new and innovative changes," he insists.

Frank Thomas, technical director of the USGA, argues that the new concept "might reduce the skill required to play and therefore be detrimental to the game."

The inventors deny this.

"Our purpose is to keep the game moving and make it more enjoyable for everybody by reducing the time in the rough," Dr. Holmstrom says. He added that the ball had been tested by well-known professionals who acclaimed it as being "straighter and truer."

Nepela insists that "although our ball may stay in bounds more often than other balls, golfing skill is still needed to play the game."

Bears, Tigers Face Powers Play Ranked Hoosier Clubs

St. Joseph and Benton Harbor will have their work cut out for them this weekend against a pair of powerful Hoosier teams.

The Bears (3-8 overall) travel to South Bend LaSalle Friday night. LaSalle boasts a 12-2 record and No. 7 ranking in the Indiana high school prep poll.

The Tigers (6-6) will entertain South Bend Washington on Saturday night after trekking to Grand Haven for a Lake Michigan Athletic Conference clash Friday night. Washington, which beat LaSalle 61-58 last week Saturday night, is 13-1 overall and No. 5 in the Indiana poll.

In other top-flight matchups Friday night, South Haven battles Wolverine leader Plainwell at South Haven and Brandywine travels to River Valley in a clash of Blossomland second-place teams. On Saturday night, Michigan Lutheran will try to snap Bridgman's unbeaten string in the Titan gym.

"They have some big people up front," says Bear Coach George Gaundier of LaSalle. "They go 6-8, 6-7, 6-6. They like to get the ball inside to the big people. They sound like a Detroit Catholic Central type of team."

Rounding out the starting five are 6-1 forward Ron Fellows and 5-9 guard Bernie White. Laurence tops the team in rebounding, averaging 12 caroms a game.

Washington, which plays Elkhart Memorial Friday night, beat the Tigers 97-92 in a wild triple overtime game last season. Washington is in first place in the Northern Indiana Conference.

But Benton Harbor Coach Earl McKee is currently worried about Grand Haven, 1-4 in the league to Harbor's 3-2.

"Grand Haven always gets highly emotional in their own gym. It's tough to win up there. We can't afford another loss in the league now. We have to hustle and have the team concept of ball like we employed last week against Muskegon."

Steve McNutt is hitting at an 18.2 clip for Benton Harbor while Keith Taylor is at 13.1 and Ronald Page 12.9. Tyrone Hampton, a freshman who canned 14 in his varsity debut last week, could win a starting spot this weekend.

A win by South Haven Friday would vault the Rams into a tie for the Wolverine lead. Plainwell is 7-2 while South Haven is 6-3 along with Comstock. The Rams will be coached by Gary Smith, who is filling in for the injured M.H. White. "The kids realize we have our backs against the wall and really have to win this game," comments Smith.

Plainwell defeated the Rams 71-62 in their first contest with Brian Archard sinking 31 points.

The dynamic duo of William Gamble and Mike Grimes have accounted for almost half the Ram scoring output this season. Gamble is averaging 16.8 and Grimes 15.4.

River Valley and Brandywine are tied for second in the Blossomland at 6-2 and trail leader Cassopolis by one game.

"This game is vital for both of us," tells Mustang Coach Jerry Schaffer.

Brandywine, which has lost two straight, will have to stop 6-7 pivotman Werner Maak, who poured through 39 points last week against Buchanan. Maak is averaging 16.3 points and Gary Schaffer 13.8 for the Mustangs, who have dropped four in a row to the Bobcats.

107-102. Seattle trimmed Los Angeles 118-103. Indiana jolted Boston 121-101. Buffalo turned back Milwaukee 114-109 under interim coach Bob MacKinnon. Kansas City held off New Orleans 101-95 and Detroit edged the New York Nets 103-101 in overtime.

Ralph Simpson and Marvin Barnes came off the bench to rally the Detroit Pistons from a 15-point deficit to an overtime victory over the crippled New York Nets.

The Pistons trailed by 15 points with just under five minutes to go in the third period. Barnes and Simpson started a 14-6 spree that cut the gap to 75-68 after three quarters.

In the fourth period, the Pistons quickly went ahead and after seven lead changes, Detroit grabbed a 95-90 edge with under two minutes to go.

The Nets spurted on two baskets and a free throw by Bubbles Hawkins and a layup by Kim Hughes to grab a 97-95 lead with 55 seconds to go. But Barnes countered by hitting on his own rebound to knot the score again and force the extra period.

After each team made a basket in overtime, Simpson hit a free throw and Barnes a basket to put the Pistons in front for keeps and M.L. Carr added a free throw in the closing seconds.

New York had two shots in the final 10 seconds, but tries by Al Skinner and Chuck Terry missed.

It was the fourth victory in the last five games for the Pistons, who were topped by Simpson with 23 points while Barnes had 21 and Bob Lanier 19.

Hawkins, a former Detroit high school star playing for the first time as a pro in his hometown, had 20 and Skinner 19 for the Nets, who suffered their 14th loss in the last 15 games. Because of injuries, New York was able to dress only nine players, three under the maximum for the game.

The Nets had grabbed a 51-38

halftime lead by outscoring the Pistons 29-12 in the second period, led by Mel Davis' 11 points.

The streaking Bullets, who have won six in a row and 12 of their last 14 games, posted their first home victory over Golden State in six tries dating back to the 1975 NBA championship series which the Warriors won in four straight. Phil Chenier paced a balanced attack with 22 points while Elvin Hayes had 18.

Portland battled back from a 19-point second-period deficit behind Maurice Lucas and climbed past Los Angeles into first place in the Pacific Division while snapping Denver's eight-game home winning streak. Lucas scored 22 points, grabbed 14 rebounds and triggered a late surge that wiped out a 97-92 Denver lead.

Tom Burleson survived a punch from Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and scored 17 of his game-high 26 points in the final period. Burleson, who was decked by Abdul-Jabbar with about seven minutes left in the game, connected on eight of his 10 shots from the field in the fourth period and his three straight baskets put Seattle ahead for good 86-85.

Adrian Dantley scored 29 points and Randy Smith 28 as the Braves ended a five-game losing streak in their first game under MacKinnon, who replaced Bates Locke Tuesday.

Ron Boone scored 25 points as Kansas City survived a fourth-quarter rally.

Pete Maravich played all 48 minutes for New Orleans and scored 35 points on 13-for 34 shooting.

New MAC Leaders

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The unpredictable Mid-American Conference basketball race had two new leaders today — and neither of them were from Michigan.

Miami and Northern Illinois moved into a first place tie with victories Wednesday night while previous kingpin Western Michigan plunged to the No. 2 spot after being upset by Ohio University.

"This just verifies what we coaches always say, that on any given night anyone in our league can beat anyone else," Western Coach Dick Shultz said following the Broncos' 80-74 loss to the Bobcats.

In other MAC action, Toledo downed Kent State 69-52 and Ball State whipped Eastern Michigan 86-64.

Despite the loss of top scorer Steve Skaggs because of an ankle injury, Ohio University led Western almost the entire game and early in the second half held a 17-point edge.

Bucky Walden poured in 25 points and teammate Tim Joyce added 20 to pace the Bobcats to only their second league victory in seven contests. The triumph snapped a six-game losing streak.

Shultz said Ohio "deserved to win. They got ahead and controlled the game as winners do."

Miami managed to stave off a late Bowling Green rally, hitting 10 of 11 free throws in the final three minutes of play. Archie Aldridge paced the Redskins with 24 points and grabbed a season-high 14 rebounds.

A tip-in at the final buzzer by Matt Hicks gave Northern Illinois its verdict over Central Michigan. Hicks scored a game-high 26 points.

Although his team had moved into first place, Northern Coach John McHugh observed, "Western Michigan still has to be considered the team to beat."

Toledo had little trouble beating Kent State while evening its conference record at 3-3. Ted Williams and Dick Miller paced the Rockets with 14 points apiece.

Ball State, now 3-4 in the MAC, was ahead the entire game while handing Eastern Michigan its 16th straight league loss. Jim Fields was the Cardinals' top scorer with 16 points.

Detroit Registers

15th Straight Win

DETROIT (AP) — The top question among University of Detroit basketball players is: why aren't they ranked?

But the Titans apparently aren't letting it get to them.

Led by Terry Tyler's 23 points, U-D raced to their 15th consecutive victory Wednesday night, a 107-58 non-league win over the Akron Zips.

"I don't feel bad about not being rated in the top 20," Tyler said after the game. "We've just got to keep putting them in the win column."

Tyler hit 10 of 12 from the field, pulled down 11 rebounds and blocked five shots.

Coach Dick Vitale remains impressed by his team's performance.

"We played like we were playing against a nationally ranked team," Vitale said. "We played with a lot of intensity. We've played just super basketball the last four games in our gymnasium. We've been awesome."

Akron jumped to a 6-2 lead in the first two minutes of the game before Detroit's Terry Dueroed and Dennis Boyd sparked the Titans into a lead they never relinquished.

Detroit streaked to a 49-29 lead at the half. In the second half Vitale — who gained his 20th career coaching victory Wednesday — cleared the bench.

The Titan reserves outscored Akron 32-6 through the middle 10 minutes of the second half.

John Long chipped in with 18, Jeff Whitlow 14, Boyd 13, and Dueroed 9 for Detroit. John Harrison paced Akron with 12 points, and Reggie Hannah added 10 for the Zips.

Detroit now holds a 16-1 overall record.

Muskegon Rips Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Muskegon scored five unanswered goals in the second period for a 6-0 lead, then added two in the third period to crush Columbus 8-1 in an International Hockey League triumph Wednesday night.

The Owls' Steve Lyon ruined Mohawk Andre LePage's shut-out bid by scoring in the third period.

Columbus' Tom Cassidy and Mike Thompson, and Muskegon's Ed Pizunski were ejected.

Mike Usitalo led the Mohawk scoring with two goals. Other scorers were Pizunski, Bill Kestell, Joey Girardin, Mike Hordy, Yvon Vautour, Oliver Steward.

Columbus, 19-22-9, is tied with Dayton for top spot in the IHL Southern Division. Muskegon is 26-21-7, for fourth place in the Northern Division.

Pair Power Northern Win

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Career-high scoring performances by Zachary Hicks and Mike Garland spurred Northern Michigan to an 82-70 non-league college basketball victory over St. Norbert Wednesday night.

Hicks, a forward, dumped in 25 points for his career game record, while guard Garland added 19.

The Wildcats took a 38-25 lead at halftime to up their season total to 10-5.

The Green Knights, led by Mark Tonn's 17 points, dropped to 6-9.

In other Upper Peninsula college basketball action,

George Gaunder says, "He's been the most consistent performer we've had, both offensively and rebounding. Consistency is something we've lacked so it's a pleasure to see someone like Dale."

On the season, Wright is averaging 21.3 points and 12.0 rebounds per game. And in Big Seven play Wright heads up the league scorers with a 22.3 average. Niles' Tim Garner is a close second at 22.1.

"I don't know where we'd be without him," Gaunder says. "Certainly we'd be hurting without him."

"His ability to hit from outside as well as driving to the basket have been the big things. He's shown more versatility in his offensive ability this year and that has helped his scoring."

Wright is hitting 51 per cent from the floor, and has scored at least 24 points in each of the last four games. It's that type of consistency that Gaunder didn't get from Wright last season.

"He started out well last year," Gaunder explains. "He played excellent ball for the first four or five games. But then he tailed off and never seemed to reach his initial performance level again."

Gaunder believes that Wright's ability to hit from outside has been one of the keys to his improvement this year.

"He's shown exceptional ability to take the ball to the basket," he says. "And the fact that he is able to score from long range causes people to tighten up on him. With his good movement with the ball he is able to drive by them."

Wright has the size to be a good rebounder, but Gaunder doesn't believe that has been the most important thing about his rebounding.

"He doesn't have the dominant size that some people have had that we've met," Gaunder says. "But he's usually around the basket. Desire is the ultimate requirement for a good rebounder. And I think he has the desire. Otherwise he wouldn't be doing what he has been doing."

Wright is one of six area players on top of a conference scoring race.

Bangor's Dave Gregory heads the KVA with a 20.9 average in league games. Viking coach Norm Johnson believes quickness has been Gregory's biggest asset.

"Dave is not an outstanding shooter, but he's above average," Johnson says. "But he has the quickness and timing to go to the basket to get those second shots."

"He's gaining confidence with every game and is beginning to take charge. I've found that with him out of the lineup we don't move the ball well offensively. We stand around more."

Gregory is an excellent free throw shooter and hit a brilliant 20 of 22 charities last Friday against Parchment.

Coverl's Jerry Starks tops the Allegan-Ottawa Conference, despite the fact that the little 5-8 sophomore has started only one game all year. Starks boasts a 20.7 scoring mark in three league games.

Gerald Busby of Buchanan is the runaway scoring leader in the Blossomland. The 6-4 Busby has totalled 188 points in eight league contests for a 23.5 average.

Busby, who is the leading scorer in southwestern Michigan in all games, boasts a 28-point lead over Cassopolis' Kevin Loder. Only a junior, Busby is averaging almost 35 points per game in his last four outings, including Tuesday's school record 52-point effort against New Buffalo.

Terry Hossein of Berrien Springs tops the Red Arrow with a 21.7 mark. Bridgman's Bob Linke, who is closing in on the career Bees' scoring record, trails by 26 points.

Senior Decatur guard Kurt Wiese tops the SAC with a 17.0 mark. Closely behind are Bloomingdale's Bill Rowleson (16.3) and Martin's Ken Jager (16.2).

Keith Taylor of Benton Harbor is second in the LMCC race. Taylor, averaging 17.0 in five league games, trails Muskegon Catholic Central's Ron Wolfe (17.6). The Tigers' Steve McNutt is fifth with a 15.8 mark.

William Gamble of South Haven is among the Wolverine leaders with a 15.9 league average. Constock's John Lierman has a commanding lead with a 28.7 average, including games of 48, 38 and 36.

Childs, Walker Spark Victory

Dan Childs scored 24 points and Reggie Walker hit 20 as Quick Way downed Bargain Center 91-77 in a Benton Harbor Parks basketball game Wednesday night.

Willie Epps notched 39 points for the losers and Napoleon Redman added 14.

Cass Parnell scored 28 and Robert Henry 18 to lead Superior Steel past Ausco's 95-89. Charles Osby was high scorer for the losers with 36 and Elvis Osby had 22.

Bargain Center squeezed by Johnnie's Fashions 79-74. Mike Sims and Mark McCleary each scored 19 for the winners and Alex McNutt hit 19 and James Jackson 16 for the losers.

Scoring in double figures in all 13 St. Joseph games, the 6-5 senior forward has been one of the few bright spots in an otherwise dismal Bear season.

Broncos Upset By Ohio Univ.

Miami, Northern Illinois New MAC Leaders

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The unpredictable Mid-American Conference basketball race had two new leaders today — and neither of them were from Michigan.

Miami and Northern Illinois moved into a first place tie with victories Wednesday night while previous kingpin Western Michigan plunged to the No. 2 spot after being upset by Ohio University.

"This just verifies what we coaches always say, that on any given night anyone in our league can beat anyone else," Western Coach Dick Shiltz said following the Broncos' 80-74 loss to the Bobcats.

Miami pulled out a 65-61 triumph over Bowling Green and Northern Illinois edged Central Michigan 82-80 to share the league's top spot with 5-1 records. Western Michigan dropped to a 5-2 mark.

In other MAC action, Toledo downed Kent State 69-52 and Ball State whipped Eastern Michigan 86-64.

Despite the loss of top scorer Steve Skaggs because of an ankle injury, Ohio University led Western almost the entire game and early in the second half held a 17-point edge.

Bucky Walden poured in 25 points and teammate Tim Joyce added 20 to pace the Bobcats to only their second league victory in seven contests. The triumph snapped a six-game losing streak.

Bobcat Coach Dale Bandy said his players have "been working hard, improving, but unable to get a win. Tonight they got a big one."

Shiltz said Ohio "deserved to win. They got ahead and controlled the game as winners do."

Miami managed to stave off a late Bowling Green rally, hitting 10 of 11 free throws in the final three minutes of play. Archie Aldridge paced the Redskins with 24 points and grabbed a season-high 14 rebounds.

A tip-in at the final buzzer by Matt Hicks gave Northern Illinois its verdict over Central Michigan. Hicks scored a game-high 26 points.

Although his team had moved into first place, Northern Coach John McDougal observed, "Western Michigan still has to be considered the team to beat."

Toledo had little trouble beating Kent State while evening its conference record at 3-3. Ted Williams and Dick Miller paced the Rockets with 14 points apiece.

Ball State, now 3-4 in the MAC, was ahead the entire game while handing Eastern Michigan its 16th straight league loss. Jim Fields was the Cardinals' top scorer with 16 points.

Detroit Registers 15th Straight Win

DETROIT (AP) — The top question among University of Detroit basketball players is: why aren't they ranked?

But the Titans apparently aren't letting it get to them.

Led by Terry Tyler's 23 points, U-D raced to their 15th consecutive victory Wednesday night, a 107-58 non-league win over the Akron Zips.

"I don't feel bad about not being rated in the top 20," Tyler said after the game. "We've just got to keep putting them in the win column."

Tyler hit 10 of 12 from the field, pulled down 11 rebounds and blocked five shots.

Coach Dick Vitale remains impressed by his team's performance.

"We played like we were playing against a nationally ranked team," Vitale said. "We played with a lot of intensity. We've played just super basketball the last four games in our gymnasium. We've been awesome."

Akron jumped to a 6-2 lead in the first two minutes of the game before Detroit's Terry Duerod and Dennis Boyd sparked the Titans into a lead they never relinquished.

Detroit streaked to a 49-29 lead at the half. In the second half Vitale — who gained his 200th career coaching victory Wednesday — cleared the bench.

The Titan reserves outscored Akron 32-6 through the middle 10 minutes of the second half.

John Long chipped in with 18, Jeff Whitlow 14, Boyd 13, and Duerod 9 for Detroit. John Harrison paced Akron with 12 points, and Reggie Hannah added 10 for the 6-7 Zips.

Detroit now holds a 16-1 overall record.

Muskegon Rips Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Muskegon scored five unanswered goals in the second period for a 6-0 lead, then added two in the third period to crush Columbus 8-1 in an International Hockey League triumph Wednesday night.

The Owls' Steve Lyon ruined Mohawk Andre LePage's shut-out bid by scoring in the third period.

Columbus' Tom Cassidy and Mike Thompson, and Muskegon's Ed Pizunski were ejected.

Mike Usitalo led the Mohawk scoring with two goals. Other scorers were Pizunski, Bill Kestell, Joey Girardin, Mike Hordy, Yvon Vautour, Oliver Steward.

Columbus, 19-22-9, is tied with Dayton for top spot in the IHL Southern Division. Muskegon is 20-21-7, for fourth place in the Northern Division.

The Wildcats took a 38-25 lead at halftime to up their season total to 10-5.

The Green Knights, led by Mark Tonn's 17 points, dropped to 8-9.

In other Upper Peninsula college basketball action,

Michigan Tech defeated Northland, Wis., 61-58.

Two free throws from Scott Leu with 16 seconds remaining in the game clinched the victory.

Leu led the Huskies with 15 points, and Steve Peterson added 14.

Northland was led by Joe Fowler's 18 points.

Arnie Can Still Draw Huge Armies

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The legend lives on.

He has not won in years. Last season was the worst of his career. But Arnold Palmer still exerts his magic, unmatched influence at the gate.

Many of the younger players on the pro golf tour no longer hold him in awe. But the tournament sponsors do. He is the one man who can make or break a tournament.

Last week, as the partner of former President Gerald Ford, the played before what may have been the largest gallery golf ever has seen. It was a wildly enthusiastic, shouting, camera-clicking, stampeding horde. And Palmer loved every minute of it. It was home country to the man who is credited with building the modern game to its present popularity, the pants-hitching Pied Piper to the legions of his still-loyal followers.

"It was so much fun I just decided to keep on playing for a while," Palmer said before teeing off today in the first round of the $180,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open.

His presence, unusual for this tournament, brought the event its biggest gallery ever in Wednesday's Pro-Am. Hourlong traffic jams built up on the entrance to the Torrey Pines Golf Club. And they all were looking for Palmer.

He has not won in this country in four years. Last season, he won money in only 13 of 19 events. His winnings were only $17,000 — by far the worst of his career. Many thought he might not play again — or would play a greatly restricted schedule.

Not so.

He is scheduled for four consecutive events.

"Then we'll see," he said. "A lot will depend on how I'm playing."

And although he missed the cut last week, Palmer feels he still is very competitive, still capable of the victory that has eluded him so long.

"Golf is my life," said the 47-year-old Palmer, who has won 61 tour titles and a financial fortune. "I play because I want to, because I like it. I'll play as long as I think I can win."

While he did not rank among the favorites for the $36,000 first prize in this 72-hole test, he held the role of sentimental choice among the field of 156 and was certain to draw the tournament's biggest crowds.

J.C. Snead, winner of the last two San Diego tournaments, was favored to win for the third straight year.

His chief opposition included Masters champion Ray Floyd, Hubert Green, Dave Hill and veterans Billy Casper, Gene Littler and Miller Barber, along with the leaders in last week's Bing Crosby, winner Tom Watson and runner-up Tony Jacklin.

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

"The best way for a visiting team to win," North Carolina coach Dean Smith said Wednesday night, "is to let the home team get out to a big lead, then creep back and surprise them."

Smith really wasn't letting anyone in on some deep, dark secret because he had just seen Wake Forest, No. 10 in The Associated Press ratings, do precisely that to his fourth-ranked Tar Heels.

Wake Forest's Jerry Shellenberg sank two foul shots with 14 seconds remaining and a desperation 25-foot shot by North Carolina's Walter Davis rolled off the rim as the winners took over the Atlantic Coast Conference lead with a 67-66 triumph.

Shellenberg was fouled on a driving attempt as the Tar Heels tried to protect a one-point lead. Phil Ford fouled out on the play after pacing the losers with 19 points. Wake Forest's Rod Griffin led all scorers with 21 points while Shellenberg added 12, Frank Johnson and Larry Harrison had 11 and Skip Brown scored 10.

The Deacons raised their over-all record to 15-2 while North Carolina, which won at Wake Forest 77-75 earlier in the year, fell to 13-3.

Five other members of the Top Twenty were in action, headed by No. 1-ranked San Francisco, which boosted its record to 20-0, best in major college basketball, by rallying in the second half behind the shooting of Marion Redmond and Winford Boynes to defeat Santa Clara 74-68.

Twelfth-ranked Cincinnati, which had dropped two games in a row after being No. 2 in the country, survived a scare before pulling out a 68-60 triumph over Wichita State and stretching the nation's longest home winning streak to 54 games.

Meanwhile, Syracuse, No. 17, boosted its road record to 10-2 and won its eighth in a row over-all, holding off Temple 78-67 after piling up a 24-point bulge. No. 19 Clemson turned back Furman 94-66 while No. 20 Memphis State nipped New Orleans 88-86.

San Francisco's Redmond totaled 26 points and Boynes 21 but the victory was anything but easy. Santa Clara trailed 18-8 but led 38-32 in the second half. The score was tied twice after that before Boynes and Redmond scored two baskets apiece to send USF into a 60-52 lead.

Wichita State came from 13 points back and pulled to within 62-60 against Cincinnati but Robert Miller, who scored 17 points, stuffed a shot to give the Bearcats some breathing room.

Marty Byrnes paced Syracuse over Temple with 16 points but Lewis Orr and Larry Kelley sparked a second-half surge that turned a six-point lead into a runaway.

Clemson's Colon Abraham and Stan Rome went on a late scoring spree and finished with 22 points apiece as the Tigers held off stubborn Furman.

Memphis State's Dexter Reed, who failed to score in the first half, hit a short jumper with four seconds left in overtime for the last of his 13 points, providing the victory over New Orleans.

Elsewhere, Duck Williams scored 30 points to lead Notre Dame over Pitt 88-80, Kim Anderson scored 15 of his 17 points in the second half as Missouri beat Kansas State 66-49 and took over the Big Eight lead and Bucky Walden's 25 points helped Ohio University upset Mid-American Conference leader Western Michigan 80-74. Miami shaded Bowling Green 66-61 to tie for the lead.

In the Madison Square Garden Classic, Seton Hall topped defending champion Rutgers 88-75 and Holy Cross whipped Manhattan 82-64.

Ski Report

With bases ranging up to five feet, Michigan's downhill skiers can look forward to generally excellent weekend conditions at lodges, the Automobile Club of Michigan reported Wednesday.

West Michigan bases ranged from four to 46 inches, while Southeast Michigan bases varied from eight to 34 inches. East Michigan ski areas reported two-to-32 inch bases, while in the Upper Peninsula, bases varied from 10 to 30 inches.

The following conditions were reported:

Hope's Boyce Wins Honor

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP) — Two strong rebounding performances have earned center Dwayne Boyce of Hope College designation as Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association basketball player of the week.

The 6-foot-8 New Yorker, playing his fourth year of varsity ball, helped Hope become the only MIAA team to win two games last week.

In a nonconference 68-58 decision Wednesday over Aquinas, Boyce scored 16 points and grabbed 11 rebounds. Saturday in a 62-55 conference triumph over Adrian he scored eight points and picked off 14 rebounds.

New Colt GM Very Surprising

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dick Szymanski, the new general manager of the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League, is full of surprises.

In accepting the job Wednesday — after having served 22 years as a player, coach, scout and front office employee — Szymanski surprisingly said it was not a challenge.

"I'm not going to say it's a challenge," Szymanski said at a news conference. "Life is a challenge. This is pleasure."

And, players' agents may be in for a surprise, too, when they encounter the former center and linebacker across the negotiating table.

"Agents are easy to deal with," Szymanski said. "I can let my hair down with them. If they want to yell, I can yell, too."

"But with a player, you have to be low key. If they tell you they're the best at their position in the NFL, you don't want them to lose that feeling. If they think like losers, you'll have a losing team."

Szymanski said he would continue the club policies of deposed general manager Joe Thomas in refusing to offer no-cut contracts or to renegotiate existing agreements with players.

"I won't be an easy mark for anybody," the 44-year-old Szymanski said. "Agents will find I know what I'm doing."

He said he had handled negotiations on low-round draft choices in the past, with agents who also represent the No. 1 picks, and had discussed with Thomas his talks on the top choices.

"This change upset me very much," Szymanski said of the front office realignment by owner Robert Irsay. "Joe Thomas was a friend of mine, and I was loyal to him."

Irsay, who was brought into the NFL by Thomas in 1972, fired his original general manager last week following his continuing rift with Coach Ted Marchibroda.

Marchibroda quit a week before the opening game of the 1976 season, citing front office interference, then was rehired two days later following a threatened players' revolt in his behalf led by quarterback Bert Jones.

Tigers Looking Good...In Off Season

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — It's winter and everything looks rosy for the Detroit Tigers.

Optimism prevails. Nobody gets very serious. Everybody is rather lighthearted. Nobody is out of the pennant race yet.

It won't be like that in another five months.

But at off-season banquets the air is light and prospects for a possible lousy baseball season are sloughed off as merely possibilities and not probabilities that should be dwelled upon.

Mark "The Bird" Fidrych received his "Tiger of the Year" plaque from the Detroit chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America. He was voted the honor a few months ago but wasn't presented the award until the annual winter dinner meeting of the association at a Detroit restaurant.

Although there were a couple pointed questions directed at Tiger Manager Ralph Houk and General Manager Jim Campbell, it was basically an evening of jokes and casual banter.

Before things got underway Fidrych, a bachelor noted for having a way with women, asked for directions to the mens room.

"Hey, that's the ladies room!" he yelled to the person who gave him directions.

"That's all right. Go right in," said one waitress, apparently enamored by the rookie pitching sensation.

A year ago hardly anyone except his parents and friends knew who Mark Fidrych was. Today he is a celebrity.

What was he doing in January, 1976?

"Collecting unemployment," Fidrych said.

He was in Detroit's minor league system then and he said many minor leaguers file for unemployment benefits during the off season.

Ed Brown, chairman of the Detroit Baseball Writers, moderated the ceremonies and said several records were set for the evening. One of the was "for most consecutive banquets attended: Mark Fidrych, 15."

Fidrych has been bouncing from luncheons to dinners to luncheons to dinners over the last week as the Tigers prepare to head into their winter promotional campaign. The three-year contract the 21-year-old right-hander signed after last season obligates him to participate in such promotional activities.

Brown said Houk also set a record, "surpassing Bo Schembechler's teams with most consecutive passes: 17. He was asked to pass the herring, salt or pepper 17 times."

Campbell got up to say a few words and someone neglected to turn off the public address system into the banquet room.

"Patricia Solak. Patricia Solak," the voice announced over the loudspeaker.

Houk joked about moving ace reliever John Miller into Fidrych's spot in the starting rotation.

With the huge crowds Fidrych draws, the Tigers wouldn't mind starting the Bird every day.

"You're gonna have to pitch two days in a row once," Houk, with a big grin, told Fidrych.

There were, however, serious moments that undoubtedly will be explored in more detail by inquisitors as the season gets closer. Among them was the inevitable question of whether Houk believes the Tigers can logically compete for the American League pennant with the teams that spent so much money to buy free agents last fall.

"Our ball club rests on young players who have more ability than we've had in the last three years," Houk said. "We can be a club that is going to be competitive. We'll be 500... If we come up with another Fidrych, hey, we're in the race. If a (Steve) Kemp drives in 65 or 70 runs, if (Milt) May drives in 65 or 70 runs we're in the race."

"I think we have a ballclub that's getting back to where people will enjoy watching it."

What about Mickey Lolich? He wants to come back to Detroit after a year with the New York Mets, to whom he went in the trade that brought Rusty Staub to the Tigers. Will Campbell try to get him back?

Campbell said when Lolich signed the agreement okaying the trade, "he became the property of the New York Mets. In no way come hell or high water will I get involved with Mickey Lolich and his contract with the Mets."

Los Angeles Loses 'Power'

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Kings' winning streak ran out of power.

The Kings had seven power play opportunities against the Minnesota North Stars and failed to score on any of them.

In fact, the Kings went scoreless until there was only 6:02 to play in losing a 3-2 battle in the only National Hockey League game played Wednesday night.

The World Hockey Association Edmonton Oilers snapped Quebec's nine-game winning streak with a 5-4 overtime victory over the Nordiques in the only WHA game.

"I'd love to get a shutout," said Minnesota goalie Gary

Smith, who stopped 34 shots in ending the Kings' three game winning streak as his team extended its own winning streak to three. "The shutout doesn't mean that much as long as we won the game."

"It just didn't go in for us tonight. That's all," said Kings' Coach Bob Pulford, whose club had been unbeaten in its previous seven home games with six victories and a tie.

"Smith was hot and it was one of those nights. They worked hard, and our power play doesn't work against Minnesota."

The seven unsuccessful power plays gave the Kings a mark of only two goals in 15 power play opportunities against the North Stars this season.

Marcel Dionne's 29th goal of the year ended Smith's shutout bid and cut the Minnesota lead to 2-1. The Kings furiously attacked Smith's goal, trying for the equalizer. But the North Stars' netminder, who has beaten Los Angeles all three times he's faced them this year, held the Kings at bay until Roland Eriksson's 17th goal of the year insured the victory.

The Kings' Mike Murphy made it 3-2 with only five seconds remaining. Steve Jensen's shorthanded goal and Tom Youngblood's score had given Minnesota its 2-0 advantage.

Michigan Suppliers Wary Of Gas Allocation Plan

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Michigan gas companies reportedly feel they have enough natural gas to get them through the rest of an anticipated rough winter, provided the state does not get tapped too hard to help other states.

Arthur Seder Jr., chairman of American Natural Resources, parent firm of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., was among those who feel too broad an allocation program might take gas away from Michigan.

"We are not heroes, we want to keep our industrial plants in operation," he explained this week.

The allocation program, under study by Washington officials, would divert gas away from so-called gas-rich states like Michigan and give it to gas-poor states like Ohio, the Carolinas, Alabama and Georgia.

He said he would support allocation if it were used in true emergencies, where a gas company had already cut off service to all its industrial customers and was about to extend the cuts to hospitals, schools, small businesses and private homes.

American Natural said part of its present good standing in the midst of gas shortages was the fact it has its own pipeline, Michigan-Wisconsin Co., which gets gas from Canada and the U.S. and transports it to 37 gas companies in the Midwest.

Michigan Consolidated has, in addition to the pipeline, gas wells in Michigan, a supplemental supply of Canadian gas and enormous storage facilities. As a result, Michigan-Wisconsin has cut its deliveries by only 12 per cent compared to 30 per cent for most other gas companies in the state. The state's No. 2 gas company, Consumers Power, gets most of its gas from Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. In addition, Consumers built a key synthetic gas plant in Marysville and spent millions of dollars looking for gas in Michigan and the South. Both Michigan Consolidated and Consumers Power have made gas available to smaller companies in the state in the current days of short supply. Typical of steps being taken by industry to curtail use of gas during the shortage was the decision of Chrysler Corp. to cut its use of natural gas by 40 per cent through the end of February. Chrysler said it will burn oil and coal instead in boilers at six

Detroit area plants and at Highland Park headquarters. Ford and General Motors said they are considering giving up part of their gas supply too. "They asked us to volunteer and we did," said a Chrysler spokesman.

MSU GRAD: Darcy Ann Eisenhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Eisenhart, 628 East Glenford road, south of St. Joseph, recently received a bachelor of arts degree in elementary education from Michigan State University and is working as a substitute teacher in Berrien county public schools. She is a 1973 graduate of St. Joseph high school.

Violence Flares At Oak Park

OAK PARK, Mich. (AP) — A special police patrol remained on duty at Oak Park High School Wednesday after a series of incidents including a fight that left a female student with a broken jaw.

Police patrols were being used "to keep peace in the community," according to Glenford Leonard, director of public safety in Oak Park. He refused to say how many officers were assigned or how long they would remain in the suburban Detroit school.

Reports of a rash of assaults, minor robberies and other violence surfaced early this week and were discussed at a school board meeting attended by a group of angry parents.

LMC Picks Co-Op Study Director

Erick G. Pifer, Lake Michigan college assistant professor of secretarial science, has been named director of LMC's cooperative office education program. It has been announced by Dr. Walter F. Browne, executive vice-president.

Pifer replaces former director, Mrs. Patricia Skinner, associate professor of secretarial science, who has been granted a maternity leave of absence.

The new director joined the LMC faculty in 1973. A former director of community education for Covert Public Schools, Pifer holds a bachelor of science degree in business education from Union College, Barbourville, Ky., and a master of science degree in business education from the University of Kentucky. He currently is enrolled in Western Michigan University's master of business administration degree program in accounting.

LMC's cooperative office education program provides students with an opportunity to obtain college credit while receiving on-job training in area business offices. Office co-op students enroll in regular LMC classes during the period they are working part-time. Two semesters of office co-op education are available for LMC students.

One year after a mob stormed the Bastille, there was another revolutionary act in France of a quieter sort. Statesman Charles Maurice de Talleyrand-Perigord proposed that France's system of weights and measures be replaced by a new one, based on some unchanging standard found in nature. Indeed many of the measures abroad in the world — digit, cubit, foot — had their basis in the human body which, though a creature of nature, was an unfortunately variable one. Talleyrand spearheaded a move for the French National Assembly to authorize the Academy of Sciences to begin work on such a system. Talleyrand and scientists from the Academy sought a basic unit patterned on nature but invariable, so that the standard would remain the same regardless of where the system was used.

Furthermore, in the unlikely event that all the manufactured prototypes were destroyed, the basic standard could be reconstructed with the same precision as the original.

Almost as important, the scientists suggested that the system have a decimal base — divisible or multipliable by tens — to make it easier to use and simpler to teach.

After study and debate, the Academy chose the term meter after the Greek word metron, meaning measure, and determined that its length should be precisely one ten-millionth of the arc from the North Pole to the Equator, on a meridian through Paris.

While that seemed sufficiently precise at the time, scientists later learned that the shape of the earth — and therefore the length of the imaginary north-south meridians — were neither uniform nor unchanging.

That would lead them, in 1960, to measure the meter by the orange red wavelengths emitted by the krypton-86 atom.

But back in 1775, they knew nothing of krypton-86, and on April 2, that year, France officially adopted the decimal system of measurement that was the forerunner of what we currently call the metric system.

The basic units of the system were:

- The meter, a measure of length, as previously described.
- The are, a measure of land area, equivalent to a square with sides 10 meters long.
- The stère, a measure of bulk, such as wood cut for fuel.

One stère was equivalent to the bulk enclosed in a cube with sides of one meter.

— The liter, a measure of volume or capacity, dry, liquid or gaseous, equal to the volume of a cube one-tenth of a meter to a side.

— The gram, a measure of mass, equivalent to the mass of pure water contained in a cube 1/100 meter on edge, measured just above freezing.

There was a certain beauty to the scheme of measures. It began with a discernible, reproducible natural standard — the meter. All of the measures of capacity and weight were directly related to the basic unit of length and measured by it.

The scientists were proud of their new system. Sometime later, it was decided that multiples of the basic units would be indicated by prefixes drawn from the Greek — thus kilometer was 1,000 meters, hectometer was 100 meters, dekameter was 10 meters.

Subdivisions of the basic units would be indicated by Latin prefixes — this decimeter was one-tenth of a meter, centimeter was 1/100th of a meter, millimeter was one-thousandth of a meter.

As so often happens, the new system, regardless of how neat and tidy it was, did not win immediate acceptance from the French or anyone else. The French people in general rejected the metric system because they felt it just gave them unfamiliar names for old things. They knew and understood peds and livres, but what's a meter? What's a liter? Napoleon did not force his own people to use metrics — but his armies imposed French law on the nations they invaded, and with French law, French measures. So planted in Italy, Germany, Holland and Belgium, the metric system grew in stature as trade increased. Twenty years after Napoleon died, the French government mandated the exclusive use of the metric system in France, and after Jan. 1, 1900, ordered penalties on anyone using the old system. So do old orders pass, slowly.

Jerks Don't Get On Quiz Shows

By LAURINDA KEYS Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — From the moment contestants for the "Cross-Wits" game show arrived at the Hollywood studio for a Sunday of taping, we were guarded and herded — even to the bathroom.

We were told repeatedly: "Don't talk to the makeup man, don't talk to the celebrities, they might have seen the answer to a puzzle without even knowing it and inadvertently give you the answer. Then we couldn't use you, and we want to use you."

Ever since the quiz show scandals of the '50s that answered the $64,000 Question with jail sentences, everyone involved in game shows is almost paranoid about contact between contestants and anyone connected with the show.

We were there for a camera run-through of a complete game. The run-through is done just like a real show, we were encouraged to get excited, "just as if you're really winning those prizes."

It was a familiar theme, heard from the very first interview a month before when the dullards were being weeded out.

"We want two contestants who are likable so the audience won't know who to root for," says producer Ray Horl. His assistant, Gil Cofrancesco, elaborates: "No matter how well someone plays, if they're a jerk they won't get on the show. Why should we give these prizes to someone we don't like?"

It's fairly easy to try out for almost any television game show. Many advertise in the classified section of newspapers. Would-be contestants can simply call up and ask to take a test. I answered a newspaper ad and was given an appointment for the same week. At my screening session, about 30 people showed up at the cramped "Cross Wits" production office near Hollywood and Vine about a mile from the studio. We took the test and filled out questionnaires about the most interesting incidents in our lives, hobbies, anything that could get a conversation going.

A month later, I received a call telling me to dress up as if I were going to dinner and come prepared with an interesting anecdote.

Producer Horl is pure Hollywood, dressed in blue suede shoes, a leather leathersuit with the shirt open to his navel and a gold medalion necklace. He looks pleased at the applause.

Horl's method of interviewing prospective contestants can be kindly described as brutal. "That's a pretty big bump on your nose. Why don't you have any children? Why aren't you married, what's wrong with you? Do you live with someone?"

The purpose behind it is to find that 20 per cent of the tryouts who will be called in two weeks to appear for a taping, those who can be loose and glib, and most important, smile through anything.

Although I never caught up with my opponent and he won the chance to try for a Caribbean cruise, I was happy about prizes (a diamond brooch and $25 worth of pie crusts, hand lotion and cleaning fluid) I did win, and ready for my next game show.

I'll have to wait awhile. Most quiz programs, including "Cross-Wits," won't use anyone who has been a game show contestant within the past year.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Heads Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices headed lower again today, continuing the decline that left the market at an early-1977 low on Wednesday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was going about a point in the early going. Losers took a 5-3 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said investors were generally unhappy with the earnings reports issued so far by major companies for the fourth quarter of last year.

And they also noted some doubts about first quarter prospects with cold weather over much of the country squeezing energy supplies and economic activity.

Today's early prices included Sterling Drug, down 1/4 at 15 1/2; Chrysler, unchanged at 21 3/4; Xerox, off 1/2 at 53 1/2; and American Telephone & Telegraph, up 1/4 at 63 1/2.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 7.39 to a new early-1977 low of 958.33. Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 5-3 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached a six-week high of 27.84 million shares, against 26.34 million on Tuesday.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .39 to 55.75.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .27 at 112.15.

Engineer On Area Jobs Joins Firm

Raymond Smit, a civil engineer who has worked extensively on Twin Cities area water and sewer projects, has been named a partner in the Ann Arbor engineering firm of McNamee, Porter and Seeley.

Smit, 48, joined McNamee, Porter and Seeley in 1974, after serving eight years as a state representative from Ann Arbor. Smit previously was with the Ann Arbor engineering firm of Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May. During this period, Smit helped plan a Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce report in the mid-1960's on water service for 12 area communities. He was active in the Lake Michigan Shoreline Water authority, established for extension of water from the Twin Cities to Lincoln and St. Joseph townships.

Smit said he was involved in the early planning for the Hickory Creek sewer interceptor and also was active to a lesser degree in plans for the Paw Paw lake regional sanitary sewer system.

TROOPERS READY

Truckers Threaten Slowdown Monday

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Some independent truckers are talking about staging a slowdown on Michigan highways Monday as part of a nationwide effort to raise the speed limit, but state troopers will be waiting for them.

"Enforcement action will be taken whenever a slowdown is detected," Lt. Col. Lloyd Brevard, commander of the uniform division, told troopers in a message Wednesday.

Harland Wilcox, president of the Michigan chapter of the Independent Truckers Association (ITA), reportedly said that up to 50,000 truckers across the country might participate in the demonstration. Truckers were urged to drive 40 miles per hour. The minimum speed limit on interstate highways is 45 m.p.h.

"They aren't as organized as it might seem," a state police spokesman said of the independent truckers. "The Teamsters Union disavowed any plan to help them, and we can't even locate the leader of the gang."

There are about 250 non-union, independent truckers in Michigan.

Wilcox said ITA members will meet Saturday in Lansing to talk about the slowdown. He said the 55 m.p.h. speed limit on freeways has cost drivers millions of dollars because it takes them longer to make trips and trucks use more fuel at lower speeds.

Wilcox said the ITA doesn't agree with safety experts that reduced speed limits have saved lives.

Robert Lins, president of the Detroit Teamsters Local 299, which represents about 1,000 drivers, said the national speed limit has caused few problems for members. He said his union will not support the demonstrations.

State police don't know how widespread the slowdown will be on Monday.

"We aren't really sure this will even come off. We don't know if they're really got something going or if they're just blowing a lot of hot air," a spokesman said.

Kerr Mfg. Workers Join UAW

ROMULUS, Mich. (AP) — Employees of the Kerr Manufacturing Co. in Romulus narrowly voted Wednesday to enter the United Auto Workers union.

Only 10 of 233 Kerr employees did not cast ballots in the election, UAW officials said.

The vote was 114-100 in favor of the union. Seven other votes were challenged and two voided, the UAW said.

"Kerr has successfully fought off a number of moves by employees in the past," UAW Region 1E director Bard Young said. "We are pleased that the employees have finally won, and have joined the United Auto Workers."

Company officials were not available to comment.

Kerr, a division of Sybron Corp., manufactures dental equipment.

Kinney Gets Top General Mills Post

E. Robert Kinney has been elected Chairman of the Board and chief executive officer of General Mills and H. Brewster Atwater, Jr., has been elected President, and chief operating officer by the company's board of directors. Both moves become effective Feb. 1.

General Mills last year acquired a controlling interest in Saluto Foods, a major producer of frozen pizza headquartered in Benton township.

Kinney, who has been President of General Mills since 1973, and chief executive officer since last June, succeeds James P. McFarland, currently Chairman of the Board, who will retire at age 65 on Feb. 1. Atwater, an executive vice president since 1970, has been the company's chief operating officer since June, 1976.

McFarland, who has served as Chairman of the Board since November 1969, will continue as a member of the company's board of directors.

Kinney, 59, has been associated with General Mills since 1968 when the Gorton Corporation, of which he had been president since 1958, merged with General Mills. He was named a vice president of General Mills in September, 1968, was elected to the Board of Directors in 1970, and served as chief financial officer from 1970 to 1973, when he was named President and chief operating officer.

Atwater, 45, joined General Mills in 1958 in sales and served in a variety of marketing assignments before being named successively Marketing Vice President and general manager of the grocery products division. In December, 1970, he was named Executive Vice President for the consumer foods group, and in June, 1971, was elected to the board of directors.

Dow Urges Change In Permit Rule

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The administration of California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. and Dow Chemical Co. both urge changes in the permit process which the company says made it decide not to build a $500 million petrochemical plant.

That testimony came at a legislative hearing on reasons for the Midland, Mich.-based firm's announcement last week that it would not pursue the 65 permits needed to build a Solano County plant.

Bill Press, Gov. Brown's environmental planning adviser, admitted the state, local and federal permit process is "just too cumbersome to tolerate."

The Democratic governor's aide proposed a law be passed requiring state agencies to approve or reject major projects within one year after the state receives final application.

Ray Brubaker, Dow's West Coast manager, also urged a one-year limit but said the period should begin as soon as a company announces its intention to build a project.

Chrysler To Expand State Plant

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. revealed plan Wednesday for a $54 million improvement at its Mound Road engine plant here.

Chrysler said the 800,000-square-foot facility will be expanded by 100,000 square feet to accommodate a new cylinder block line. Some existing machinery will be replaced, lunch rooms added, exhaust systems improved and parking facilities replaced under the rehabilitation.

Chrysler took advantage of a 1974 Michigan law allowing cities to forego levying taxes on improvements or expansions of factories for 12 years. The law was designed as an incentive to keep industry from moving out of the state.

Jack Pryor of the city's Community and Economic Development Department said the Mound Road plant renovation is the largest Detroit project ever to be considered under the two-year-old law.

Surgeon Protests Ticket

GROSSE POINTE, Mich. (AP) — A Grosse Pointe surgeon's refusal to pay a $5 parking ticket landed him 30 minutes in the city jail Wednesday before his hospital bailed him out.

"This is strictly principle," said Dr. Francis Day, 49, who was literally carried off to the slammer by three police officers when he went limp after being assessed the $5 fine and another $5 for court costs.

Day said he needed to attend to a seriously ill patient in Bon Secours Hospital on Nov. 3 but couldn't find a legal parking place. So he pulled in front of the hospital — a no parking zone — and found a ticket slapped on his car when he returned.

"I'm not real enthusiastic about the judge telling me that whether I was right or wrong, I still have to do it (pay the fine)," Day said.

The hospital is not to blame for its parking problems, Day said. He said it wants to expand parking facilities but the city refuses to give permission.

"I think it's silly," said Lt. Robert Van Tiem, acting Grosse Pointe police chief.

Youth, 17, Arrested On Sex Charge

Benton Harbor police reported Harris Parks Jr., 17, of 680 East Vineyard street, was arrested Wednesday on a warrant charging third degree criminal sexual conduct (sodomy).
Det. Bill Elliott said the arrest was made as result of investigation into an alleged sexual attack against a 14-year-old boy Jan. 19.

Police said the heater was owned by Calvin Sayre, 2170 Berg street, Benton township.

the construction of a new power plant on the Ohio River in Spencer County, Ind. The new facility, which is contingent on the company's ability to arrange sufficient financing, would have a generating capacity of 2.6 million kilowatts and an estimated cost of $1.3 billion. Its two coal burning 1.3-million kilowatt generating units would be placed in service in 1981 and 1982, respectively.

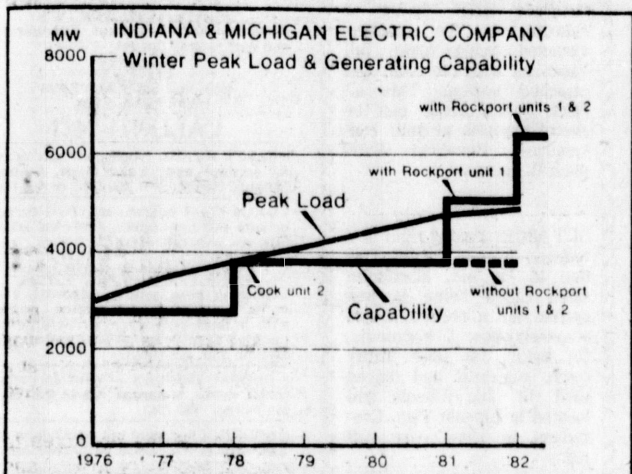

The plant, which will be located between the towns of Rockport and Grandview, will be essential to meeting the therefore will have less power to spare to others like I&M. The recent cold weather which caused record electricity consumption and record purchases by I&M from the power pool was a vivid example of what could happen in the next decade. Though I&M did not have to curtail power deliveries to industry, many utilities around the country did in order to continue to serve residential customers.

Attached is a chart showing I&M's generating capacity from its present plants and the projected customer demands through the early 1980's. Even when the second unit at Cook power requirements of I&M's customers in the 1980's. Without it, the possibility of power shortages, brownouts and blackouts could become a reality. I&M is presently generation deficient (does not have enough generating capacity to handle all customer demands) and makes up for this shortage through purchases from the American Electric Power System pool.

The power pool is not, however, the answer to I&M's situation. Companies presently feeding power into the pool will also have increased demands to meet in the 1980's and

However, projections and forecasts for the 1980's indicate that there will be problems meeting electrical energy demands. Predictions for load growth in 1976 over 1975 were 5-6 percent. The actual increase for the industry was 6.3 percent. The severe weather this January caused a new peak demand on the I&M system which was 5 1/2 percent

CHIKAMING ZONING 'YES' VOTE URGED

Editor,
Saturday, Feb. 5, 1977, Chikaming township voters will have an opportunity to vote on the subject of retaining the revised zoning ordinance No. 29 for the township.

This zoning ordinance has been in effect since July, 1976, and this election constitutes a referendum to approve or disapprove that ordinance.

What is zoning? Zoning is the regulation by district of building development and uses of property and must have a reasonable relationship to the public health, safety, moral and general welfare of the community. The zoning ordinances require the building of proper housing in the area and often prevents slum areas from beginning.

The preservation of attractive homes is related to the general welfare because the "beauty of residential neighborhoods is for the comfort and happiness of require changes or variances for a better use of their land, but this can be accomplished under the present zoning ordinances. Under no circumstances should the zoning ordinance be dropped. This would be a huge step backward, when we should be progressing forward.

You, as a concerned resident voter of Chikaming Township, should vote yes on Saturday, Feb. 5, 1977, for the betterment of this beautiful community.

READER CRITICIZES OBITUARY NOTICE

Editor,
I have just finished reading the obituary of the young man who hung himself accidentally and found your presentation appalling. Has the Palladium adopted the style of the National Enquirer? I expect, next, to find a front page feature on the excretory habits of the field mouse or a front page picture of a jackel retching.

Never in your obituaries have I seen such lurid detail explaining a person's death. Usually when I seek the cause of a demise there is nothing mentioned. Now you have gone to the opposite extreme and elaborate on a certain "ritual of gratification." This is head page garbage for a scandal sheet and you choose to fill your Obit column, usually reserved for solemn epitaphs and a recapitulation of survivors, with a thoughtless expose.

How the family must have suffered after seeing your vituperative and reckless effort. Where has your common sense of decency gone? Has the H/P become so apathetic to the feelings of the family that it produces such vacuous tripe?

Whoever has the responsibility of preparing the lamentations is imprudent. Whoever has the responsibility of overseeing the efforts is supine. Whoever has the responsibility for policy has gone astray. And finally, the person who publishes this paper, and allows such inane civility, has lost the respect; not to mention the readership of this writer.

There is so much to disdain about your supposed "herald" and your continuing failure to proclaim the real problems in Berrien county, but when you foul up the journalistic air with such malevolence your true worth becomes evident. The three quarters of a dollar and a dime that I pay weekly to receive your newspaper now seems exorbitant.
